Monday's Municipal Contest a Victory for High Principles Backed by Sound Arguments.

MAYOR INGLE AND HIS TRUSTY MEN RETURNED TO POWER

The Most Exciting Election Campaign Ever Held in Lindsay Proves that the Solid Sense of the People May be Trusted When the Issues are Made Plain—The New Council: Mayor Ingle and Aldermen O'Reilly, Hore, Jackson, McDiarmid, Burrows, Sinclair.

one arrayed against them.
One thing is certain—when the polls opened Monday morning at 0 o'clock the public feeling was at a white heat and soon after a further fillip was given by the distribution of several fly-sheets intended to controvert the Post editorials of Saturday availar. The do jars were tion of several fly-shects intended to controvert the Post editorials of Saturday evening. The doi:grs were signed by Doctor Burrows and Dougald Sinclair and the subject matter was not in keeping with the Sabbath flavor of the printing. The wild statements made carried no weight with reasonable, thinking citizens. When Mayor Ingle promptly disproved one of the boddest assertions, which was fathered by Mr. Sincialr, the dodgers began to make votes for the parties aimed at, and for the balance of the day the Mayor was an assiduous distributor of his opponents' bundle of Sunday tracts for Monday reading.

While the Watchman-Warder-perhaps through ignorance, perhaps designediy-professed to believe that the only issue in the campaign was the location of the new fire hall, it was patent to any keen observer that other influences were at work, and that the suspicions of many who feared an attack on the Police and Water Commissions, and perhaps on other institutions, were well founded. The attempt to discredit the good sense and judgment of the Board of Trade, composed of our leading citizens, had evidently been intended as a sop to a small body of ratepayers whose personal animus against some of the members would prompt from to seize on the excuse offered and berate the members of the old Connell because they had refused to turn down the advice tendered by the Board of Trade, even when it happened to be in accord with their own sound judgment. It was known also thirt some of the

MAYORALTY CONTEST.
The defeat of Mr. Smyth last year was attributed by his friends to the fact that he was offering for a third was attributed by his friends to the fact that he was offering for a third time, in the face of the general sentiment that the occapant of the Mayor's chair should be content to step down and out at the end of his second term. This year, when Mr. Smyth refused to extend to Mayor Ingle the courtesy of a second term,—a claim which had been put forward in his own favor several times, and successfully—it became plain that Mr. Smyth had leagued himself—in effect at least-with the men whose aim was to punish Mayor Ingle and certain of his colleagues for their refusal to reinstate Bell when a motion to that effect was introduced early last year by Alderman Sinclair. To that combination and to that aim must be attributed much of the bitternoss of Monday's contest.

Mayor Ingle put up a grand light, and at no time during the day did he lose confidence in a good majority. When a leading citizen, after a visit to a south ward polling place where Smyth ballots were said to be dropping into the box as fast as leaves find their way to the carth in antumn, came back and reported, and when at the same time adverse accounts came in from the east ward, George merely laughed and said, "Wait till 5 colcock, boys; I'll have a larger majority than last and Aldermen O'Reilly, Hore, Jackson, McDiarmid, Burrows will support changing the fire hall site. Now is your last opportunity to save your market square. Do not be muddled; vote the issue. Do the thing that needs to be done. Under Mayor Smyth you will not have such financial errors and mechanical blunders as have staggered the town in the past year—nor any deficits. The town is in that position to-day that calls for a man of Mr. Smyth's careful economical disposition. With his election the feeling of security will return. Another year like the past, and where will you land?"—Watchman-Warder editorial, Jan. 2.

What shall we say about the election of Monday? The story is told in the headlines above—all we have to do is to supply some of the interesting details.

It is to be regretted that the contest was marked by much bitterness. For that Mayor Ingle and his supporters are not responsible—if they bit hard it was in self-defence, and because of the unfair influences being arrayed against them.

One thing is certain—when the polls opened Monday morning at a white heat and soon after a further fillip was given by the distribution of several fly-sheets intended to several fly-sheets intended

THE ALDERMANIC VOTE.
The magnificent vote taken by Ald. O'Rielly—725 as against 573 last year, or a gain of 142—18 a grait fying proof of the value placed upon his services by our citizens, and justifies every word we have said in his favor. As a painstaking, honest servant of the town, with an abundance of good ideas and a native modesty which should save him from any feeling of over-confidence in his powers, he deserves the proof of confidence manifested in yesterday's vote. THE ALDERMANIC VOTE.

from any feeling of over-confidence in his powers, he deserves the proof of confidence manifested in yesterday's vote.

"Honest John" Hore, who headed the poll last year with a total of 578 votes, stood second Monday with 623 votes—a gain of 45. In view of 4he general situation the result must be very cheering to that gentleman—as it is to his host of friends.

A very gratifying feature of the campaign is the return of Mr. Jackson, against whom a "dead set" was made—mainly for the reason mentioned by Mr. Flavelle at the nomination meeting—"because he is too d—n straight." Mr. Jackson proved an invaluable member last year, and in view of the odium heaped upon him, and the predictions that he would be snowed under completely, his election by a lessened total of 85 votes is something of which he way well feel proud.

The election of Mr. McDlarmid, who received a total of 417 votes, will give the town the services of another good councillor, who may be depended on to give Mayor Ingle and his colleagues a faithful support in all good measures.

The return of Dr. Burrows and Mr. Sinclar proves that the voters are able to discriminate between them and their friends. Alone, their influence may—and we trust will be—for good, but backed up by some of the candidates offering, mischief would be almost certain to result. Hence they were shorn of their following.

Doctor Jack

By St. GEORGE RATHBORNE,

Author of "Doctor Jack's Wife," Captain Tem," Baron Sam" "Miss Pauline of New York." Miss Caprice," Ecc.

"Well, the first part of their scheme has been a fallure—we can outwit them, I rather guess, and if not, then we'll fight."

we'll fight."
"Bravo'! Larry, old boy. Never fear but that two such cronies as you and I will fall upon them hip and thigh if the occasion arises. But I hope to avoid it by leaving the train at Logrono, and waiting over until to-morrow. By the way, are you armed, Larry?"

at Logrono, and wating over the morrow. By the way, are you armed, Larry?"

The dude nods.

"I've got a revolvah in my hip pecket, and was accounted the crack shot of the Bon Ton Rifle Club in New York," he makes reply.

"Better and better. I myself am no mean marksman, and I have a dandy six-shooter in my portmanteau, which, as you see, the guard has placed under the seat there. We will not worry over the matter, old fellow. Let us go to the ladies—they look this way, as though wondering what we are plotting about."

Soon they are all eating fruit and chatting as merrily as though not the slightest shadow hung over them. But Jack speedily becomes aware of a certain fact—it causes him additional worry. Avis has turned as cold as an iccle toward him. When she chats with the rest she is as merry as of yore, but if he asks her a question she answers in the shortest way possible.

Even the others notice her manner—how can they help it—and wisely decide that a chance should be given these two to make up, for already they look upon Jack and Avis as lovers.

As for Doctor Jack, he is puzzled over the action of the girl. He knows no reason for it, and is about to set the thing down as some peculiarity in her disposition—his experiences in the past have warned him that truth lies in that old refrain of the poets:

"Oh! woman, in our hour of ease, Uncertain, coy, and hard to please. And variable as the shade By the light, quivering aspen made— When pain and anguish wring the

A ministering angel, thou."

As chance will have it, he finds himself with the young girl while the train rolls on up the valley of the Ebro. Avis has something on her mind, but she does not know how to go about introducing it. If Jack only knew what it was he would gladly help her, but by accident he stumbles into the breach.

Into the breach.

They see talking of some queer things seen on the way, and Jack happens to express his opinion of people with black eyes, first looking into the translucent depths of her own blue orbs.

the translucent depths of her own blue orbs.

"Strange as it may seem, my fancy has always been in that direction—I have declared to my friends that if I ever married it would be a man with black eyes. I adore them," she says, just like a woman intent on causing him pain.

"The pasha has the finest I ever saw in a man," he returns, nonchalantly, but the thrust only causes her to gasp a little, and resume:—

"And I never saw such wonderful eyes in my life as were possessed by the peasant boy of Castile you were talking with at Zaragoza."

Doctor Jack smiles—he has discovered what is on the mind of Avis now, even before she sails her craft any closer to windward.

As you noticed him, I was wishing you would. I should have thought him.

"Indeed! I should have thought that under such circumstances you would have brought him up to the car window," she says, coldly.

Jack is entirely unmoved—firm in his position, knowing he has only done all that a true man might, he does not shrink from the investigation about to begin at the hands of the fair girl he loves.

"I endeavoured to influence him, but he would not come. Too modest, I presume, Miss Avis."

She laughts at this—how disagreeshly even the sweetest girl in the world can laugh when she wants to be particularly perverse—and Avis.

world can laugh when she wants to be particularly perverse—and Avis Morton just now is struggling with a little define her heart has never known before—sealousy.

Jack casts a side glance at her—wonders as to what she knows, and how much she suspects, and in the next breath learns all.

"It was my opinion, Doctor Evans, that I had never seen more effrontery exhibited by any one than was shown by—that person."

The last words are snoken through her pearly teeth with particular force, and Jack knows now that Mercedes has been unmasked—her secret has not been able to stand before the clear vision of those keen Yankee eyes. He hardly understands just how to go about it, but an explanation in certainly in order, and nothing—ut the whole truth will—autify Avis.

"Miss worton, there is no need of you and I mincing words. We understand each other. I am led to believe from what you say that you derstand each other. I am led to be-lieve from what you say that you have discovered that boy's secret."

"Boy—well, no doubt other eyes were deceived, but not mine," she replies, and there is a touch of eagerness in her voice, for she has a curiosity to know what has caused the haughty Spanish woman to so demean herself as to appear in this humble disguise.

"You recognized her by her eyes?"

"Wel, I remembered seeing such dazzling orbs before—something sent a suspicion into my brain, and when she looked at me I knew I was right, for she seemed ashamed. Now Doctor Evans, I don't know whether you owe me an explanation or not, but I have believed and trusted in you as a gentleman, and unless you have objections I should like to know why Mercedes Gonzales is on the same train with you, in deep disguise, and why she talked with you so earnestly at the station."

Straight to the point these come, Well, I remembered seeing such Straight to the point these come, but Jack is ever ready to defend the absent, which trait is one of the nob-lest in his make-up.

"First of all, Avis—Miss Morton—before I tell you the whole story from the beginning, I must beg that you will not condemn the Senorita Mercedes from our cold American standpoint. They do things differently here in old Spain, and that she is possessed of a noble nature after all, I can prove by telling you that she is even now risking her own life to save us from a threatened danger—warning of which she gave me at Zaragoza."

warning of which she gave me at Zaragoza."

At this Avis looks sorry—her cold manner vanishes like the hoar-frost in the morning sun, and upon her face steals a look of eager anticipation. Already her heart is warming toward the Spanish girl, and it will soon beat with even greater sympathy when she learns how Mercedes, in her strange way, played for the stake and falled to graps it.

Jack glances toward the others—Aunt Sophie is fast asleep, and Larry head ever ears in a French novel that chains his attention. The coast is clear, the rattle of the train prevents other ears catching his words than those are intended for.

The doctor is a capital story-teller—he has proven this upon the same audience when he related his adventures in Turkey at the time her brother got into trouble. Avis unconsciously snuggles down closer in order to near better, and—well, Jack makes no objection.

into trouble. Avis unconsciously snuggles down closer in order to near better, and—well, Jack makes no objection.

He Cegins whan his visit to the mountains, tells of Don Carlos, then of Barcelona, the pretty flower girl of the Rambla, the adventure in the streets, and the nun of Gerona. Then he goes on to tell of the buill-fight and all has happened in Madrid.

When he comes to Mercedes' visit to his botel he tries to soften the Spanish girl's actions as well as he can, and although Avis despises the one who could thus sue for a man's love, she cannot but regard Jack with more respect because he tries to shield Mercedes and make light of her folly. One thing burns to the heart of the New York girl—Jack has hinted that when he first saw Mercedes he was somewhat struck by her intense beauty, and that only for a certain thing he might have returned her love—what does he mean—can it be possible—why does the blood leap so wildly through her veins at the bare thought of such a possibility?

There is a magnetic power about this man, and to herself she admits that he has come through the flery furnace unscathed—yes, and with an added lustre in her sight. He is one to be proud of—a faithful friend, and as a lover—well, she dares not think upon such a forbidden subject, but declares secretly that Jack Evans is by far the noblest character she has ever met.

by far the noblest character she has ever met.

When Jack finishes his story Avis knows all, even the danger in prospect, and yet this does not alarm her, since Jack will be there. She has already learned to rely upon his mighty right arm, and should the occasion ever come when the American athlete must bow to superior numbers in her presence, Avis will be doubly shockad, believing him injunicible.

Evening is coming on apace, and the train still winds in and out, up the valley of the Ebro. It is very picturesque as seen in the light of declining day. At the next station the guard enters and lights the lamps,

Jack has ordered a bountiful sup-

Jack has ordered a bountiful sup-per, which is put aboard here in the same manner that the dinner was, and as they annihilate space—that sounds very big for use upon a Spanish rali-poad, but it happens that just then they are making pretty good time—they are making pretty good time-they set about enjoying the meal. Then they chat about various things, and the time passes away. All is got-ten in readiness for leaving the car-rlage at Logrono, where they will find a decent hotel, and can await the train that leaves for Bayone about three that leaves for Bayonne about three Jack finds it is ten o'clock.

"In half an hour or so we will be there," he says. Larry declares they are behind time, and the speed with which they travel seems to prove that some thing is wrong.

Half-past ten arrives—there is no town in sight at all. About twelve minutes later they rush into a place—lights are seen—a whistle shrieks, bells lingle—they pass a station on which people can be detected, and once more plunge into the darkness beyond.

Doctor Jack turns to Larry—the latter is aghast.

"Pon 'onah's that's durent with the seen and the danger—even Larry delivers himself of a singular mixture of choice expressions such as are heard upon Broadway in the vicinity of the Brunswick, and nowhere else, by means of which he intends to let the surplus steam escape.

As for Avis, she stands there as white as chalk, and with her starry eyes fastened upon Doctor Jack. In an emergency like this, thank God for the presence of a man.

the presence of a man.
The latter, after throwing his last words at Larry, coolly bends down and selzes his portmanteau, which has been lying snugly ensconsed under a seat. With a turn and a toss he has it out upon the floor. The others watch him in dumb anxiety while he fits a key, and then throws open the little leather trunk.

Inserting his hand he draws out two

Inserting his hand he draws out two leather holsters of unusual size, such as might be worn by the dashing cowboys of the wild West. Each of these holds a weapon of some sort.

Laying them on the seat, Jack again locks the pormanteau. Then he places it against the side of the car in such a way that it will afford protection in the threatening engagement.

"Come, Larry, took alive, man. We must do our level best to beat these fellows. Take all the cushions, and form a rampart—they will make almost as good a fort as sand bags."

The dude sees the idea, and catches some of his enthusiasm. He springs to the task, and in a short space of time the interior of that first-class compartment presents a most singular and ridiculous appearance, to say the least. With the cushions and svery-thing that can be made available, the men have formed a bullet-proof barylicade, behind which one might tile in recurity while leaden rain rattled about, for the hair in the cushions would arrest the progress of any ball. True, there is only room for two behind it—Avis notices this fact, and looks at Jack.

"Where will you be ?" she asks anxiously—for already her interest in his welfare is great, and it makes a great difference to her whether he is wounded or unhurt.

Jack smiles in reply—it gives him a peculiar satisfaction to realize that she is worried about his condition.

"Oh! Larry and I will get on well enough out here, I reckon."

"I presume you are builet-proof," sarcastically.

"Not exactly, but you see we can crouch down, and if we are struck "—with a shring of the shoulders—why, it's the fortune of war."

"Very good—of course you can please yourselves so far as that is conceeded, but you forget that if both of you are show we snae as a fance of the well as possible, then when the time comes, and should the builets fly too thickly, we may creep behind the barrier, too. I confess your last argument has floored me." He speaks a little coldly, as though wounded by her words, and solzing the opportunity while Larry is stowing Madame Sophie away, Avis bends her head close to the eurly becks of Jack, whispering:

"Forgive me—I only used that as an argument. It was you I thought of, not myself," and before he can turn she is besile Madame Sophie.

"Are you all right?" asks Jack. He receives a look from Avis that nearly sets him wild, for it tells him how anxious the New York girl is about his welfare. Every one having answered in the affirmative, Doctor Jack proceeds to quickly extinguish the lamps.

Darkness comes—inky darkness. The train is gradually slowing up, so that whatever may be in store for them they must soon know the worst. It is a wild country just along here, and the whistle of the locomotive has sounded as though they were passing through a deep valley, the echoes are so loud.

sounded as though they were passing through a deep valley, the cchoes are so loud.

Doctor Jack presses his face against the window, and endeavours to see what is coming. There is a great light of some sort ahead—it flashes and flickers as might a huge fire, which is probably the cause of the filumination. Jack is glad of this, as it will give them a chance to see what goes on. If they can remain in darkness while their enemies are in the light the advantage must surely rest with them.

Slowly the train creeps along, and at length, after several jerks, comes to a full stop. The shouts of excited men can be heard, and also a rearing, crackling sound, as the huge fire burns up the combustible material given to it, while the pulsations of the engine may be detected at regular intervals. Taken altogether, and considering the fact that they are the cause of all this excitement, the situation is one that can never be forgotten by the American tourists. The women hold their breath with suspense, and pray—the men grit their teeth avd watch.

Louder and hoarser grow the shouts—they are approaching nearer. Jack drops a window, and thrusts his head out. He sees a sight well calculated to thrill even the bravest man when he remembers that it is himself all this racket is about.

Larry declares they are behind time, and the speed with which they travel seems to prove that some thing is wrong.

Half-past ten arrives—there is no town in sight at all. About twelve minutes later they rush into a place—lights are seen—a whistle shrieks, belis lingle—they pass a station on which people can be detected, and once more plunge into the darkness beyond.

Doctor Jack turns to Larry—the latter is aghast.

"Pon 'onah! that's dused queer," gasps the dude.

"That was Logrono, sure onough—we are late, and the conductor must have had orders not to stop. All very good, but I guess we're in for it, Larry, my boy," adds Jack, with a grim smile.

CHAPTER XVI.

The situation is appalling—Madame Sophie shrieks and hides her face with the her hands, for she has been tidd the monchalance that distinguisher a score of men—they advance in the danger—even Larry delivers himself of a singular mixture of choice expressions such as are heard upon Broadway in the vicinity of the Brunswick, and nowhere clse, by means of which he hidends to let the surplus steam escape.

As for Avis, she stands there as white as it chalk, and with her starry the fact that the time is hardy a proleaf the fact that they are tead to the racket by their cries of terror. The two women in the barntended control to stop and the proposition is a that control in the fact that they are the fact that they are the fact that the prevate and pray—the men grit their teeth and pray flends leaping forward to seize their prey.

Jack is intensely interested in the picture, but the time is hardly a profitable one for sight-seeing, since these men are advancing with murder in their minds. He counts their number, and finds about a score—of course it is possible there may be more on the other side of the train, but all that are in sight he has enumerated in this figure.

What manner of men they are remains to be seen. Jack does not have a very exalted opinion of what Carlists he has already met, and doubts lists he has already met, and doubts not but that these fellows will prove to be cowardly. Still, their number may carry the day.

An idea strikes Doctor Jack—he wishes he had thought of it before—is it too late now? He turns to Larry, and in a quick tone says:—

"Would you dare to try and make your way up to the engine, and force the engineer to pull out at the point of the revolver? I'm afraid, he's in like demons let loose from Hades.

No longer is the interior of the carriage wrapped in darkness, for the blazing flambeaux thrust near each window reveals all. Loud shouts are uttered—above all else Jack can hear them calling him an accursed government spy, and demanding that he come out to his doom.

But for the helpless women, whom he has sworn not to desert, Doctor Jack is fust the man to leap into the midst of the mob, and let them have a fair chance to down the foreigner who slew the mad bull—he will not leave the carriage now unless dragged out.

who slew the mad bull—he will not leave the carriage now unless dragged out.

In one hand he holds a revolver—the other weapon is close by, within reach. A man leans through the broken window, and with a horrible laugh lays hold of the American's sleeve, as though he would draw him out of the opening, but Jack clutches his wrist and gives it a twist that breaks the bone, and sends the wretch howling back.

Others by this time are endeavouring to squeeze themselves through—if Jack will not come out to them they mean to enter and take him by force. The time will admit no delay, nor does Jack hesitate. Since the battle is on, he means to give these wretched Carlists all they can manage, and in a case of this kind one determined man may accomplish wonders by prompt action.

The terrible right arm is brought in—kept busy.

By this time the uproar is terrible. Several shots have been fired in at the windows, and although they are sent at random, one at least draws the brave man's blood. All this while, from the noise optiside, one would think pandemonium had broken loose. Ordinary passengers on the train, thinking they have been stopped by bandits from the mountain passes, add to the racket by their cries of terror.

The two women in the barrlcaded.

Consternation soon becomes visible among the Carlists—they have met with a resistance unlooked for, and quite demoralizing. Could Jack keep up the firing indefinitely, he will have no difficulty in driving them off, but already one of his revolvers fails to explode as he pulls the trigger, and he knows the cylinder is empty, while the knows the cylinder is empty, while the other cannot be far from the same condition.

break and run when Jack ceases firing. The fact that the terrible rain of lead has stopped gives them new courage, and they rally. As he sees them advance again Jack, who has everything in readiness, tries to insert new carridges into the cylinder, but this work cannot be easily done, and he only gets three seated when the howling demons are again at the windows.

Once more the scene is enacted, but while Jack has hopes of keeping them off he sees a new and terrible danger menace the occupants of the car. Some of the Carlists, inflamed to white heat by their wounds, have run to the great bopfire, and spatching up arm-les storm—their men bave been transformed into deviis by the stubborn resistance of this man who defies them, and are no longer amenable to discipline. Those who urged them on have sown the wind, and they must reap the whirlwind.

It is a horrible situation, and even brave Doctor Jack feels his flesh creep as he contemplates the doom before him. Nothing that he can do will avert the disaster—aiready he is compelled to strain every nerve to keep the wretches from clambering in at the windows.

the wretches from clambering in at the windows.

Oh! if the train would only moveminutes have passed since Larry disappeared, and they have been the longest minutes Jack ever knew, seeming more like hours. What has become of the little dude—could he have been waylaid and knocked over before reaching the locomotive? If so, their doom is assured.

Already a flaming torch has been applied to the brush beneath the carriage, and the crackling of flames cause Madame Sophle to cry out in terror.

"To think that I should come all the way from Boston to be cooked in an oven like a baked potato. Some one save rse—help! help!"

No one notices her cries, for they have other things to do. Avis no longer crouches by the side of the Bostonian—she has arisen to her feet, and Jack, feeling a hand upon his arm, turns and confronts her.

"What are you doing here? Avis, for God's save go back again. You might be struck by some flying missile," he cries, earnestly.

"I am in no more danger than you are," she answers, "besides, unless something desperate is done soon we are doomea That fire will set the car in a blaze."

"Yes, yes—if I could only get one car in a blaze."

"Yes, yes—if I could only get one of my revolvers loaded, I would jump down among these wolves, frighten them off, and extinguish the blaze, but—" and his action completed the sentence, for he is compelled to clear the windows of the clinging wretches again.

the windows of the clinging wretches again.

"Give me the weapon and cartifleges. I know how to load it, thank heaven. You should have done this before, Jack."

Manlike, he has not thought of such a possibility, but he sees the wisdom of her proposition, places the long revolvers and cartridges in her hands, and then springs at more ugly heads in the windows, which must be kept clear at whatever cost.

The fiames crackle merrily below as the fire gains headway, and the Carlists seem to be abandoning the attack to some extent, certain that the heat will either roast their enemies in the car, or drive them out to fall victims to those who lie in wait.

In the midst of this intensely dramatic situation there suddenly rings out upon the night air a shrill cry—the voice is clear and resonant, pleraing the atmosphere and striking tervor to the heart of each Carlist.

"Fly! fly for your lives, comrades! It is a trap! We are lost! The sol.

ing the atmosphere and striking terview to the heart of each Carlist.

"Fly! fly for your lives, comrades!
It is a trap! We are lost! The soldiers are surrounding us. Fly in the name of the Virgin!"

Wild excitement ensues—men utter oaths, and the wounded pray aloud to be taken off. Jack thrusts his head out of the carriage—he has recognized the voice that has uttered those thrilling words in Spanish. It is Mercedes—yes, as he glances along the side of the train he sees the supposed peasant boy running toward them, waving his cap, and still shouting the words of warning that have created such consternation in the breasts of the Carlists.

Reaching the car under which the fire is blazing the brave girl immediately dashes the burning brands aside—they are saved!

It is only a temporary respite, however—the Carlists are recalled by the commands of Don Carlos, who understands the situation, and come running or crawing back. Undoubtedly it is their intention to repeat the performance, having seen how near success they came before.

By this time, however, Avis has it is their intention to repeat the performance, having seen how near success they came before.

By this time, however, Avis has placed the loaded revolver in Jack's hand, and taken the other from him. He feels that all is not lost so long as this brave girl is beside him—her presence gives him a new courage, and he knows they must succeed.

Again he open; on the advancing foe—now he does not care where his bullets go se long as they, cut home. These inhuman monsters would burn innocent women to death in the car in order to get at him, so there is no reason he should spare them.

They are possessed of a certain desperate valour—perhaps the slight of blood has wrought them up to the highest pitch of excitement. At any rate, they continue to rush upon the car in a way that astonishes Jack, who has never believed them equal to it.

car in a way that astonishes Jack, who has never believed them equal to it.

Some crawl underneath—it is their object to once more gather the scattered brands and make a new blaže, which this time they will guard zealously, and no false alarm shall send them scurrying toward the hills.

Again the situation becomes strain—d—Jack has emptied his revolver—he seizes that which Avis thrusts into his hand, and moves in the direction of the window. She reads his intention, and knows it is a forlorm hope.

"No, no, you shall not go," she cries, her hand clasping his arm tightly.

"I must—it is our only chance. I shall scatter the jackals—or die try-ing."

"You must not—will iot! It is unnecessary. See, do you not feel the car shake—we are moving, Jack—the train starts—yes, and we are saved," and she falls back on his arm almost in a swoon, while Jack, discovering the truth, cries:—

"Thank God! Larry is at the lever!"

of the industry, the profits derived therefrom, and the methods of cultivation. The present articly refers almost exclusively to the landing of bests at the factory, and will be followed by others. followed by others;

At the Factory.

When we arrived at the gates of the big sugar factory, which, by the way, is one of the smallest in the district, we found 75 farmers' teams in the yards, either coming in with beets, unloading at mammoth sheds, or waiting to have their empty waggons weighed. This was a large string when it is considered than it was a west day. We were informed that the factory had token in 309 deads of beets on the saturday provious. In addition to the continuous string of teams, carioads of beets were arriving by railway. At the weigh house three chemists are stationed, to test the beets as they arrive. The farmers bring in their beets in four monthly according to the sagar value of their crop—$4.50 being paid them for beets testing 12 per cent. succharine, and 33 1-3 cents for every point over 12 per cent. sugar. To protect themselves the farmers employ a man at each factory to be read in the weigh house and see that the tests are fairly made. For his services he receives one cent at on from the beet growers.

In the Factory.

The delegation all admired the big factory building, but their admirations grew with every step from the entrance into it until they reached the warehouse, where the sugar was being put up into bargs and barrels, to be shipped to Chicago. They tollowed the best from the time it was floated into the factory, through every stage of manufacture, and an exclamation made by Mr Wendull Shantz will illustrate what all thought as they viewed the big, massive machinery required and noted the various processes of manufacture. He said: "I wondered what the Ontarlo Sugar Beet Co. was going to do with its $600,000, but it is clear to me now." One fact may convey why sugar factories cost money. In the West Bay City factory are two big sugar bollers, which contain numerous coils of copper and which cost $16,000 each.

per and which cost $16,000 cach.

How They Make Sugar.

The farmer is the chief factor in the manufacture of beet sugar, but the process of making sugar commences where the farmer leaves off, of the beet shed. As has been stated above the sheds for this plant are on an improved plan, where beets may be dumped from the waggons if desired, or forked out. In the meantime, however, the farmer and his team are protected from storm and cold by enclosed sheds.

An interesting fact in connection with beet sugar manufacture in Michigan is that the superintendents and chemists are nearly all Germans, who learned their profession in the Vaterland.

Once a factory is started up it runs day and night continuously for a period of 100 days. To stop one day would mean a loss of $4,000.

A staff of 300 are employed during the manufacturing season, and probably a score all the year round.

The superintendent of the factory is paid $5,000 a year.

Dr. Burgess, Med. Supt. of the Prot. Hospital or Insare, Montreal, preceribes it constantly and gives us permission to use his name.

Rev. Dr. Carman said that the Privy Council decision had brought them squarely face to face with the situation. The whole matter was plain. He did not think it expedient to argue or protong words. Dr. McRay spoke for the Alliance. He introduced, he said, a body who represented a larger circle than the other deputation, which include all the temperance associations of the churches of the country. They were asking for the third was a confidence. They felt assured that they were coming on an arrand which would not prove useless.

Dr. J. J. Maclaren said that the Alliance waited on the Government with a good deal of satisfaction. They were not there to make speeches. They had made their speeches some years before, on the composition and indiventee of the Alliance, he spoke of the pleblesic evictories and of the conviction that prohibition was the only remedy for the evils they or posed. They were there simply to hear the announcement of the Government. They came with pleasure to congratulate the Government on the result of the Privy Council judgennt. AFTER THE BATTLE.

an increased majority Mr. Geo Ingle has been re-elected Mayor of 1902, after one of the most excit-ing municipal campaigns witnessed for many years. To his friends of both political parties, of all creeds and all classes, his thanks are due they compared the two candidates and their records, and, refusing to be led astray by minor issues, cast their ballots for the man in whom they had most confidence.

Early in the campaign we advised the return of Mayor Ingle and his colleagues of last year by acclamation, believing that would be the wiser course in view of the bitterness even then developing. We pointed out that as the members clerical error that caused the deficit, it would be well to leave the straightening out of the tangle in their care, and not risk a serious muddle by entrusting the task to new and inexperienced men. The introduction of the fire hall and other issues made plain the fact that an election by acclamation was out an election by accimmation was out of the question, but the retirement of many good candidates on nomination night, and next day, was an encouraging sign of the feeling in favor of the retiring Council and of our suggestion. The battle was fought on private issues which the good sense of the ratepayers could ot commend, and in consequence the voters took our advice and re-elected the leading members of Mayor Ingle's last year's "cabinet."

Now that the battle is over w hope all bitterness will disappear, and that all the members—without exception—will forget the hard knocks given and received. The interests of the town will deserve and require every minute that can be spared from business — and more. Above all we urge that the couple of months usually wasted by ever cil at the start be redeemed year. The members should ge to business and plan now th

THE GOOD ROADS BY-LAW,

The defeat of the by-law to borow a sum of $20,000 for the build ing of good roads was anticipated by everyone. The scheme was launched at a late day, and owing to circumstances the proposition was ignored in the press as well as at the nomination meeting. The question is one merely of dol-lars and cents, and is being grappled with by other town whose ex perionce has been similar to that of Lindsay. Our actual expenditure on street work during the last twenty years has equalled a very large sum—so huge, indeed, that with it Provincial Commissioner nell declares he could maca damize every yard of roadway within our boundaries. What have we received in return? Precisely the service against which other towns are rebelling as being a culpable waste of the people's money, and to offest which Stratford is proposing to borrow $30,000 "to construct bridges and purchase a steam rollpeared under the heading Roladway Platchwork;"

The Board of Works for Guelph showing how old, shop-worn methods still prevail in the maintenance and construction of streets in the Royal City it is bighly interesting. The Board has spent during the year on streets the sum of $3100-not on five or ten roadynays, but on no less than 113! The expenditures range from $1 on Garthist. The $170 on Waterloc-aye. The latter sum would not build two hundred feet of good macadam roadway, so that it may fairly be presumed that that it was spent in repairs, and that all the other sums going to make up the three thousand dollars was wasted in gravel and mud.

The famous and moving picture of Marius, the Roman general, sitting amidst the ruins of Carthage, mediamidst the ruins of Carthage, medi-tating on the vanity of human am-bitions and the ingratitude of re-publics, is surpassed — locally, at least, in profound pathos by the touching spectacle of the steemed editor of our 'steemed weakly cotem, sitting on the frozen foundations of the fire hall, thinking great thoughts and weeping great weeps, as he mor-alizes:

different ways—sometimes by cheery suishine and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheamatism twists harder, twingos sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of servolual are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these allments. The medicine that cures them—Hood's Sarsaparilla—is cally obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

The sympathy of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson, of Ops township, will be extended to them in the loss of their third son. ops township, will be extended, when he is the loss of their third, son. Thomas, a promising young man of 19 years of age, who' died in Lindsay at an early hour this morning. The young man, with his brother, had been employed in a lumber camp near Huntsville during the winter. On Wednesday Thomas was taken ill and was driven to a doctor at Huntsville, who on examination procunced his trouble to be appendictis and treated him until Saturday morning, when it was decided to send him to his friends in this town. After a tedious lourney and a delay at Orillia of four hours he arrived here on Saturday evening. Dr. Gillespie took charge of the case and advised an operation, which was performed early on Tuesday morning by Drs. Gillespie and McAlpine, but it was without avail. The funeral will take place from the family residence Ops, at 2 p.m. on Friday.

Seed Time and Harvest.

Seed Time and Harvest.

A good time to think most seriously of the harvest is seed time. The decision you make them will determine the value of your crops later. The growing competition in seed selling is an increasing temptation to unscrupulous dealers to make extravagant claims for their seeds both in price and producing qualities. The wisest farmers are those who are influenced most by what experience has proven to be good and true. Thousands of seed growers in all sections of the country sow Ferry's famous seeds year after year, and have the settifaction of good harvests to justify their faith in the Ferry firm. They pay a few ceuts more at seed time, but realize many dollars in better crops at the harvest. The natural consequence of this confidence is an ever increasing business. D. M. Ferry & Co. sent out lost year more seeds than any other house, in the world. The 1902 catalogue of this house is now ready and will be found a useful guide in selecting the choicest seeds for the farmer, the truck gardener and the flower gardener. It is sent free on request, Address D. M. Ferry & Co. Windsor, Ont.

Go West, Young Woman.

Bobcaygeon Independent: It is understood that Miss Ruth McClelland, for some years teacher in the school here, was married out in the Northwest on New Year's day. All our young women who go out West meet with the same fatte, and meet it quick, for those Westerners know a good thing when they see it. The young fellows around here have grown up with such a plethora of charms and beauty around them that they don't appear to know what happiness surrounds them. They are positively not worth shucks. Let never so little a bit of our Bobcaygeo: loveliness stray West and see how quick she is corralled. Miss Ruth could not do a better service for the great new country in which she now lives, than by bringing a dozen or two of those hardy, manly Western bachelors to Bobcaygeon for a visit I would be good for the Go West, Young Woman.

PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD'S RULES.

Meeting on Saturday at Which Amendments Were Made.

(Review of Monday.)
A meeting of members of the Pet-boro Cheese Board was held in the Council chamber Saturday afternoon A meeting of members of the Petboro Cheese Board was held in the Comen chember Saturday afternoon for the purposes of discussing the rules and amending the same where thought necessary. Mr. Wm. Andersor, on motion, occupied the chair, and Mr. G. Gliespie acted as secretary. To Mr. Riddeil, was assigned the task of reading the values.

Moved by Mr. Riddeil, seconded by Mr. Brooks, that the cheese bought at the Peterboro Board shall be inspected not latter than six days and shipped not latter than six days and shipped not latter than six days and shipped not latter than ten days after the sale thereof.—Curried,

Mr. Galvin suggested that in case of cheese being left longer than the specified time, the 1-2 ib up beam be not allowed. He also pointed out with some force that the Board would experience very little trouble from bayers and would gain their respect if the salesmen would have back bone enough to enforce support and respect the rules.

Moved by Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Kline, that the cheese sold on the Peterboro Board shall be paid for at the point and time of shipment.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Lenhy, that any cheese buyer purchasing cheese on the Board and afterwards refusing to take it when passed by the inspector be expelled from the Peterboro Board for the balance of the season—Carried, Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Riddell, that it shall be bind, ing upon the buyer to prove 20 per cent. of the price of cheese bought at the thun of sale, to make it binding.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Brooks, seconded by Mr. Riddell, that it shall be binding upon the buyer to prove 20 per cent. of the cleese bought wrong before he can reject the lot.

Moved by Mr. Brooks, seconded by Mr. Switzer, in amendment, that the buyer be compelled to take all the cheese passed by the arritrator.

The original motion carried and the meeting adjourned for two weeks.

WEDDING BELLS.

A most delightful wedding took place on New Year's day at the home of Mr. Wm. Short Mariposa, home of Mr. Wm, Short Mariposa, when his daughter Miss Sarah, was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. O'Neil. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Robinson of Mailla, The bride was most becomingly attreed. Miss S. Osborne played the wedding march after the ceremony. There were about fifty guests present from different parts of the country and also from Sunderland, Cannington Linlsay and Port Hope. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly. The young people have many friends who join in wishing them God-speed on the journey of life so happily commenced.

Martin, of Fenelou Falls, Rev. G. Horton officiated. The house was tastofully decorated with evergreene and holly. The bride looked charming in a gown of antimony and trimmed with muslin dasoic and applique, and on leaving wors a travelling suit of brown broadcloth, and a very becoming toque of brown silk velvet. The bridesmaid, Miss Lillian, sister of the bride, wore a charming gown of white silk overlaid with lace. The groom was ably supported by his brother Fred. After the ceremony the guests partook of a luxurious supper. A pleasant evening was spent by the guests from Fenelon Falls. Linisay, Peterboro and Bobcaygeon. The popularity of the bride was testified by the large number of valuable presents....Mr. Martin was formerly a resident of Lindsay, but is now in the employ of the Lindsay Light, Heat & Power Co., at Fenelon Fails.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Uncle Sam might start right in the new year by giving up what does not belong the him and so settle the Alaskan boundary without re-course to arbitration.

It may well be believed that Lord Salisbury has no great desire for a dukedom. A distinction worth more to him than any added title is Gladstone's tribute: "We have a Prime Minister whose ancestors were similarly employed, to the great benefit of Eugland, ten generations ago." The Cecils who founded the family were the ters of Elizabeth and James I.

In the course of a speech at Ottawa, the other day, before the Reform Club, on the occasion of a dinner being tendered him, the Hon. Sydney Fisher reviewed the political situation at some length and enlarged on the unwanted prescrity. larged on the unwonted prosperity of the country and the progress it has made during the regime of the Laurier administration. It is sat-isfactory, however, to note that following in the course of the Hon.
Mr. Fielding and others he raised a pote of warning and reminded his bearers that no government could possibly maintain the existing condition of affairs for long. Not long since the Finance Moister stated in the House of Commons that he believed that the country had reached the high water mark of its prosperity, and that a period of reaction must come. Up to the present it appears his views were not at the moment justified, but he erred on the right side, for a reaction must come and the signs are not wanting which indicate that trade necessities may cause it to appear sooner than soone may anticipate. While there is no reason for anticipating anything which may be termed "bad possibly maintain the existing con-times," still a check to the tremend-ous expansion in our trade and com-merce must be expected, and as Mr. Fisher said, it is as well to look out-for it. How long the check may lost, and the whoels of commerce commence to run again with their wonted velocity, remains to be seen. But, for the rainy day provision must be made, and as the Minister of Agriculture has said, the warn-ing signal should be generally holst-ed.

Mr. Stranss, of the Mine Owners Mr. Struss, of the anne Swing; "I bave never seen a strike that could not have easily been averted had representatives of the two sides had a conference before the strike was declared." Penhaps that is a representatives of the two strikes was declared." Perhaps that is a little too strong; there have been strikes after conferences between representatives of the parties; but there is a great deal of truth in it after all. The fault has not always been on one side; often one side has been as much to blame as the other. The record shows, however, that when employers and men were disposed to be reasonable strikes were unnecessary. Strikes are always a calamity to abor and an injury to capital. What has been needed is a fairer spirit on both sides, and aligosition to take the other's view into account. As we attain that we shall get rid of labor troubles. By setablishing a Department of Labor the Laurier government has done much to bring about a better feeling between employers and their workman, and a number of strikes have been averted.

Pudince, 15th Nov., 1901.
From Lieut. E. A. Green,
Officer Com'd S. M. R. G., Pudince.
To Alex. Skinner, Esq.
Lindsay, Ontario, Canada.
Sir.—It is with the deepest regret I have to inform you of the death of your son, Trooper Alex. Skinner, of "Scott's Railway Guarda." He was wounded whits out on patrol close to Pudimce, where we had a sharp skirmish with the Boors on the 12th inst. He was carried into camp and insediately so to Vryburg Hospital and severything possible was done to save him; but unfortunately he succumbed to I is wounds on the 13th inst., the bullet having passed through his stomach. He was conscious and plucky until the last and bore up splendidly; being another of the many brave men who have died fighting for their king and country during this war. Your son has been at Pudimoe with me for the past two months; during that time he has always proved himself a good s dier and showed plenty of pluck and courage when necessary. He was greatly liked by his comrades in the camp, who miss him very much. I have written to his wife at Alberta, who his personal effects will by forwarded to in due course from our headquarte s, Kimbeeley.

All his comrades wish to join with me in expressing their deepest sympathy with you and family in your loss by your son's death.—I remain, sir, yours obediently, E. A. GREEM, Lieut. S.R.G.O.C.

WEDDING BELLS.

Tobin-Healey.

A pretty wedding took place Tuesday list at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's church at early mass, when Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Thos. Tobin, of the east ward, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Healey, son united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Healey, son of Mr. Daniel Healey, also of the east ward. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. J. Phelao, in the presence of a few intimate friends. Miss Frechette was bridesmaid and Mr. Neil Tobio, brother, supported the groom. The many friends and The Post join to wishing them a happy and prosperous married life.

Advice to Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Norviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the porse, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously beer stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottle- '5 cents.

After the Rush-what?

After the Rush—what?

The holiday trade is now, at its ebb. It is going to last for saveral days longer and then it is going to stop short. The business house must live after this sudden discontinuance of the Christmastide bustle. It will only take a couple of days to clean up from the holiday rash and then the business man will be ready for more opportunities to interest the public. Of course there will come the regular January clearing sales and the usual run of "white gods," "one-fourth off sales," and other features so well known to business men. It would seem advisable at the beginning of the new year to start out with the purpose of making a first-class business out of what has been running along on the ordinary plan. The man who wants to ket at the people, who wants to realize on his investment, and to at the same time enlarge the volume of his business, will have no difficulty in getting the interest of the public if the goes after his business persistently, logically and candidly. The people as a whole are willing to believe, his story, are anxious to be a part of his plan which helps in the strengthening of his business. and are willing to contribute their, share the volume which insures the opensure of the merchant and the improvement of his bank account. The hotar to heart talks between merchant and customer will bring about this desirable condition and will insure satisfaction to both merchant and his customer.—Advertising World.

DEATH OF A JURIST

JUDGE GWYNNE DIES AT OTTAWA

Does not depend on the start but on the finish. It's staying power which carries many a runner to victory. It's like that in business. Many a man starts off in the race for business success with a burst of speed which seems to assure victory. Presently be begins to falter and at last he falls and fails. The cause? Generally "stomach trouble," No man is stronger than his stomach. Business haste leads to careless and irregular eating. The stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition become diseased. The Years Yet Before Yon, According to the Insurance Tables.

What are your chances of living to that ripe old age the poets tell of? If you don't know, we do, and we'll tell you. At least we have the mortality and expectation tables of the life insurance gentlemen, and we're willing to accept the figure as reliable; for the life insurance gentlemen go into this thing in a spirit the reverse of sentimental. They simply take 100,000 humans and figure out a percentage just as if the 100,000 humans were chalk on a blackboard.

Proceeding on the understanding that the 100,000 are considered at the age of ten years, each will lave 48.7 more years to live. Of course some will die before collecting their life inheritance, but the 48.7 represents the average. As a matter of carefully ascertained fact there will be 749 deaths among the 100,000 before the cleventh year is reached.

This leaves 99.251 survivors, with a

This leaves 99,251 survivors, with a chance of 48.1 more years in the land of the living. But 746 of these will die before becoming twelve-year-olds.

And so it goes. If you are interested in learning how the insurance gentlemen figure these matters, look at the following table and reckon how long a tenure of life the experts give you:

Man of Dignified But Affable Manner Whose Demise Will Be Greatly Regretted-Signor Marconi's Plans-No

Inkling of What Is Transpiring and the Government.

Ottawa, Jan. 7. — Mr. Justice Gwynne of the Supreme Court died at 12.45 this morning. The deceased gentleman was in good health until about up to a fortnight ago, he was obliged to take to his he was obliged to take to his bed. He was attended by Dr. R. W. Powell, one of the most skillful practitioners at the capital, but at his advanced age, he being in his 88th year, recuperative power was lacking. This morning Judge Gwynne was pronounced to be very low, and as the day wore on he gradually sank, and passed away at the hour stated. The late Judge Gwynne was quite energetic, despite his extreme age, and occupied his usual place on the bench of the Supreme Court during the last term, which concluded late in November last. His mind was bright and active, and his thorough knowledge of law and great experience rendered him one of the most valued members of the highest court in Canada. He was a man of dignified but affable manners, and his demine will be deeply exercited. led but affable manners, and his demise will be deeply regretted.

Sig. Marconi's Novements.

Signor Marconi proposes to leave here on Wednesday for Montreal. He will spend a day there, presumably in order to interview the C.P.R. authorities concerning land connections for his transoccanic system, and will then go on to New York. It is not yet known how far the negotiations between Signor Marconi and the Government have progressed, but they are believed to have reference to the terms upon which a station could be established at Cape Breton for the transmission of messages across the Atlantic. There are some people who believe that the Government might properly establish the station itself, and pay royalties to the company controlling the Marconi patents, but no inkling as to what is transpiring has been allowed to escape, and no authoritative statement will be given out until a definite conclusion one way or the other has been reached. Of course, Signor Marconi has a station at Cape Cod, but it remains to be seen whether the Postal Telegraph Company and the Western Union will be favorable to his getting telegraph connection in the United States for his wireless system across the ocean. NEWFOUNDLAND'S HOPE.

of Modus Vivondi.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 7.— The colonial authorities entertain the hope that the British Government does not expect a renewal of the French shore modus vivendi, which expired Dec. 31, 1901, for the current year. They consider that this arrangement has proved a very great drawback to the welfare of the colony, and that its renewal would prolong the vexatious phases of the French shore question for a further period. Were it not for the Boor war, there is little doubt but that the colony would refuse to renew this measure. Even as it is, there is a strong element in the upper house of the colonial legislature which is opposed to the renewal of this arrangement under any circumstances.

Is that have been presented heretofore on this subject, most of which simply provided for excluding Chinese or re-enacting the Geary law. The bill under consideration does not limit itself to any term of years, as did the Geary act, but, if passed, in its present form, wald be perpetual, unless repealed.

The bill declares that all Chinese, other than citizens of the United States under the present treaty with China, shall be refused admission and returned to the country whence they came at the expense of the transportation company bringing them.

The only Chinese person permitted to enter the United States under the present form officials of the Chinese Government, teachers, students, merchants, travelers for pleasure or curiosity, returning laborers, who must have certificate, or domiciled merchants. No Chinese, except diplomatic or consular officers, are allowed to enter the United States at any other ports than San Francisco, Port Townsend, Washington, Portland, Oregon; Boston, New York, New Orleans, Honolulu, San Juaa and Manilla. Ports may be designated on the Canadian or Mexican boundary after contracts have been made with transportation lines to comply with the act.

Provision is made for the registration of all Chinese now in the United States to be completed within six months after the passage of the act. All registered Chinese shall have a certificate, with photograph attached, and those without certificates at the end of six months aftall be deported.

TWO CAPTAINS.

One Dies For His People, the Other's People Die For Him.

Ruskin in his "Essay on War" says: "It is wholly inconceivable to me how well educated princes who ought to be of all gentlemen the gentlest and of all nobles the most generous and whose title of royalty means only their function of doing every man 'right'—how these, I say, throughout history should so rarely proquote themselves on the side of the poor throughout history should so rarely pro-nounce themselves on the side of the poor and of justice, but continually maintain themselves and their own interests by op-pression of the poor and by wresting of justice, and how this should be accepted as so natural that the word 'loyalty,' which means faithfulness to law, is used as if it were only the duty of a people to be loyal to their king and not the duty of a king to be infinitely more loyal to his people.

"How it comes to pass that a see captain will die with his passengers and lean over the gunwale to give the parting boat its course, but that a king will not usually die with, much less for, his passengers—thinks it rather incumbent on his passengers in any number to die for him? Think, I beseech you, of the wonder of this sengers in any number to die for him? Think, I beseech you, of the wonder of this.

"The sea captain, not captain by divine right, but only by company's appointment; not a man of royal descent, but only a plebeian who can steer; not with the eyes of the world upon him, but with feeble chance, depending on one poor boat, of his name being ever heard above the wash of the fatal waves; not with the cause of a nation resting on his act, but helpless to save so much as a child from among the lost crowd with whom he resolves to be lost, yet goes down quietly to his grave rather than break his failth to those few emigrants.

"But your captain by divine right, your captain with the hues of a hundred shields of kings upon his breast, your captain whose every deed, brave or base, will be illuminated or branded forever before unescapable eyes of men, your captain whose every thought and act are beneficent or fatal from sun rising to setting, blessing as the sunshine or shadowing as the night—this captain as you find him in history for the most part thinks only how he may tax his passengers and sit at most ease in his captain."

Fatally Hurt.

St. Thomas, Jan. 7.—John Durand, hotelkeeper at Belmont, and for years license inspector for East Middlesex, met with very serious injury at the Atlantic House, London, Saturday night. His injuries are mostly intennal, and are such as to make his recovery a matter of doubt. Mr. Durand fell through a trap door to the cellar, and alighted upon his head. A very pretty wedding was solemnized on New Year's day at 3 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferris Glenelg-st., when their daughter, Eva Montrose, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert E. Silverwood, of this town. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Macmillan, of St. Andrew's charch, assisted by the Rev. Mr. McCullough, of Newmarket, in the presence of a large company of invited guests. The bride looked charming attired in white silk dimity with tucked chiffon trihmings, and carried a boquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel, who looked pratty dressed in pink silkelene and carrying pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. W. Scott, of Dundas & Flavello Bros.' staff. After the ceremony congratuations were extended to the happy young couple and the party sat down to an elaborate wedding linner. The presents to the bride were hundsome and numerous, which is an indication of her popularity among her friends. The happy couple left on the six o'clock train for a honeymoon trip to Toronte and other western points. Their many friends and The Post join in wishing them a long and happy married life.
Following are the names of the guests present: Miss Ethel Fercis, Torouto; Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Jametville; Mr. Poterson, Miss Paterson and Miss Prown. From the Post, Buckingham, Que. We venture to say that in our cown of 3,000 inhabitants few business men are better, known than Mr. M. A. Gauthler, the young and hustling butcher of Main street. He was ing butcher of Main street. He was not, however, as energetic or as hustling a couple of years ago as he is to-day, and for a good reason—he wasn't well. Having gone into business before reaching his majority his desire to succeed was such that no heed was paid to keeping the body in the state of health necessary to stand the strain, and in consequence of the extra demands apon the system it became run down to such an extent that epilepsy or o such an extent that epilepsy or to she an expert that ephopsy of falling sickness resulted, and these lapses into unconsciousness be-coming alarmingly frequent he con-sulted physicians and took some rem-edles, but without beneficial results, coles, but without beneficial results, Finally seeing Dr. Williams' Pint Pills advertised for a curee for falling sickness he decided to give them a trial. As to the result, the Post cannot do better than give Mr. Gauchier's story in his own words; "Yes," said Mr. Gauthier, "for nearly four years I suffered from epilepsy, or falling fits, which took mo without warning and usually in most inconvenient places. The pancake social given in the Y.M.C.A. New Year's for the young men of the town was a decided success. A progressive games contest was a pleasant feature of the evening, each young man with his partner endeavoring to win as many games as possible. It they were successful in wioning they were pronoted to another game; if unsuccessful they had to remain at the same game until they did succeed in winning. After the cootest closed a committee of young men, each wearing a white apron, made ready the tables and prepared to serve the pancakes, when all were scated each one was bountifully served with pancakes, tea and syrup. While the men were enjoying this loved feast a phonographic concert was given. The pancakes, which were as light as a cream puff, were prepared and made by Mr. S. Scanes, baker, of this town. At ten o'clock the crowd dispersed, each feeling he had spent a pleasant and enjoyable evening.

The shop occupied by Mr. Dan. McGribben, tobacconist, and Mr. Alf. Brown, barber, was damaged by fire Thursday week. There was leak in the gap spipe at the metre, which Manager Grahhm failed to find until noon, when he closed the valve, promising to send a man after dinner to make repairs. About two o'clock, the man not having arrived, Mr. McGribben, being anxious to turn on a few lights, opened the valve and lit a match to see if the leak still existed. In the explosion that followed Dan almost lost his abundant moustache, and was slightly scorched about the head. The lire that followed was put out by the use of the brigade extinguisher. The damager to the stock is covered by insurance. To a Post reporter Mr. McGribben said: "I am entirely to blame myself for touching the valve when I was told to leave it alone." His store is lighted again as usual.

offertory was taken up Mr. Batteraby, lay reader, favored the congregating the pastor, Rev. J. W. Macmillan, as is his custom on the first Sunday evening of each menth, preached a sermon to young people on the difference between "A life that is supported," had a life "that is inspired," basing his remarks on 2 Chron., 24 chap., 2nd verse. "Joash, the king, did that which was right;" as long as Jehoida, the good High-Friest, lived he was supported by Jehoida, but as soon as the support was taken away Joash fell into evil ways. There was also conscience in it—he knew that Joash was right; The preacher illustrated the work of an inspired life, etting the cases of King Edward VI., John Howard and David Livingstone, who did a great work during their lives, having high alms before them and unbounded faith in Jesus. A young man comes to Lindsay and does not receive the affection and welcome at once that he was used to at home, and for this light excuse he turns to the way of the scornful. He is a man of straw whosa life is supported; and were he to go to a Western city would quickly fall into the ways and society of the lewd. There is the choice for all to live a "supported" or an "inspired" life, the latter being strong in faith in Jesus Christ.

Report of Berlin Delegates

ON THE MICHIGAN BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

It Corroborates the Impression of Messrs. Channon and Ellis, of the Delegation From Victoria Co.

Your committee appointed to make investigation re sugar beet raising and the manufacture of sugar therefrom, beg to report as follows;

The committee spent two days in Bay City and Saginaw, Mich., where three refineries are now in operation. Two more will be ready to start operation on the 1st of November, and another is under con-tract to be ready next year. These six reflueries will be within a radius of 13 miles and their total cost will be over $3,000,000.00. The investing of this larger amount of money shows that investors have great confidence in the permanence of the enterprise.

We were shown through three of the refineries, and shown every pro-cess of manufacture, and we feel ourselves indebted to the officials of the institutions for the courteous treatment they extended to us, and for the trouble they took to explain the matter in every detail.

The farmers deliver their beets in large waggens, holding about two tons each. Every load is weighed, and samples taken therefrom to determina what percentage of sugar each load will produce and what amount is to be deducted for tare, dirt, etc. The farmers interests are looked after by a man appointed by themselves in the weighing house, and for compensation, the farmer is taxed 1 per cent per load or ton.

We find upon interviewing the far-mers that they have no trouble with the various companies, but feel that they are always treated fairly. We learn that when the farmer once commences to raise beets, that he never stops, but on the contrary, he puts in more acreage each year. As the profits are so large, he finds the raising of beets much more profit-able than wheat, oats or barley, or any other farm product, and he is paid in cash at the dnd of each month.

number of farmers when interviewed estimated that it cost them $25 to $30 per acre to raise the bects, after counting a fair wage beets, after counting a fairt wage for themselves, and the yield is from $62 to $75 per sere, thus leaving them from $32 to $45 per acre net profit. We have the above statement confirmed by various merchants, who have raised from 10 to 100 acres, hiring all the work done, and the profits were from $30 to $45 per acre.

We met a Mr. Gilbert, who has 1,100 acres of rented land this year, and he has reuted 2,300 acres for next year. He speaks in the highest terms of the industry, and the fair and honorable way in which the companies deal with the farmers

The farmers are paid $1.50 per ton for the beets that show 12 per ent. sugar and 33 1-3 cents per too added for each percentage above 12 per cent.; thus showing that a yield of 15 per cent. sugar would make the price $5.50 per ton, less 1 per cent. to 5 per cent. for dirt, etc. The refinerles deduct 331-3 cents per ton for all beets that average under 12 per cent. sugar. The average yield we find to be about 15 tons per acre. Some farmers run up as high as 18 and others go as low as 12 tons. The highest per-centage is produced on the best land, and where the beets are looked af-ter carefully, and the weeds kept down. The weigh master said he could pick out a good load of bests by seeing a German farmer on the wagon. (The farmers are radising better beets each year, consequently a large profit is realized. It is unprofitable to use the ground two years in succession; while the percentage of sugar is just as great the second and third year, the beets are smaller and less tons per acre. We find that it does not injure the beets to be frozen and the refluerless the second subject to traven beets. If gon. The farmers are raising do not object to frozen beets, if they are not allowed to thaw out. The farmers are allowed to take away the pulp for feeding purposes. and the refuse lime for fertilizing, The farmers in Michigan have not availed themselves of the above opportunities as far as the pulp is concerned, because they have no cattle to fatten, but most of our, Waterloo county farmers would have. The process of keeping this path during the winter, and the feeding of it, is explained in a paper called "The Michigan Sugar Best," a weekly paper at $1 per year, which would keep farmers (horoughly posted on the sugar beet question.

We find that the price of farm land has risen 40 per cent. in Bay county in the last four years. There are many cases on record, where the advances have been over 100 per cent., and we talked with one farmer who bought his land eight years ago at $25 per acre, and last year he was offered $75 per acre for it. This shows a total gain of 200 per cent. since he purchased the farm. He attributes the advance solely to the raising of sugar beets, which has been very profitable for him. It is profitable for farmers livng a long distance from refineries to raise beets, and ship them by ail. We interviewed a number of farmers who were hauling from 10 o 16 miles.

The cultivation of beets is easily learned, and to the farmers of Waterior county, who are accustomed to raising roots, it would present no difficulties. We find that the farmers in and near Bay county were lumbermen, and when the lumber industry ceased to be profitable they took to farming, and, consequently, they are not experi-enced farmers. The sugar beet in-dustry has been of inestimable pro-fit to Bay City, and the cities where the refineries are located. refineries pay out $500,000 or more each year. There is plenty of work for the poor classes in the beet fields, and good wages are paid. Even boys and girls from 10 years ap make good wages, and are looked upon as very desirable help.

Having plenty of work during the summer, the poor classes are build-Having poemers, the poor classes are bund-ing their homes and paying off the mortgages on their homes, and the laboring classes, and such mechanics as carpenters, bricklayers, stone-as carpenters, bricklayers, atoneily working from November until February or March in the efineries, after their outdoor work is through in the fall. This makes the location of beet sugar factories most pro-fitable, in or near a city, and of last-ing benefit to the mechanics, and it is an industry which will constantly increase in importance.

The farmers in Bay county, Mich., have not as yet subscribed stock in the companies, but the farmer, is always alive to his best interest, and they are now building a large re-finery which will be in operation by

The buildings of the refineries are absolutely fire-proof, and are very extensive. The plant and machinery are very extensive, and consequently cost a large amount of money to erect. The estimated cost of a, 600 ton per day plant is from $550,000 to $600,000.

The refineries are all doing well, with the exception of one—in a fruit growing district. The fruit crop was poor one year, and the farmers took up sugar beet raising, but the next year was a fruit year, and the prices were good, and having their fruit trees to look after they stopped rais-jur beet. ing beets. However the shutting down of this refinery is only looked upon as being temporary.

We recommend that the town use their utwost endeavers to have a beet sugar refinery located in or near Berlin.

Farmer Shoots One Whom He Accuses of Supplying Cattle.

London, Jan. 7.—A special statement from Lord Kitchener specifying several cases of shooting of natives by the Boers was issued from the War Office last night.

On Monday, Oct. 15, 1900, party of Boers came to Houtkop, about six miles northwest of Vereniging. One of them, a farmer well known to the natives in the kraal, fired at and killed a native called Jacob, whom he accused of supplying cattle to the British forces.

At the same time another Boer, Phanie Cronje by name, proceeded to the house of a native, Johannes, whom he shot dead in the presence of both his sons as he came outside.

In November or December, 1900, a certain number of wagons belonging to a convoy proceeding from Pretoria to Rustenburg were captured by the enemy. A native driver of one of the wagons appears to have been rolled up in a buck sail by two men called Willem Barnard and Jan Van Rensburg; bags of oats were piled on the top pf the sail. These were then sprinkled with parafin, and the whole set on fire. The witnesses in this case are all natives from Kimberley.

The total number of natives reported murdered is thirty-seven. Details not yet to hand.

Waris Canada Peopled by Its Own Stock—Other Views.

Kingston, Jan. 7—Irincipal Grant was able to address the students of Queen's last evening in the Convocation Hall. In his address he discussed his attitude in the past 40 years towards Canadian Confederation, Imperial union and the Prestyterian union. He claimed to have acted on principal and vital truth. In Confederation, he stood with Tupper against his political mentor, Howe. He wanted Canada peopled by its own stock. We had already all the peoples of other languages we can digest. He asked the Covernment to call of its immigration agents. He saw Imperial union coming nearer, but he took occasion to assail the Government for neglecting to pay its share of the cost of sending men to the South African war. They could give millions in bonuses and for public policy, but none to aid a land giving its best blood and treasure to win a goodly victory. The Empire, he held, must be practically as well as nominally united. The principal rejoiced over the Presbyterian union, and looked for an organized church of Canada, embracing all denominations.

INJURED IN AN UPSET.

south Op: Lady Met With a Painful Mishap Last Week

Mrs Wm. Hickson and daughter, Miss Etta, of the Hillhead, near Reaboro, had an unpleasant experience on Thursday afternoon of inst week. They left the Central house about 5 o'clock to drive home, and when turning off Glenelg onto Lindsny-st. the cutter upset and the occupants were thrown out. Miss Hickson escaped injury, but her mother must have been struck by the overturned vehicle, as sho was rendered unconscious.

Judge Dean and another gentlemar witnessed the accident and historing to the spot, they carried Mrss Hickson into Mr. Thos. Braily's residence near by and summoned medical aid. Dr. Gilbsple responded and discovered that Mrs. Hickson had sustained a fracture and dislocation of the left wrist. The dislocation was reduced while the patient was still unconscious. Later in the evening Mrs. Hickson was taken back to the Central house, where she will remain for a few days with her daughter, Mrs. John Maunder, in order to receive medical attention.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Often L ads to Serious Troubio Unless Frompt Stops are Taken to Check it—How This Can hat Le Done. Indigestion is a trouble that is very common in infancy and early childhood, and unless prompt measures are taken to control it the result is often very serious. It prevents the proper growth of the child and weakens the constitution so that he is unable to resist other diseases that are more dangerous. Fortunately, however, the trouble is one that is easily controlled. Proper food—not too much, but absolutely pure—plenty of fresh air, and Baby's Own Tablets, freely administered according to the directions will soon put the sufferer right, and make both mother and child happy. Mrs. W. E. Bassam, of Kingston, is one of many mothers who has proved the truth of this statement. She says: "When my little girl was about three months old she had indigestion very bably. She was vointing and had diarrhoea almost constantly. She was very thin, weighted only four prounds, and though she had a ravenous appetite her food did her no good whatever. I tried several modicin's but they did not help her. Then I heard of Baby's Own Tablets, and procured 'a box. After giving her the tablets for a few days the vomiting and distributed caesed, she be can to improve at once, and grew plamp and fat. I always give her the Tablets now when she is alling and the result is always good. Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I have averfused for a child."

These triblets will promptly cure all the minor allments of little enes, such as sour stomach, indigestion, colic, constipation, alloy the irrita-tion accompanying the cutting of teeth, etc. They are good for children of all ages, and crushed to a powder or dissolved in water can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. If you cannot ob-tain Baby's Own Tablets at your druggist, they will be sent post paid at 25 cents a box by midressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brock-

ARE THE BARGAINS THAT ARE BEING GIVEN AT GRAHAMIS Great 30 Days' Sale!

We're winning new friends daily. The slashing of prices is going to make January as interesting as Christmas, and crowd the month with a fruitful crop of buying chances, the like of which the oldest inhabitant

With One Mighty Sweep we clip from 331 to 50 per cent off former prices, and hand buyers back the difference in genuine good values. No half-hearted policy or revision of prices with Graham, but an honest general well-conducted effort to clear the whole stock by the end of the month.

Come Early! Come Often! and see the price tickets changing. If "a dollar saved is a dollar earned", dollars are waiting you at Grahams. Don't stand in your own light. Saving a dollar or two on this, fifty cents on that, and a quarter on something else by buying at Grahams NOW, in a little while spells P-R-O-S-P-E R-I-T-Y.

South American Misssion Work

South American Misssion Work.

Rev. and Mrs. Linton, missionaries or furlough from South America, now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. 3. Wilder, spoke on the needs of South America, now the guests of Mr. and Mrs. 3. Wilder, spoke on the needs of South American missions Sunday in the Cambridge-st. and Queen-st. Methodist chirches. Mrs. Linton gave a descriptive address, touching on the customs of the people of the northern part of the Argentine Republic, at which point they are stationed. This inhabitants suffer from fever greatly. The principal industry is the growing of the sugar cane. The homes of these people have no windows and no stoves. The floors are made of mud. To the question, "Can you read?" the answer is no. The women are utterly regardless of norality, smoke cigarctics and drink liquor freely. When sick they cover themselves with orange leaves—thelf favorite remedy for all diseases. The blind, superstitions, immoral, cheerless life led by these people is a said picture to behold. Mr. Linton in his experiences found them a race scarcely more intelligent than the dog, and while under the influence of rum it is a common occurrence to see men kill each other and many are horribly mutilated. He and Mrs. Linton have been working in that district for upwards of five years and have every liberty to preach. In Buenos Ayres he had addressed large crowds on many occasions on the streets. He with a companion had sold thousands of bibles, supplied by the American Bible Society, to the people of that district Mr. and Mrs. Linton shew deep interest in the work and expect to return shortly, taking other helper swith them.

Mr. Uriel Cann, Sidney, Manitoba, made The Post a call on Saturday. He has been spending a few weeks with his son and friends in Mariposa, and will leave next week for Michigan to visit a brother whom he has seen but once in his life. Mr. Cann has been reported to have given his views on prohibition in Manitoba, and his remarks, he states, have been mis-reported. Mr. Cann wishes it understood that he is not opposed to total prohibition, but believes after what he has seen in the West, that a properly enforced leensed system for the sale of liquod'is not the most satisfactory in its working. Rev. C. J. Fheiam, St. Mary's church, Lindsay;
Rev. and Lear Father,—Although the parishioners of St. Mary's still continue to mourn the irreparable loss of their devoted pastor, the late Monsignor Laurent, your appointment as Parish Priest of Lindsay, even for a few, months, has been a source of great consolation to them in their bereavement.
His Lordship, the much beloved Bishop of Peterbero, evidently sympathized with the congregation of St. Mory's in their great sorrow; for, on perceiving that you, reverend Father, had, during your curacy in Lindsay endeared yourself to pastor, and people alike, he, in his wisdom, chose you as the priest best qualified to assuage the grief of the congregation and to administer the affairs of the parish in the usual way. For this kind consideration of the Bishop the people of St. Mary's are truly grateful, and pray that fils Lordship may long be sparred to quard and advance the interests of the Church in the Diocese of Peterboro.

guird and advance the interests of the Church in the plocese of Peterboro.

We, the undersigned, on behalf of the young men of the parish, have called on you this evening, dear Father, to assure you of our reverence and regard for you, to wish you the compliments of the season—a. Happy New Year—and finally, to ask you to accept this pair of gauntlets in token of our esteem and affection, and as a memento of the closing months of 1901, so marked by the denise and obsequies of the good and faithful Monsignor Laurent Signed on behalf of the young men of the parish of St. Marv's, Lindsay, Henry Mallon, Albert Cote, John Braniff, Thos. Spratt, Neil Tobin.
Lindsay, January 1st, 1902.

Fr. Phelan made an elequent and feeling reply in the course of which he referred to the regret he felt at his impending departure from the parish, where he had made so many devoted friends, but duty was paramount in the hearts of the priests of the Roman Catholic church, and that thought, and the knowledge that he would have their prayers, would help him to bear the

Mr. W. R. Widdess, agent for the Canada Life Assurance Company, received last Tuesday the following letter from the Asst. General Manager as to the business of this reliable Company in the year 1901; Dear Str.—While it is yet too early to give you definitely the final figures showing the Company's operations for the past year, I have before me the approximate, results, and I hasten to thank you personally and offer my congratulations on the success which has attended the afforts of our field forces in 1901. The new applications received were for assurances aggregating eight million four hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($8,450,000)—a very marked increase over the previous thousand dollars (88.450,000)—a very marked increase over the previous year, and, with one exception, the largest in the Company's history. The new policies actually paid for during the year represented assurances of about seven million and eighty seven thousand dollars ($7,000)—exceeding those of any previous year by over half a million of dollars. This is one of the most gratifying features in the report, as it shows very conclusively that you have all been striving to score only business of the very best quality.

The income both from interest

The income, both from interest carnings and premuims, has been satisfactory and shows a substantial increase over the figures of 1900. The mortality has been (avorable, and the assets show a steady growth which I am sure will be much appreciated by all who have the good fortune to hold policies in the Company. Taking the year all around it has indeed been most successful.—Yours truly,

M. J. CARTER

Archdeacon Casey Becomes Rec or of Lindsay-Other Parochial Changes.

The Peterboro Examiner refers as follows in Monday's issue, to the transfer of priests announced in a recent issue of The Evening Post; Consequent upon the lamented death of Mgr. Lawrent, V. G., and Rector of the Parish of Lindsay, certain changes have been made in adjusting the cures of several parishes Justing the cores of several parishes in the Diocese of Peterboro.

These changes were announced at 16 o'clock mass yesterday in St. Feter's Cathedral by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor. In Fetering to the cause that made these changes necessary, the death of Mgr. Laurelliki, touch the control of the control Bishop O'Connor. In Teferring to the cause that made these changes necessary, the death of Mgr. Laurert, His Lordship's emotions at times almost checked his utterance.

Ven. Archieacon Casey has been appointed Rector of the Farish of Lindsay, Rev. Father McColl, parish priest of Ennismore, taking his place as Rector at the Cathedral. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, becomes parish priest at Ennismore, and Rev. Father Phelan, late curate at Lindsay, and since the death of Mgr. Laurent, administrator of that parish, becomes parish priest of Young's Point, Lakefield and Keene. These translations may generally be regarded in the light of promotions. Ven. Archicacon Casey, succeeds to a parish where long reigned one of the most plous and successful priests in the diocese, and his being chosen as successor to Mgr. Laurent is a cribute to his fitness for so important and difficult a position, and to the lay mind a suggestion of the possibility of his succeeding to the full knones and responsibilities of the priest whom he has followed. Ven. Archicacon Casey was ordained on May 21, 1782. For the first two years of his priesthood he was curate in Peterborough From 1872 to 1874. After a brief curacy in Kingston he became parish priest of Gananuque. Afterwards he was advanced to Campbellford, where after fifteen years' faithful ministry he was translated to Peterborough, becoming Rector of the Cathedral, and being elevated to the dignity of Archleacon. Ven. Archdeacon Casey was ordained and it will be remembered that in 1897 his silver jubilee was celebrated, the priests of the docese presenting him with valuable gifts and an illuminated address. From a secular point of view the removal of ven. Archdeacon Casey is a subject of general regret. During his eight years in Peterborough he has won the high respect of all citizens. His parishioners, who have learned to venerate and love him, will naturally very deeply regret the severance of the times that have bound them for eight years to their beloved rector. But Re priest of Ennismore, who has earned by his picty and zeal in the interests of Holy Church the promotion to the important position of rector to the Cathedral, will, by virtue of his many spleudid qualities of mind and character, speedily gain in the hearts of the people of Ennismore. He has been in the priesthood for eleven years, and has been in Ennismore eight years, going to that parish from Lindsay. Peterborough will warmly speeds the parting rector. The successor of Rev. Father McColl in Ennismore, Rev. Father McColl in Ennismore, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, has been seven years a priost. After his ordination in 1894 he spent a time at the Cathedral and three years ago was appointed parish priest at Young's Point, where by a faithful discharge of his priestly duties and by his bearing as a citizen he has become extremely popular, not only with his own flook, but with the entire community.

He is succeeded as parish priest at Young's Point, etc., by Rev. Father Fhelan. The latter was ordained in Feterborough on Feb. 16th 1896 His first field of ministry was Trout Creck. For nive mouths he was locun tenens in Dearo during the illness of Rev. Father Keilty. He was afterwards made curate of St. Mar,'s Luisay. There he developed qualities that made him greatly beloved and esteemed by his flock. On the occasion of his being brought to the Cathedral as curate some time ago he was parted with with regret, a large deputation waiting agont the Bishop asking that the change he not made, and when it was made, Rev. Father Phelan on his departure from Lindsay, was presented with a substantial purse of noncy. On the death of Mgr. Laurent Rev. Father Phelam was sent to Lindsay as administrator, and he is now promoted to be parish priest of Young's Point.

The changes above recounted take place practically at once, the priests having to be in their respective parishes on Sunday, January 19th.

FORCES BUING REDUCED.

Smar's commands.

Johannesburg, Jan. 5—Lord Kitchener has organized a new mounted force from the artillery. This command, which will be known as the Artillery Mounted Riffes, took the field to-day, 1,400 strong. It consists chiefly of gunners of the howitzer batteries. The reduced forces of the Boers offer little scope for artillerymen, and it is believed that they can be used with greater effect as a mobile column to crush out the final resistance of the burghers. On Christmos Eve, Col. Dumaulin captured 28 men of Smut's commando in the eastern portion of the Orange River Colony. The reduction of the Boer forces is keeping up to the average rate.

British Policy Toward Boers.
London, Jan. 6.—The friends of Joseph Chambertain are confident that he will not change his policy in South Africa, but that he will set his face sternly against a revival of peace negotiations. They credit him with the determination to continue the military compaign until every Boer in arms is a prisoner, and they assert that he will not follow Lord Rosebery's advice, and allow himself to be drawn into negotiations with Mr. Kruger. This is not because he has a hardened heart, but because he considers that everything within reason was done by Lord Kitchener to facilitate the conclusion of an armistice with Ceneral Botha, and that any reopening of negotiations with Mr. Kruger is utterly impracticable and will only expose the British cause to ridicule.

The Public Deeply Stirred.

The Public Deeply Stirred bere has been deeply stirred by the libels on British soldiers in South Africa, circulated on the continent. Lord Roberts' lotter, contradicting the stories of the violation of Boer women and the employment of Boer female refugees for immoral purposes, has intensified this feeling, especially as regards the anti-British tendency of the German press. The Pall Mall Gazette declares that a positive duty is incumbent on the German Government to order its military attaches in South Africa to announce what they know regarding the alloged atroctives. In all quarters the keenest determination is evidenced to have authoritative denials issued and have all accusations investigated. A SESSION OF SEVEN WEEKS. He had an interview with Hon. Mr. Tarte Saturday, and will see the Minister of Public Works again to-day. From here Signor Marconi will go to New York. He stated yesterday that he was not so much interested in the question of establishing Marconi stations in the Gulf of St. Lawrence for the protection of shipping as in the much more important project of trans-oceanic telegraphy. There would certainly, he said, be a station established for this purpose at Cape Breton, the cost of which would be between sixty and seventy thousand dollars.

The offices of the Dominion Trading Stamp Company in Hamilton and some other western cities are being closed, in accordance with bylaws prohibiting them from doing business. The company, however, states that it is closing only temporarily, till judgment is given on the validity of the statute upon which the adverse bylaws are based. The concern works under a Dominion charter, and it is claimed that the enactment of the Legislature does not warrant its being put out of tusiness. In Ottawa recently the City Council was petitioned to pass a bylawa state that the distribution of the Legislature does not warrant its being put out of tusiness. If you will put from onefourth to half a teaspoonful # in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. A prominent militin officer, who has been in constant communication with Col. Steele ever since he went to South Africa, stated yesterday that he placed no credence in the story published by The London Express that Col. Steele is dissatisfied with his treatment. It is doubtless true enough that Col. Steele would like to command the Canadian section of the South African Constabulary, but it should be borne in mind that he did not go out to South Africa as commandant of the Canadians, but as head of the constabulary in the Lydenburg district. At any rate, his private letters contain no hint of dissatisfaction, and he is not the kind of an officer to set the necessities of discipline at deflance. Col. Steele's friends say the story looks like an attempt to hurt him with the War Office.

Collingwood, Jan. 2.—The young man, William Green, son of Mr. Charles Green, G.T.R., who wandered from home about a week ago, while suffering from a long illness, has not yet been heard of. It was expected that the heavy northwest wind that prevailed Tuesday would, perhaps, bring some tidings, but, so far, northing has transpired. All the surrounding districts have been searched for him, and the general opinion, reluctantly come to, by the family, is that the bay has claimed another victim.

Mexico City, Jan. 2.—The situation in the Pan-American conference continues critical and probably not until to-morrow will the fate of the gathering be known. The Chilian delegation conferred vesterday, and when seen declined to give any intimation as to their ultimate action. If they remain firm and refuse to allow the plan of compulsory arbitration to be reported to the conference, then either they or several of the other South American delegates must withdraw.

In the morning he attended the levee of his Excellency the Governor-General, and later in the day called upon his distinguished countryman, Mgr. Falconio, the papal delegate. Last evening he dined at Stadacona Hall, as the guest of the hospitable Minister of Militia, Hon. F. W. Borden.

SIR WILFRID'S WELCOME.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Signor Marconi had his first meeting with the Premier of Canada at luncheon in the Rideau Club on Tugsday, when both were the guests of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance. Other Cabinet Minister Finance. Other Cabinet Minister were present, also Sir Sandford Fleming, the pioneer of the Pacific cable, and Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railroad. The Premier welcomed the inventor to Canada, and assured him of every assistance which it might be in the power of the Government to afford him.

Mr. Tarte, the Minister of Public Works, whose department has control of the coast telegraph system, consulted Mr. Marconi about the establishment of wireless stations on Prince Edward Island and the mainland of Nova Scotia or New Brunswick, so that communication may be maintained across the Northumberland Strait independently of the existing cable which is under control of the Anglo-American Company under a charter somewhat similar te the franchise which enabled the company to interfere with the wireless experiments in Nowloundland. Mr. Marconi is understood to have entered heartily into Mr. Tarte's scheme.

Marconi is understood to have entered heartily into Mr. Tarte's scheme.

Meantime, Mr. Marconi is greatly impressed with the situation of Sable Island as a site for a station to communicate with his wireless establishment on the cost of Cornwall. At the Marine Department he talked with the deputy minister and chief engineer upon the subject, and the inventor was pleased to see by the great circle track which Col. Anderson plotted for him on a North Atlantic Admiralty chart that a direct line between Sable Island and the Cornwall coast passes well out to seaward of the Avalon peninsula of Newfoundland. He had been of the impression that no station could be had north of Cape Hatteras which would ensure perfect immunity from intercepting currents from Newfoundland.

Photographs of many places on the sandy islet, so long known as the "Graveyard of the Atlantic," were shown to Mr. Marconi by Col. Gourdeau, who visited the island last summer and was able to give the inventor much valuable information in regard to it. Mr. Marconi was anxious to know if there was any possibility of interference on the part of the vested interests on Sable Island.

The deputy minister reassured him on that point. "The Government," he said, "owns the island, and the only telegraph line on it, and allows nobody to land there without permission. It is in charge of a governor, but if you like we will make you king."

Mr. Marconi did not think that the distance of the island from the mainland, S5 miles, or the fact that it is not connected as yet hy achieved.

Mr. Marconi did not think that the distance of the island from the mainland, 85 miles, or the fact that it is not connected as yet by cable, were serious objections to us selection as a site for one more of his wireless installations. He said that communication could as well be made with the adjacent coast of Nova Scotia by the wireless system, and in any overt

Sable Island, the scene of so many shipwrecks, is closen as a station for transmitting warning signals to the throng of steamers that continually cross and recross the Atlantic within a computatively short distance of its treacherous shores. The application of the Marconi system to the determination of distances from a sending station has not yet been attempted upon a practical scale. At present it is not possible to ascertain the exact position of a ship in communication with a station at a greater distance than two miles. But considering what has been done with wireless telegraphy during the with wireless telegraphy during the past six weeks, it is easy to believe that before long it will be possible to warn ships of their exact distance

Water Kills Germs.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—According to bacteriologists of the American Society of Naturalists, some kinds of germs have such an antipathy for water that they actually commit suicide to escape the fluid. President Roosevelt's New Year's.

Washington, Jan. 2.—President Roosevelt held his first New Year's reception at the White House yesterday, and, surrounded by the Presidental and cabinet circles, he greeted officials in every branch of the public life, as well as great concourse of people from private life. The scene within the historic mansion was one of extraordinary beauty and brilliancy. President Roosevelt's manner of receiving his callers was extremely gracious and happy. Mrs. Roosevelt proved a most charming New Year's host.

Russia and France.

Paris, Jan. 2.—The customary exchange of New Year's greetings between St. Petersburg and Paris occurred yesterday. The Czar telegraphed as follows: To President I oubet: "Tsarakoe-Selo, Jan. 10 On the occasion of the New Year the Empress and mysolf desire to express to you our best wishes for France and for you personally. Among the most agreeable remembrances of the year just closed, that of the few days passed in the beautiful country, friendly and allied to us, is especially dear. Nicholas."

Gen. Andre, the Minister of War, telegraphed to the Russian Minister of War, Gen. Kouropatkino, the greetings of the French army to the Russian army, and to Their Majesties.

The Day in Berlin.

The Day in Berlin.

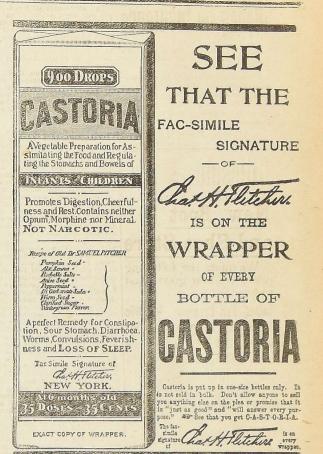

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The New Year's festivities were marked by the emergency of the court from mourning. There was a service in the morning in the chapel of the Palace in the presence of the Imperial family. Chanceller Von Buclow and other dignitaries. After the cremony of nailing to their staffs the standards of several new corps, the Emperor and Empress received the diplomats. Later in the afternoon the Emperor returned the calls of the ambassadors. The New Year's reception is a function to which no diplomat of lower rank than an ambassador is Invited. His Majesty was especially good-humored yesterday. He conversed with each of the eight ambassadors in their own language, except in the case of the Turkish Ambassador, and, even to him, the Emperor uttered a few happy phrases in Turkish.

Mr. Clare gave a very interesting and carnest discourse to one of the largest congregations of the year.

The last meeting of the directors of the Public Library for the present year was held on Tuesday evening, when the business of the year, was closed up. The annual meeting of the Society will be held on Monday evening at 8 p.m. In the Library, when all members are expected to be present. It is also the intention to have the regular annual sale of the dailies, weeklies and monthly periodicals take place during the evening. Peter Brown, who made such a success last season, and also this, at the basket social, will handle the gavel.

The inght of the elections the crowd as usual gathered in Hogg Bros' commodions store to await the that news. The store was soon packed. Thanks to the little instrument catled the telephone it does not take so long now as in days of yore, so quite grly in the evening all reports were in. After everybody was satisfied the returns were covered the new reeve, Anthony McKinnor was called upon to mount the counter, which he did without delay, followed by Mr. James Taylor, the new connellor. Both made happy little speeches thanking those present and those who were not, for their hearty support, etc., and promising. Ilse good boys, to be good. This was followed by a song delivered by H. Rennie in good style, "What is the matter with Anthony—the's all right." Then A. O. Hogg made a few remorks, when word was received through the 'phone from W. Snegitt (he, of course, must have felt clated, having headed the poll) that "it was time to set 'em up for the crowd.' so Mr. McKinnon, Mr. Taylor and Billy McCallough, acting for Mr. Suggitt, ordered the best in the house to be dished up for the boysmixed candy, etc., galore. Then everybody 'went home. some feeling glad, some feeling sad.

Mr. Boxall, of Lindsay, brought a load out on Tueslay and made a short visit at the residence of our worthy treasurer. Mr. Washington, Anione the pirty were Mrs. Leester and Miss Andrews, of Toronto, who on finding out that the Roy. Mr. Webster — sau new Tresby berken minister—resided next door, made Mr. and Mrs. W. a short visit, and no doubt both parties were well pleased to meet each other under the circumstances.

Mouday night was a time of great excitement in the village over the elections, Mr. E. Z. Yere's store was packed full of people cager' for the report. After it had been received the Councillors and reeve treated the crowd, it tacking one pall of candies, one of figs and one of raising to satisfy them. So although the by-law was defeated, hindering them from treating with fire-water, yet they had something better.

On Sunday morning last the dwelling owned and occupied by Mr. W. J. Armittage, was burned to the ground. The fire when first discovered had gaired considerable headway and could not be get under control. Most of the household furnishings were saved by the heroic efforts of Mr. Armitage and his neighbors, who literally flew, to his aid. The loss is partially covered by insurance. Mr. Armitage is preparing to rebuild at once.

Mr. Richard Cruess, eldest son of the late Mr. J. S. Cruess, who has been suffering from disease of the stomach for about two years, underwent an operation at his home on Monday, Dec. 30th. He has since been very low and is still hovering between life and death. On Bruce, of Toronto, performed the operation but was unable, owing to the weakness of the patient, to remove the cause of the trouble, which he prorounced cancerous tumor of the stomach. Mr. and Mrs. Cruess have the deepest sympathy of the community in their trouble. Very little hope is held out for Mr. Cruess' recovery.

KINMOUNT.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Messrs. Puley & Joy's mill is kept tramming these days in order to keep ap with the demand for the fine flour manufactured by that enterprising firm. Your correspondent is informed that business for the past year has been exceptionally good, and their flour is becoming more popular every day. On account of the failure of the grain crop last season in this section this firm reduced the price of flour twenty ents per hundred, thus giving the farmers the advantage of wholesale prices. Farmers please note that you can buy first-class flour at the Kinmount Flour Mills at very moderata prices. The Sabbath School in connection with the English church are preparing an excellent program for the annual entertainment and tea, which will be held on Tuesday, Jan 14th. The band recently organized will be known as the Canadian Foresters' brass band, and will comprise fourteen instruments. Although some of the members are new beginners, and for the next few weeks will be tooting all kinds of music, we trust that ander the able leadership of Mr. A. Black harmony will prevail.

A very pleasant event took place on New Year's day, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McPherson, Elson, when their daughter, Katie, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Dixon, a wealthy farmer residing on the Portage Road. The bride looked charming attired in blue cashmere, trimmed with cream lace and ribbon, and carried a boquet of flowers. She also wore a long bridal veil, which was crowned with a wreath of white chrystanthemous. Miss Aggle McPherson, of Gamebridge, acted as maid of honor and was dressed very becomingly. The groom was ably supported. The cremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Smith, of Kirkfield, in the presence of a large company of invited guests. After the usual congrectiations had been extended the happy party sat down to a wedding dinner comprising all the delicacies of the season. The presents to the bride were handsome and costly, indicating the high estem held by her many friends. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Dixor a happy and prosperous voyage through life.

A pretty wedding took place on thristmas evening, at the residence of Mr. Wm. McGregor, when the last of his daughters was married Mr. Norman Robertsor, of the otch line As many guests were is sent as could comfortably, be acc. mmodated, but there were of course not as many as were usual on such occasions, when Mr. and Mrs. McGregor resided on the old homestead. At that time the marriages of the pretty and popular Misses McGregor were events for the whole country side. The ceremony on Christmas evening was performed by Rev. Mr. Creighton, who would have married more, only unfortunately for the neighborhood Mr and Mrs. McGregor's supply of brides has run out with Miss Gertrude. The young couple have gone to Woodstock, for a trip and on their return will take up the serious duties of life, on the Scotch line opposite the Cheese Factory, and a host of friends wish them all happiness and prosperity.—Independent.

Many nomination meetings have peen held since Lindsay became a been held since Lindsay became a town, without having had to endura the lowering influences of village-dom, and in that long term there have no doubt beer very important issues before the people at times, but we are inclined to doubt that the interest manifested at the nominu-tion gathering for 1902—held last Monday — has ever been equalled. Just why this should be the case is difficult to explain, because while there have been the usual street-corner mutterings, and some shurp criticism in the press, the citizens have given no tangible evidence of wholesale dissatisfaction with the record of the retiring Council. It became noised about, however, that became noised about however, that 41d. Sinclair was collecting ammunition for the onslaught on his colleagues by attacking their position on the fire hall and other koples, and there were whisperings of a combination by which certain ex-councilors of the old school with an itch for office as pronounced as an Irishman's brogue were to be brought forward by ratepayers who made no secret of their opposition to the management of the police and waterworks departments by Commissioners. The leading citizens turned out in greater force than usual to watch the course of events and hear the speeches and the result was a crowded hodse, and an air of keen expectation.

position—Bell had convicted himself, after being given many opportunities. Nevison was no man's servant, the tool of no clique, but attended strictly to his duty in all things, and he hoped no man would enter the new Council with the intention of supporting Tom Bell for the position he had mismanaged. Mr. Ingle had done well and had made a splendid Mayor, and he (Flavelle) sincerely hoped he would be returned at the head of the poll on voting day. (Loud applause and cries of "He will.)

Mr. R. Smyth, in opening, wished the audience the compliments of the seeson, and sill he missed with deep regret the face of Ald Touchburn from their midst, and the town would miss him. He did not know just where to begin, as the financial statement had not been issued by the retiring Council on the statutory date, hence it was impossible to criticize the expenditure. There were rumors of a large deficit, but no nears of ascertaining the amount. Notwithstanding what Mr. Flavelle had said ho (Smyth) would not be there if he did not hold a different opinion. Things had been conducted in a loose way. Some said the deficit was $2300. One thing he had always been particular about when in the Council was to prevent deficits. It would be the duty of the new men to provide some plan tor restoring the town's credit—the town was being kept back by high taxes. If elected he would fix the rate at the beginning of the year, say at 25 mills, lay aside the sums required by the different departments and expend the balance on reads and walks. He was on friendly terms with every member of the old Council, at the would not that was no reason why he should not oppose them. If things had gone well in would not have entered the arena.

Chairman Deacon—'I see the finnencial statement places the deficit at $2.630.'

Mr. Snyth—'Il presume that is correct. We should also lave been furcies with the Water Commission—

Chairman Deacon—'I see the financial statement places the deficit at $2.636."

Mr. Smyth—'I presume that is cortect. We should also have been furcished with the Water Commissioners' statement."

Clerk Knowlson' pointed out that according to the statute the financial statement was to be ready by nomination night, but it had been printed on Saturday. The sheets had been on the table all evening, and could have been secured at his office during the day by any citizen. Mr. J. Duks said it would be presumption for a man like him to run for the position of Mayor, but he had resided in Linday since the waybox, back times and paid taxes on 42 lots. He was also an old veteran of the U.S. Civil War, and thought he had a right to criticize freely. Mr. Duke then trained his guns on the Board of Health, and said that in 63 the death rate in the south ward had exceeded that of the whole township of Ops, and all because of a diverted drain. He would also support equal justice to all, but was not a Communist—there was none of that stripe in the ward. People had paid taxes there for years but could not get a sidewulk. The councillors were perjurers—at least some of them. He would give his support to Mr. Ingle and Mr. O'Rielly. (Chèces) Mr. Jas. Grahim—'Mr. Chalrman, the financial statement places the deficit at $2.067."

Chairman Deacon—"It's a mild error."

Rev. J. W. Macmillan was rext on the list, and responded by wishing all a happy New Year coupled with the hope that the contest would be carried on in a fair, if keep manner, so that men on both sides might retain respect for each other. He was grateful for the honor conferred in his nomination—it might have been meant as a joke, but he would not take it thit way. He was entitled to become a candidate, but circumstances interfered, and he would have to ask that his name be removed.

Capt. Crandell followed. He open-all the pickings they could. If elected mer would know where to find him every time. (Applause.)

Mayor Ingle, on coming forward, was loudy chered. He was sorry he was not an orator, but after hearing Capt. Crandell perhaps he should nok for a knot-hole to crawl into. He had endeavored to do his best for the town during his term —why shouldn't he? He had been a resident of the town for about half a century—longer than Capt. Crandell, As for th't town half, work, was he suppected that some of the material being dressed for customers was intended for a town building? He defield that he had a contract with the town. If elected he would serve the people to the best of his ability, as in the past—he was a worker, but not a talker. When in Council Capt. Crandell, who posed as a friend of the poer man, wasted to send to Peterboro for a man to work on grannilthic walks, but he (Ingle) had refused his sanction. (Loud applause.)

For Aldermen.

Mr. Wan. Flavelle was the first speaker, and held the rapt attention of the crowd from his first word. Like olders, he was not finding fault with the retiring council—he between the was unreasonable to think that they could please everyone. He knew something about the fire half, in compelled say that the Watch, and he felt compelled say the felt of th

Mr. Abram Brooks thought the present Council had made a great many blunders. Ho had first came to Lindsay 46 years ago. He had no axe to grind in seeking election, but was now in a position to spend a little time in the interests of the town.

Doctor Jack

Author of "Doctor Jack's Wife," Captain Tom," Baron Sam" "Miss Pauline of New York." Miss Caprice," Etc.

Of what avail is it for Jack to vehemently deny the soft impeachment, when his face gives the lie to his words—the latter die away to a murmur on his lips, and he stands there, a convicted criminal.

As for the Spanish beauty who has condescended to beg for this man's love—emotions chase each other over her face, her heart seem to stand still at one moment and then beat like a trip hammer the next, while her small hands are elenched until the nuils almost enter the palms.

It is the supreme moment of her life—from that pivotal point she must so either up or down as the inner spirit urges—some women, built upon a frånd model, would be more gentle, more gracious after such a lesson, others would prove themselves fit devotees of Satan's wiles.

Jack fears the worst, but nothing he may do can help her choose—that must come from within, for "as the twig's inclined the tree is bent." He knows the storm—if storm it proves to be—sannot be averted by his means, and so he bows his head to meet it, as milght the sturdy oak in the forest.

But the Spanish headty does not burst out into a hot harangue as he has expected. She seems to possess some control over her feelings after sil, and Jack finds himsif unable to decide as to what course she means to adopt.

"You cannot deceive me, Doctor Jack—I know that girl is in your mind, your heart, and that Mercedes Gonzales can never hope to gain your feve. It is very sudden—very cruel," the murmurs, passing one hand over feer forehead in a dazed sort of way.
"I am sofry—" begins Jack, hardly knowing what to say, but she interrupts him with a proud gesture and a strained laugh.
"Make no apologies—I am something

"Make no apologies—I am something of a Mohammedan in my ways, and as Abdallah Pasha might say. Kismet—It is fate." But what would you expect a Spanish woman to do who has been supplanted in the heart of the man she loves by another? What forture could be too great for that other frail being, to appease her outraged feelings?" she almost hisses.

"You will pervert the matter—I have only seen Miss Morion onee or twice in my life—it is a business arring ment that takes us away in computing." He has been alarmed at the idea of harm coming to Avis because it him, and would avert the storm, but she laughs again, and sneeringly with the laughs again, and sneeringly "Have no fears—I am not that vin-Make no apologies-I am something dofcasted, stung with contending emo-tions, and yet a woman.

"What would you do?" he asks, as

"The worst that I shall do is to heave you to your fate. Adios, Senor Jeok."

He takes the hand, and somehow a

He takes the hand, and somehow a great feeling of tenderness for this fively woman almost overwhelms him—he knows what her southern nature dictates, for he has seen the vendetta of Corsica carried out by frail women, so that he now beholds Mercedes as one who had gained a signal victory over the passions she interited.

"Forgive me the pain I cause you, senorita, and believe me, I am not worthy of your thoughts. I trust and believe the future has happiness in store for you, and that you will never repent such generous action, for I know and appreciate the national spirit of revenge which you have conquered. Heaven guard you, senorita."

"Be bends over the little hand and kisses it in a true cavalier style. Mercedes looks at him with her heart in her eyes, as though this little action has aroused a false hope in her breast; then, seeing no change in his feer, the wistful look turns to one of "Ways akking whether she was in or """.

"No gentleman?"
"No gentleman?"
"Only the pasha," carelessly.
"What!" almost howls Doctor Jack, who comes very near scaring the clerk of a very sear scaring the clerk of search of the pasha, carelessly.
"What!" almost howls Doctor Jack, who comes very near scaring the clerk of them, seeing no change in his face, the wistful look turns to one of keen disapointment, and tearing her hand from his clasp, she opens the deep of the room, and is gone.
"Jack is left in even a more disturbed frame of mind than before. He does not know, he cannot tell what Mercedes will do. The spirit that moves her may be for good or evil. She has said she will simply leave him to his fate, but who can guess what a woman of her electric nature, once madly in love, may not attempt?

He can hardly understand what it is has caused him to put aside the temptation—any man would be flattered by the love of such a rosult of the temptation—any man would be flattered by the love of such a rosult of the pasha been able to resist the subtle charm. Where is the tallisman that has saved him?

Almost unconsciously he puts his enemy's masked battery it they nave consension of the season and the season of the surfaces of the season of ing of some new spectacle, and they are determined to keep well posted.

So the hotel is soon reached—there is beginning to be a show of life around it, as the American leaps from his carriage and enters. Another moment and he has cornered the proper functionary who serves as a clerk, and of whom he asks whether Miss Morton has gone.

The other leisurely surveys him, and begins to talk in a rambling way about finding out; but Jack knows what hat means—an interminable wait—precious minutes lost, and nothing rained when the servant finally returns. Time is too valuable to be allowed to slip so easily. He knows that this party is like the rost, and the fingle of a few reals will make him awaken. Speedily they pass from his own hand into the itching palm of the clerk, and the offect on that party is quite surprising. He becomes acoused at once like a man who saud now think for himself, makes a grand, herole effort, and then glove with frithingh, just as the excited pullet cackless after laying her first legs.

Doctor Jack walks up and down outside on the platform, under the pretense of smoking a cigar, although the ladies have given him the privilege of doing so inside—an opportunity which Larry does not scruple to improve by using up an unlimited number of horrid cigarettes.

In reality Doctor Jack is looking for familiar faces—he wonders if the sava will come, but looks in vain for the rea rez among the crown. In the Turk has arrived before them, he is all this while in one of the other carriages. Jack, as he walks up and down, glances sharply into each compartment, but falls to see the man he looks for. A number of shades are down over the windows, and it is as likely as not the pasha may be in one of these compartments.

looks for. A number of shades are down over the windows, and it is as likely as not the pasha may be in one of these compartments.

Besides, Jack keeps his eyes open—there are other enemies to think about, without taking the pasha into consideration, and if any of them are about he wants to know it. In his mind he also thinks of Mercedes, and glances curiously at a number of ladles, but all of them are strangers. One attracts more than a passing glance—he cannot see her face, for the rebosa hides it, but her carriage is stately and her form indicates youth and health.

He suspects that it is Mercedes, but would make certain, so he enters into an agreement with a man who seems to be a porter—there is a hasty exchange of silvey—the man grasps the situation, picks up a box, and in passing the lady manages that a corner shall catch in her long vail, which is instantly dislodged. Jack chuckles at the success of his little game, even though disappointed at seeing the indignant face of a stranger, who looks after the clumsy porter with daggers in her black eyes, and proceeds to rearrange her rebosa.

A bell sounds—the guard cries "all aboard" in his Spanish way, and Jack, tossing his cigar aside, enters the carriage. Then the door is locked, but as the American has bought the guard, body and soul, he will be on hand as soon as the train stops at a station to see what is needed.

Then they begin to leave Madrid behind. No one is particularly sorry to do this, for the Spanish capital has little to charm the modern touriet like gay Paris, and as the road from the first generally leads to the second, every emotion can be summed.

Our friends are very comfortable, but Larry is the only merry one of beautiful woman, and yet Jack has been able to resist the subtle charm. Where is the talisman that has saved him?

Almost unconsciously he puts his hand into his pocket, and draws something out, upon which he gazes long and earnestly. It is the portrait of Aris Morton, and since he has met the stiginal, Jack finds a new charm in the picture.

"Yes, it was Avis who kept me from yielding myself a captive to her Circelike charms, ransom or no ransom syleding myself a captive to her Circelike charms, ransom or no ransom. Such a wife would never do for Jack Evans. I want one who will be the same yesterday, to-day, and to-morrow, such a girl as Avis Morton, for instance, and please Heaven, if I can convince her of that same thing after we have done our level best to save Aleck, she shall take me for what I am worth, old nomad that I am."

Thus he mutters to himself, and pressess the dumb counterfeit resemblance of Avis to his lips after the manner of all foolish lovers. Had Mersel and the straight of the converse of the converse has known him for years—he was Aleck's friend, and now her champion. He seems to be resting uneasily—the cushion has partly fallen from under his head, and bending down Avis tries to rearrange it. In so doing a lurch of the train causes her hand to touch his face—his eyes open—she blushes as he quickly and deftly catches her hand, and presses it to his lips—thank heaven! the others are so busy arranging dinner on the table that they do not see this.

Larry, seizing a tin pan, beats a tatto upon it in lieu of a gong, and this brings Jack to his feet with ludicrous haste—love must take a back seat now, since appetite reigns.

They have great fun over the dinner, as there chance to be several dishes which none of them understand, so that their tasting and comments on these are ridiculous. On the whole the dinner is good, and they enjoy it with remarkable unanimity.

The others cannot but notice that Doctor Jack is unusually quiet. Avis inquires if he has a headache, and is not satisfied when he says no, for she understands that there is some worry on the other's mind.

In this she is right—Jack foresees trouble of some sort ahead. He has learned that Don Carlos is on the train, which fact is in itself suggestive, for the Don world not be making this journey only for his presence aboard.

ing this journey only for his presence aboard.

Then he is also sure the pasha must be near at hand. If these two unite their forces, trouble may come. The train has to pass through a lonely section of country during the night run, and makes so many stops that it would not be difficult for a resolute body of Carlists to capture the whole would not be difficult for a resolute body of Carlists to capture the whole expedition.

When the meal is done they chat for a while and look at the scenery. They are now getting into the valley of the river Ebro—vineyards and orange groves are to be seen, although the latter are not plentiful this far north in Spain, the main crop being gathered in the region of Seville, in the southern province of Andalusia, and along the warm coast of the Mediterranean, the upper portion of the peninsula being often bleak and cold in the winter season.

It is nalf-past three when the train enters the city of Zaragoza, on the Ebro. Here outle a long stop is made—their course for the massiley of the Ebro, and they may expect to see much more of Spanish thrift and industry than has as yet greeted their vision.

Again Jack goes out to stretch his legs and smoke a cigar, in which former act the dude limitates him. Presently Larry sees some fruit, and rushes off to buy. Jack hopes he will not be left behind, and is determined that nothing shall take him from the rushes off to buy. Jack hopes he will not be left behind, and is determined that nothing shall take him from the vicinity of the car.

There are many people at the station, and he eyes them with careless indifference. As he stands thus he feels a hand touch his arm.

"Senor Jack," says a low, hesitating voice—he recognizes it instantly, for he can never forget that velvet-like tone—wheels without delay, and then and there receives a powerful shock.

CHAPTER XV.

The person who has touched him is a boy—his face shows traces of grime, and altogether, with his ordinary garments, he is one upon whom a person would hardly bestow a second glance. It is that face, however, upon which the American fastens his eyes—the voice has already given him a clew, and he finds no difficulty in recognizing—Mercedes.

looks so fresh and pretty in her neat travelling dress.

Mercedes holds her breath—she feels dizzy, and a whirl of contending emotions rush through her mind. At sight of her rival's cold stare her blood has seemed like motien lava—she feels the position she has placed herself in keenly, and a desire for revenge comes to her. Then her eyes fall on the face of Doctor Jack—his caim gray eyes give her life and she is her own true self again, though she feels that during the last minute she has passed through the flery furnace.

Jack learns that they reach the town at about half-past ten, and believes this is a good time to leave the train. So he makes up his mind to go on. It is unfortunate, but not being able to foresee future events he does not know the chances he takes.

Mercedes speaks a few more words, and turns away, for she feels the eyes of Avis upon her all the time, and it makes her very uncomfortable. Jack sees her enter a compartment near by. He does not know what to think of her action, but, like a sensible man, judges it from the motive, which he knows is a noble one.

Their time is up—the signal cree are being given, and as yet Larry has not turned up. He will be left—all are anxious concerning the little dude, and crowd the windows—the guard has left the door of the compartment open, and as the train begins to pull out Larry is seen running with all the speed his little legs are capable of, his arms full of the fruit he has bought.

Luckly the watchful guard shes him, and on the alert to please his ilberal patron, he signals to the trail—master so that presently Larry climbs

Luckily the watchful guard sreshim, and on the alert to please his itberal patron, he signals to the trailmaster so that presently Larry climbs into the carriage exhausted, out of breath, but triumphantly holding aloft his packages of fine fruit.

"Pon 'onah, now," he declâres, as soon as he can find breath, "it wean't my fault, ye see. I would have feen back in good time, but d'ye know a beastly fellah began to accuse me of running away with his sister or his aunt, or somebody in petticoats, caught me by the arm, and declared it his intention to awest me. I heard the guard cwy 'all aboard,' but, hang the luck—pawdon the expwession, ladles, but a fellah geis worked up, you know—this chap wouldn't let go, so I just dwopped my packages, sailed into the bloody pirate, tumbled him over among the owanges, and then snatching up my bundles made a bee line for the twain, which I came vewy near missing, bah Jove!"

That was the story—a very simple one, and with just enough of the ludlerous about it to create a general laugh. Doctor Jack, however, sees deeper into the game than any of the others, and taking advantage of the first opportunity he tells Larry so.

"The whole affair was a set up job," he declares.

"What!" cries the dude.

"That man had lost no wife, or sister, or grandmother. He simply lied."

"With what object in view, pray?"

"To detain you in Zaragoza while the set of the my comments of the content of

"With what object in view, pray?"

"To detain you in Zaragoza while the rest of us went on," replies Jack.

"To woo me?"

"It might have come to that, although I am not sure. The main object was to separate you and I."

"The duse! What for?"

"Simply that Avis might have one the less protector when the attack on the train is made."

"Attack on the twain!" gasps Larry.

"Certainly. I have learned that after we leave Logrono, at a certain small station where the train stops to give the locomotive a drink, a band of Carlists mean to attack us. Their object you can readily guess—it is to take on lives for we also see.

of Carlists mean to attack us. Their object you can readily guess—It is to take our lives, for you are also accounted a traitor to the cause, since you are hand in glove with me."
This information actounds the New York dude, but does not frighten him. It seems a pity that such indomitable spirit should have been placed by a freak of nature in such an insignificant little work.

Gentlemen: I write the stestimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been effliced with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feeling that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

PENIEL.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Wednesday, Dec. 18th, a temperance meeting was held in the church. Rev. G. Clare, A. O. Hogg, and Mr. Bott gave very strong and convircing addresses showing clearly that the repeal of the Local Option would be a great calamity to the township. We trust that Penish will go strong for "no repeal."

A very successful social event took place in the town hall on Tuesday (Christmas eve) in connection with the Sunday School. There was an immense Christmas tree laden with presents for old and young, besides a bag of bon bons for each scholar. The program which was varied and lengthy, reflected great credit on both scholars and pupils. The finance report was road by Mr. Marks, which shewed the school to be sound in that respect. Rev. Mr. J. R. Allen, who has taught in the Reaboro School for the last six years and a half with the best of success has accepted a position in an Indian School at Battleford. On the Tuesday evening before his departure he was met at his boarding place by a number of the Baptist congregation and presented with an address and a handsome, pair of lamb skin mitts, and on Friday afternoon, at the school, his pupils presented him with a beautiful see of military brushes. The addressor read as follows;

Mr. J. E. Allen, Reaboro. Dear Sir,—In view of your, swiftly approaching departure from Reaboro, we, who ere connected with the Baptist congregation in this placed wish to express to you our, esteem and good wishes. As a teacher you have been carnest and successful in introducting our youth into the knowledge of this world and in cultivating in them hibits of promptness, industry and obedience; while in you they have had constantly before them and example of gentlemanly conduct and christian character that has powerfully influenced them. You have been metersted in all that benefitted it and you have vigoriously opposed all that injured it. Your friendship has been valued by young and old. You have been most useful in the church. Indeed if it were not for our faith in Providence, we could not well see how the Sunday school, the olding work, we wish you "God speed." You go to a people needing seducation, civilization, moral training, and above all, needing the gospel of the grace of God. We shall remember you and pray for you. As your have been useful, beloved and happy here, we pray that we may all meet, where partings are no more, in heaven. Jos. Mr. J. E. Allen. Dear Teacher.—It is my sad duty, on behalf of our school, to bid farewell to one whom we have learned to love. None but the most tender memories will ever fill our souls when we trink of the happy days spent under your Instruction. You may at times have thought us ungrateful for your enduring patience and unremitting efforts on our behalf, but we are sure you will forgive and forget the seeming ingratitude, remembering that old heads are not found on young shoulders. We assure you that it is with the daepest regret that we see you depart from our school and from our community. We ask you to accept this set of milltary brushes as a rememberance of our grateful appreciation of the unvarying kindness we have received at your hands. May success attend your future walk in life, and may the New Year, spent performing new duties amid new seenes, prove to be both happy and prosperous.—Signed in behelf of the School, Stella Hickson, Lucila Mc-Ivor. Ottawa, Dec. 27.—According to the official figures, as finally revised, the surplus of ordinary receipts over Ottawa, Dec. 27.—According to the official figures, as finally revised, the surplus of ordinary receipts over ordinary expenditures for the fiscal year ended June 30th last amounted to the handsome sum of $5,648,333. The receipts were $52,514,701, and the expenditure totalled $46,866,367. The expenditure chargeable to capital amounted to $7,695,488, as against $7,468,843 for the previous fiscal year. Adding $2,512,328 for railway subsidies and $908,681 for the South African contingents and Haliax garrison to the capital expenditure, gives a total of $11,116,-498. Deducting the surplus of $5,648,333, sinking funds to the amounts of $2,480,336 and $1,531 of refunds, it leaves $2,986,196 to be added to the net debt of the Dominion, which on June 30th stood at $208,480,003. The details of capital expenditure were as follows:

Canals — Lachine, $97,305; St. Lawrence River, Cornwall, $62,032; Parran's Point, $111,156; Galops, $481,324; Lake St. Francis, $15,900; Lake St. Louis channel, $12,918; North Channel, $184,790; Rapide Plat, $76,501; River Reaches, $19,389; Soulanges, $462,626; Sault Ste. Banking Statistics.

At the close of the fiscal year the balance at the credit of the depositors in the Government and Post-office savings banks amounted to $56,048,957.06, an increase of $2,899,234.66 over the balance held on June 30, 1900; part of this increase, $1,589,761.05, represents interest added to the various accounts, and the remainder, $1,309,473.61, the excess of receipts over withdrawals. Dominion notes to the amount of $27,671,452.05 were outstanding on June 30, 1901, as against $26,094,923.52 on June 30 of the previous year, or an increase of $1,576,528.53. The increasing volume of the Dominion, the Deputy Minister of Finance says, is doubtless the principal cause of this expansion of the circulation, but a part of it is apparently attributable to the fact that the chartered banks are approaching the limit of the circulation allowed by the terms of the bank act, and are using Dominion issues where ordinarily their own notes would be employed. Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Mr. J. A. Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior, accompanied by Mr. W. S. White, Inspector of Immigration Agencies in the United States, leaves for England on Tuesday next to investigate matters connected with the immigration service there. It has been decided to place the immigration offices in England and Europe under the control of Mr. W. T. R. Preston, subject to the direction of the High Commissioner, but further changes are contemplated. Mr. Smart has power to open an immigration office in the business centre of London If, after careful investigation, he finds such a step to be necessary. The immigration work in London is conducted at the High Commissioner's office on Victoria street, Westminster, but it has been thought for some time that this office is a little out of the way and that a location on a more prominent street ought to be found. Mr. Smart will also visit each one of the different branch agencies in Britain and study the methods of working with a view of ascertaining where improvement, can be fintroduced. It is intended to indulge in advertising on a more popular ans systematic plan than has hitherto been done. The value of advertising has

It was long ago found that, while advertising was maintained, inquiries about land from intending settlers were numerous, but that inquiries dropped if the advertising was dropped for any season. Accordingly, a persistent and steady policy of making known Canada's resources in the United States has been followed, and to this is largely attributed the great tide of immigration from the western States to progress.

granted from the speeches of the Prince of Wales since he returned to England that he is impressed with the necessity of aiding British setlers to settle the unoccupied lands of Canada and the other British dominions, and if the British Government acts upon the suggestion of the heir-apparent the work of the Canadian immigration branch will be greatly facilitated.

Last year Canada received 12,000 settlers from Britain, or only about one-fourth of the number which went from the British Isles to the United States. A strong endeavor will be made by means of active agents and the adoption of a vigorous propaganda to attract a large volume of British immigration to Canada. Messrs. Smart and White will be absent about six weeks on their mission.

MONDAY NIGHT'S MEETING.

The attendance at Monnay night's nomination meeting was a record-breaker, and various reasons have been ascribed for it. To our mind Rev. J. W. Maemillan's series of annual sermons on municipal affairs has had much to do with arousing the multiplicative results of the nitely aton the town.

As for the probable result of the acceting, all reasonable men will endily admit that the active mensers of the retiring Council put forward a splendid vindication of their accord and undoubtedly strengthened themselves in the good opinion of the majority of the thinking electors present. Add. O'Rielly made an specially effective address and with nother year's experience would be a very valuable man in Council.

THE FIRE HALL SITE.

It is to be regretted that a strong It is to be regretted that a strong effort is being made by some persons opposed to the present fire hall site to arouse the ill-will of farmers against the retiring Council by insinuating that the placing of the fire hall on the market squarq is meant as a slap at every farmer who comes to Lindsay te offer his produce; on the open market. It is a comparatively easy matter to arouse such a feeling, especially when the argument happens to be a plausible one, but it is a dangerous means to adbut it is a dangerous manus to adopt in an endeavor to score a point. The farming community is already sufficiently suspicious of Lindsay business methods, and any attempt to fan the feeling of resent-ment often heard expressed deserves

the severest consure
In all probability the parties responsible for the outery forgot to tell the farmers that the old fire hall is to be removed in the spring, that there will then be more room for farmers rigs than there has ever been, that the platform accom-modation will be trebled, and that in other respects also improvements for their benefit will follow the crection of the fire hall. No accident has occurred as a result of the fire team rushing out of the present hall and in the new location the risk will be lessened.

We sincerely hope that the bright future painted for Lindsay's market may become a reality, and the day would be hastoned if the parties now trying to introduce disorrd and dissension would but expond their en-ergy in the right direction. If we mistake not, the business done at the market twenty years ago was almost as great as at present, and it citizens persist in ignoring the invitations of Clerk Callaghan to at-tend the market the present accommodation in the matter of building and grounds will suffice for another twenty years to come. We hope, however, that with the growth of the town the market will increase, and that in course of four or five years Clerk Callaghan will be oc cupying the entire lower floor of the town hall. When that day arrives the space taken up by the fire hall site would not relieve the congestion. If the market grows to that extent we shall have to take in the plot to the west, and by that time we will have a park elsewhere.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Mulock must look to his laurels. One-cent postage is the goal of the ambition of Uncle Sam's new Postmaster-General.

There are 58,000 people out of work in Germany and 30,000 more are looking forward to the beginning of the New Year with apprehension. It is a disagreeable but unavoidable incident in that country's much-heralded industrial boom. There heralded industrial boom. There ought to be explanations why the protective policy that is credited with having made the empire great does not keep the people working.

The Klondike where the gold comes from is not quite so near the North Pole as some people think, for Faith Fenton Brown writes to the Gioba that turnips, cabbages, carrots, cauliflowers and parsnips, of native growth, have been put into warm storage at Dawson this last autumn to help feed the people during the winter, and up the Yukon River, sat-isfactory crops of hay, oats and clover were reaped.

After fly four years' agitat on the women of Massachusetts have succeeded in getting the law changed so as to make men and women equal in the matter of the inheritance laws. More, they have had the provision More, they have had the provision that a widow may have the use of her husband's house for forty days extended to six months. The new law goes into effect on Jan. 1.

In the address to the Toronto minlsters a few days ago, in which he took a certain class of women to task for gadding and attending meettask for gadding and attending meetlngs to reform the world while neglecting their own families, Crown Attorney Curry said: "They will come to me, pleading for a man charged with theft, and in whose case circumstances may be exceptional. But I have yet to meet one who will ask that some poor girl oe not seek to jall because she has been tempted and has fallen." Mr.
Curry has observed, has have many others, that women are more charitable roward the nale sex than toward their own. Why this should be so is one of the puzzles which go to make her the mystery of mysterles.

HATS OFF TO SALVATION ARMY. (Chicago Record-Herald.)

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

Among the benign activities that are the outgrowth of the ciristian religion and that bring Christmas joy to thousands of the needy and distressed nothing is comparable in for-reaching scope, beneficence and beauty to the ministrations of the Salvation Army.

The world takes off its hat to this band of militant christians on Christmas morning. The snaring cynic, the scoffer, the pessimist, the misanthrope-all stand abashed and confounded in the presence of the impressive exemplification of the Master's teachings that is given the world on each recurring Christmas by this unique organization. To the agong the children of the sums by the thousands in hundreds of cities is an overwhelming answer. There is no theology in it, no creed, no dogma, no denomination, no mittred bishops or cardinals in crimson vestments—nothing but the simple act of carrying out the injunction of the low-ly Nazarene, whose birthday anniversary is being celebrated.

In Chicago, at Tattorsall's in New York, at Madison-square Garden, in Clevland, Philadelphia and other big centres of population, where poverty and want are most distressing, the Salvation Army gave Christmas diners to thousands and tens of thousands. In addition to the boundful feasts spread for the poor in these cities, well-filled baskets were distributed to thousands of destitute families.

And all this was done in the name cities, well-filled baskets were distributed to thousands of destitute families.

And all this was done in the name of Christ—not to buy the votes of the peor and ignorant for corrupt politicians, as Tammany would do it, or as "Big Tim" Suilivan, Stats Senator of New York, did it at the Bowery.

The Salvation Army does not distribute turkeys to elect aldermen or to perpetuate the power of plundering political organizations. It is animated by the one exalted purpose to relieve the distress, to give cheer to disconsolate humanity, to lift up the fallen, to succor the needy and betriend the friendless. In doing this it furnishes the most admirable example of practical christianity that the world has ever seen.

No substitute for "The D. &. L." Monthol Plaster, although some un-scrupulous dealers may say there is. Recommended by doctors, by hospi-tal, by the clergy, by everybody, for stiffness, pleurlsy, &c. Made by Da-vis & Lawrence Co., Ltd.

THE POST'S PREMIUM.

It has been the custom of the publishers of The Weekly Post for some years to offer a handsome Christmas premium to old and new subscribers paying in advance for the coming year. This year's premium is especially appropriate, being a very fine engraving of our beloved ruler. His Majesty King Edward VII., whose recent accession to the throne and approaching corountion, will inspire in every particle heart a desire to possess a coppy of this faithful picture of the royal countenance. It has been the custom of the pub-tenance.

The demand has already exceeded our expectations, and as the supply is limited and cannot be replaced, we would urge subscribers to take advantage of our premium offer at their earliest convenience.

BAKER ALLEN SUFFERS LOSS

Bakeshop Caught Fire Saturday Morn ing and was Destroyed About 9 a.m. last Saturday Mr. J.

About 9 a.m. last Saturday Mr. J. T. Allen's bakeshop in the rear of his residence on Victoria avenue, north ward, was destroyed by fire. Mr. Allen was returning from the new house he is erecting on Colborue-st. when he noticed the fire through a window. He sent in an alarm from the box at the cerner of Cambridge and Francis-sts, and the fire brigade quickly responded, but as the building was frame it burned quickly. However, the brigade did good work and succeeded in keeping the fire confined to the bakeshop. Mr. Allen's loss on building and stock will be heavy. He had received yesterday two tons of flour from the local mills and only about twenty bags were saved. When the fire started a batch' of bread was ready for the oven. Mr. Allen holds a small insurance—$4400.

A CHRISTMAS WEDDING.

Thorn. Mark.

On Christmas afternoon a pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Thorn, Maciposa, when their sister, Mabel, became the fair, bride of Fred Mark. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about one hundred invited guests by the Rev. Dixon, of Scagnave. The bride looked charming in a costume of light caster brown broadcloth trimmed with silk and applique and was attended by hier cousin, Miss Hattle Hickingoothum, of Lindsay, who was attired in a similar costume, while Laura Thorn and Lillian Ringland, nelces of the bride, gowned in cream silk, acted as maids of honor. The bride was given away by her brother, Mc. W. Thorn and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Powers, of Lindsay. The groon was ably supported by his brother John.

After bearty congratulations the company gathered in the beautiful diningsom, where the table was spread with a rich wedding dinner. After all had, done ample justice to the good things, and tonsted the health of the bride, the evening was spent in various amusements. Among the friends from a distance were Mr. George Thorn, Mrs. W. J. Thorn, Missos Eva and Laura Thorn, of Sidney, Manitoba, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Jewell, of Mt. Albert, and many others from Port Ferry, Lindsay, Woodville and Glenarm. The bride bride was the recipient of many costly and handsome presents, showing the esteem in which she was held. The happy couple got to their new home with the best wishes of the surrounding compunity. On Christmas afternoon a pretty home with the best wis surrounding community.

The Speech of Premier Ross at the Plunkett Banquet.

CANADA'S ATTITUDE TO IRELAND

Canadian People Opposed to the Separ ation of Ireland From the United Kingdom-How He Would Make Not a United Kingdom Only but a United Empire - Confederation a Success.

Toronto, Dec. 30.— Right Hon, Horace Plunkett, ex-M.P., who was defeated by "Col." Lynch of prospections, arrived in Toronto Saturday morning. Mr. Plunkett came to Toronto at the invitation of the National Club, before whom he delivered an interesting address the same evening, on the social and ecconomic affairs of Ireland.

In response to the toast, "Imperial Unity," Hon. C. W. Ross and Col. Denison both spoke in strong fashion in support of this idea.

Canada's Attitude.

Hon. G. W. Ross closed a great

Canada's Attitude.

Hon. G. W. Ross closed a great speech with these ringing, forceful words: "There is this to be said in connection with the problem. In Canada the universal feeling is, and I think I voice the opinion of the people, that no form of home rule that involves directly, in fact or by implication, the separation of Ireland from the United Kingdom would be tolerated in this country. (Applause.) In Canada we think that not only should the union between them be a political union, but that it should also be a union of heart and sympathy. Yet I think It is in the minds of a great many that it should be within the wit of man, to use Mr. Gladstone's expression, to devise some means whereby Ireland may be reconciled to be ween the specific of the second o it should be whall the work to use Mr. Gladstone's expression, to devise some means whereby Ireland may be reconciled to her present position. Am I right in saying that Ireland would accept nothing but complete separation? If that be the ultimatum of the Irish people, then I would say Ireland can never have it." (Applause.)

A United Empire.

Referring again directly to the ple, then I would say Ireland can never have it." (Applause.)

Referring again directly to the Irish question, he said: "Looking at it from this distance, what if they restored to old Scotland her parliament, with local powers; to Ireland per parliament, and gave to England what she never had before, a local parliament, and Wales, too, for that matter? Then, what if they devised, for surely they have the genius—English statesmanship is highest in rank and character in the world—a central government, in which also all the colonies of the empire would be represented, and, therefore throw on the canvas not a united kingdom alone but a united empire?" Lord Rosebery in a recent speech, he continued, had said that confederation of the empire would come as surely as anything under the sun. Canadians agreed to that so long as it came to them in such a way that their liberties would not be abridged or their constitutional rights curtailed. Ireland would then have the control of her own local affairs, Canada and the other colonies would not lose any of their constitutional privileges. All would look to the empire not as governing them, but they governing themselves through that great Imperial Parliament, and thus preserving the dearest right of all English-speaking peoples, the right of self-government. (Applause.)

Confederation a Success.

Canadians had found confederation a success. He did not say that government. (Applause.)

Confederation a Success.

Canadians had found confederation a success. He did not say that without that confederation England would fall. He did feel sure, however, that the true solution of the Imperial problem, if England was to keep in the van of nations, would be found when she reached out her hands to the colonies and said she was no longer England isolated, but a worldwide power connected vitally in every latitude and meridian with her people, and every kindred and race under the sun. In concluding he sæd that Canada wanted population of the right material and the capital of the old land. He referred to the Hon. Mr. Chamberlain as the best Colonial Secretary Britain ever had, a man who more than any other thoroughly appreciated the idea of Imperial unity, and had done all in his power to foster it, and asked Mr. Plunkett to assure him that in whatever emergency might arlise, Canadians could be depended upon to do their duty to the empire and maintain its honor at any price. (Loud and long-continued applause.)

Since his arrival in America, during the early part of the month, he has been looking after his business interests in Nebraska and Wyoming. He intends sailing again for Liverpool on Tuesday.

Wireless Telegraphy Wizard Will Soon Be In Ottawa to Confer With the Government About the Future.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 30.— Signor Marconi arrived from Cape Breton last night. He was accompanied by an attendant, and by Mr. Smith, secretary of the Canadian Postoffice Department. Marconi will remain in Montreal to-day, when he will be the guest at a luncheon, tendered him by the Bider-Dempster Company. Mr. Marconi said last night that he had not come to Canada to interest Canadian capitalists, as he had all the financial backing he required. He will leave for Ottawa this evening to confer with the Canadian Government.

Marconi Says It Asked Him to Join Forces in Communication.

Halifax, Dec. 30.—Talking of his plans here yesterday, Mr. Marconi said that a cable company had asked him to instal his system on Sable Island, and giving them connection with it at Canso. This may be done, he added, after his return to Nova Scotia, two months hence, when he will be here to see about outlding a station at Louisburg or other Cape Breton point. The inventor says he has no doubt that he can keep up regular communication between Cornwall and Nova Scotia. Should through tests, however, demonstrate this to be impossible, he will erect a station on the Azores, accepting an offer from the King of Portugal.

A. L. Meyer of New York, a director of the Cape Breton Railway, yesterday offered him a site at Louisburg.

Mr. Marconi has been forced to decline a second invitation from Alexander Graham Bell to go to his estate at Baddock and conduct experiments there.

Halifax, Dec. 30.—Marconi has received an offer of $1,000 a lecture for 12 lectures to be delivered by him in the United States. He declined. Marconi's hopes and ambitions soar beyond lecturing at $1,-000 a night. He is neglecting the immediate development of short distance wireless telegraphy, in which, he says, money can be made at once, in order to demonstrate the possibilities of trans-Atlantic work, and he says that he has no inclination to stand on the lecture platform while such a great matter engages his attention.

NO QUARTER WAS GIVEN. Four Hundred Fell in a Hand to Hand Struggle at Henda.

Colon, Colombia, Dec. 30.—Baranquilla papers, dated Dec. 24, which reached here yesterday morning, contain further details of the battle fought near Honda.

'In the evening the insurgents, on arriving at Caraoli, near Marlquita, awaited the Government troops in two wings. It was there that bayonets and machetes were freely used, as the insurgents' ammunition was exhausted. The vanguard being surrounded, the Government troops, with the aid of the rear guard, succeeded in breaking the line and utterly routing the enemy. On the following morning, when four hundred were found to have been killed, the insurgents retreated by way of Gunyaquil, taking their wounded with them.

The fighting in this engagement has been characterized as uncivilized. The Liberal colors bore the device, "I neither ask for nor give guar-

TUESDAY'S RAILWAY SMASH

Freight and Passenger Trains Collided at Stherley-One Engineer Loses an Arm.

Orillia Times, Thursday; A dis-astrous collision occurred at Ather-ley Junction on Tuesday afternoon. The mall due here from Gravenhurst The mall due here from Graveninus; at 4.3C collided with freight train No. 79, both of which were more or less badly wrecked. The passengers, although they escaped serious injury, were badly shaken up. The engineer of the passenger train, Mr. Chatem, of Toronto, lost his arm an hour afterwards, by falling under the wheels while the train was in notion.

bour afterwards, by falling under the wheels white the train was in notion.

The mail train had orders to meet the freight at the "Y," and through some error in the delivery, or the execution of the order, it was disregarded. The freight was statioued on the main track awaiting the arrival of the passenger, which was supposed to stop, but which, as usual, came swiftly around the curve, and when the danger was sighted it was too late for prevention, and running at the rate of about twenty-live or thirty miles an hour it crashed into the freight. The firemen on both engines, when they realized the danger, jumped, but the engineers held their posts. The effect of the shock was so great that it turned the passenger sick, and he fell out of his engine some time later, under the moving wheels, where his arm got on the rail and was run over, and mashed to a jelly. The tenders of both engines were badly smashed, and one of the flat cars was broken to pieces and piled up on the track. A wrecking train from Aliandale was soon on the scene and had the wreck cleared away. The injured engineer was taken to Barrie hospital, where his arm was amputated.

One of the prettiest home weeddings seen in Lindsay for many a day took place on Christmas afternoon at the residence of Mr. Thomas Sadler, Ridout-st., when his daughter, Miss Allee, became the bride of Dr. Adam Clarke, of Lander, Manitoba. The house had been transformed into a bower of beauty, the decorations being appropriate to the season and very effective and unique. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Roberts, town, an old friend of the family, assisted by Rev. T. Manning, B.A., pasior of Cambridge-st. Methodist chirch.

The bride looked very sweet and charming in a dainty gown of white organite trimmed with tucks and valenciennes insertion and lanc, and carried a boquet of white chrystn-friend. Miss Sangster, of Quebec, whose dross was also of whites or grandle. Miss Jeasle Lummis, of Toronte, nicee of the bride, made a winsome little maid of honor; she also was attired in white, and was secorted by Mester Reuber Sadler. The Doctor was supported by his brother. Dr. Sam Clarke, of Millbrook, and the bride was given away by her father. The weedlug muste was played by Miss Jackson.

The Collegiate Old Boys Annual Dinner

The Collegiate Old Boys Annual Dinner About sixteen former, students of the Lindsay Collegiate Institute, better known as the old gang, who attended the school about five years ago, gathered at the Benson' house Thurs lay week for the annual dinner. The boys took possession of the dining hall about 9 o'clock and sat down to well-filled tables, comprising all the delenaies of the season. The tables were prettily decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemmus and other flowers. Dr. W. Brown occupied the chair at the head of the table while to his right sail Mr. A. L. Campbell. After ample justice had been done all the good things speech making, songs and music werd induged in until the wee small hours of the morning. The happy gathering dispersed after singing Auld Lang Syne. We understand the committee in charge of the supper will in future make this popular event a general gathering of the old Lindsay boys instead of confining it to And She Did.

Cavendish Farmer's Loss.

Triday night last Mr. John Beach, one of the pioneer settlers of Cavendish township, about 15 miles from Kinmount, met with a serious loss by fire. While in the stable making the stock comfortabla for the night one of his horses kicked the lantern against the wall, scattering the burning oil in all directions. So rapidly did the frames spread that Mr. Beach escaped with difficulty. The stable and barn adjoining contained a considerable quantity of grain, various farm implements, 12 head of cattle, and a span of horses. The loss will leave Mr. Beach in bad shaps to face the spring work, as he had but a small insurance.

VINCENT PENROSE CLEARED OF FOUL SUSPICIONS.

Close of the Investigation at Severn Bridge in Connection with the Mys-terious Death of the Late Wm. Miller of The Town. It may be well to recite, for the benefit of our readers, that at the inquest held at Sevent Bridge on Friday of last week, Dec 20th, to enquire into circumstances attend-ing the death of Wm. Miller, of this town, in that village on the Wednesday morning previous the prlucipal witness was a young man named Vincent Pearose, also of this town, who had met Miller in Orillia and necompanied him back to Severn on Tuesday night. His evidence was to the effect that both had started for the hotel by the short out through the mill yard, but had taken different routes, and on reaching the hotel he had told the way. Next morning at an early hour Penrose went on to Ragged Rapids, but returned and gave himself up to the pollee when news arrived of Miller's death, and after the inquest was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000 to appear again a week later.

The jury were startled yesterday when there shastings, the bartender, was recalled and under cross-examination by Mr. Martin Kenny withdrew a stutement he had previously made and said he had since remembered that Penrose had told him when he reached the hotel that night that he had lost Miller. To correborate this Mrs. Overend, the said that Hastings had told her at 6 o'clock in the morning the conversation he had had lod for examination they said, according to with the way from the station. This cleared up any suspicion. The deceased was not fractured, and under examination they said, according to anthorities, the wound on skull was more likely to be produced by a fall than a blow. Several witnesses testified that there was only a singlo track from where the body was found back to where the was a mark in the snow showing he had fallen, and the dectors were the myersel on the block or real at this point, and the doctors were the point, and the doctors were said been working in Orillia for the injury, and that he could have wasked from there to where the body was found, the skull not being fractured. There was no telegram sent by Penrose to Miller, and the note of the injury, and the decead that everything had been cleared up thoroughly and to their perfect satisfaction. The verdict of the jury was that the man's death was caused by exposure.

What Outario has Left.

(Ottawa Journal.)
The blue book shows that only 22,-863,578 acres, or 17 per cent. of Ontario, have been sold or leased. This leaves 103,136,422 acres, or 53 per cent., of Ontario still undisposed of, and by the possession of the Crown. Crown.

Much of the Crown land is barren, or too rough for profitable cultivation, or too far north. But cent or too rough for protection cultivation, or too far north. But a vastly greater area of good soil than has yet been disposed of.

Nor. at the present rate, does Ontario seem likely to be fully settled for a century yet. Since 1894 seven years—only 1,223,886 acrss been sold or leased by the Crown, at which rate the balance of the good and of the province will not be all disposed of for several centuries.

A BIG HANDICAP.

A man with a lame back does not feel much like working and yo cannot blame him. Jeremiah Redden, carpenter, No. 7 Cowdy St., Kingston, Ont., suffered with rheumatism in his back (lumbago) for two years. Five bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure completely cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston.

preparatory thereto, but is was now or never with this matter of the selection of muricipal representatives for the coming twelve months. The opportunity was here and must be grasped. He did not know that he should apologize for taking such a subject. We realize something of the difficulties and worries and perhaps temptations which surround the positions of Mayor and Aldermen. In a recent issue of the Nineteenth Certury Magazine a well-known writer, after referring to Canada as a vigorous young nation, with shrewd statesmen, an expanding commerce and immense natural advantages, said the graat land is a high standard of public morality. The charge was undoubtedly true—a species of moral laxity seems to surround almost every question into which politics enter.

Fortunately there is no application of party polities to municipal elections. That is one of the things that save us from the evils of extreme partisanship. In the selection of municipal representatives, at any rate, we must ask ourselves how we shall discriminate between the policy and the man. We should not allow ourselves to be influenced solely by pr. 8-nt circumstarces, as many things will come up during the year for settlement that are now, not thought of. He had never refrained from pointing out to his hearers their moral duty as citizens life from restilement that are now, not thought of. He had never refrained from pointing out to his hearers their moral duty as citizens life from each made public, to say there any great moral issue involved. This let him free to refer only to the personnel of the men the rate-payers should solect as their representatives. This he would do under three leadings:

to the personnel of the men the rate-payers should select as their representatives. This he would do under three headings:

1st.—What stamp of a man should be eligible? On the face of it every citizen possessed of the necessary property qualification had a right to be a candidate. However, it is not so much a matter of right as of vision. A man may properly be debarred from office by ill-health, lack of leisure, deficient education, and for various other causes. Modesty and humility are valuable assets in public affairs as in the church. The home of the bride's parents, Hamilton-st. The bride were a suit of rab, with pearl and satin trimmings.

Not an uncommon expression, but formed that he was not sufficiently well with the according to the legislature but who refused on the ground that he was not sufficiently well educated for the position. In all other respects that man was well qualified. If he (the speaker) asked a citizen to take the position of bank manager, to run one of the town seaw-mills, or to eccupy his pulpit for a time, he would at once refuse on the ground that he was not capable of filling the position, but wishes.

On Christmas eve Mr. A. Horn gave instructions to his foreman to close down the woollen factory at five o'cleek. The order was obeyed with alacrity, and when the employes were about to depart Mr. Horn matter them upstairs, where they found a royal Christmas tree bearing a substantial present for each member of the staff. A pleasant half-hour was spent Mr. Horn delivering a brief speech in which his testified to the faithful manner in which the staff had labored for his interests during the year about to close. Several of the men made brief replies, assuring Mr. Horn that the good feeling he entortained for the staff was heartly reciprocated by them.

Mr. R. M. Beal, head of the Beal Leather Co., also presented each of his 25 employes with a turkey for their Christmas dinner. In Joing so he took occasion to express his appreciation of the honest and faithful service given by every workman from the youngest to the oldest, which was a gratifying indication of the good feeling in their hearts for their employer. He would would oad in his power to foster the growth of that sentiment, and he sheeterly hoped the firm would prosper during the year to come. Several of the men the returned thanks to Mr. Beal on behalf of their comrades, who clinched the expressions of esteem by giving three lusty offers and a "tiger" for the head of the company. As the men were about to depart Mr. Beal asked their attention for another minute, and went on to explain that, if prosperity attended the firm during the co-operative principle in force and went of grant man well asked their men the content needless to add that the men welcomed "the generous announcement with enthusiastic expressions of satisfaction, and Mr. Beal was kept busy for a few minutes exchanging hearty handshakes.

The Fire Hall Site. (To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir--I am glad to see that some of our leading farmers have Dear Sir.—I am glad to see that some of our leading farmers have given their opinion respecting the location of the new fire hall, and quite agree with them that a fire hall built on the Market Square will not only prove a great inconvenience to farmers, but in case of a fire bevery dangerous to the public in general, and I would suggest that the farmers strive to get a market established at Oakwood or some other good place, seeing that they have been comparatively shut out of the town which should have been the pride of each farmer in this County. In visiting Peterboro market I found that overything that can be done for the good of the farmer, and the public in general is being done, and I came to this conclusion—that there is more business done in that market in one day than there is on Lindsay market in fax weeks. I would advise the Town Council for 1902 to take an interest in the welfare of the farmera and the town and select auther site for the fire hall, which will always prove a misance if located on the present site.

—Yours, etc.,

Mr. W. B. Henoyer, president of the Vailey Sugar Co., of Bay City, Mich., was present, and assured the shareholders of the advisability and safety of entering this line of industry.

The cost of the plant will be in the neighborhood of $500,000, and to those employed in the factory at Berlin and the farmers of the neighborhood about $500,000 will be paid yearly by the company.

Peterboro's Lack of Interest.

position made by Mr. Moody, president of the London, Ont., Refining Co., appears to have abated somewhat. The Peterboro papers have done all in their power to keep the interest alive by faithfully reproducing the reports of the Lindsay meetings, but in its last issue The Review was freed to a limit that "t. now appears doubtful, in fact it is not probable, that a delegation will be ready to leave Peterboro in time to visit Michigin and see the beet sugar factories in operation there, as was proposed. As far as heard from, only two townships, North Mon ghan and Douro, appointed representatives to go on the de egation." In the same issue The Review print: the eport presented by Mesere. Channon and Ellis, and urges its readers to study it carefully.

A Fortunate Speculation. Toronto World: Nearly three years ago Mr. A. Archambault, the Younge-st. tailor, invested some Younge-st. tailor, invested some money in a mining property in the Rainy River district. Prospects did not turn out very rosy then, but lately it is said that the speculation has turned out to be an unusually good one, and Mr. Archambault is further said to have received a very substantial offer for his interests. When asked about the matter Mr. Archambault said he did not care to discuss it at present, but he intended going to Port Arthur in a few days, and expected to know mors about it on his return.....As our readers probably know, the lucky miner is a son' of Mr. L. Archambault, of this town. His friends wish success.

LORNEVILLE.

((From Our Own Correspondent)

It was a pleasing and happy event that happened at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Veals, lot 1, con 4, Thorah, on Christmas day, when their eldest daughter, Mrs. Nelle, was united in marriage to Mr. Donald Morrison, of the same township. The day, with all its clear and merrymaking, was appropriate, and shortly before the wedding hour the guests—to tha number of 38 couples,—had arrived. Precisely at 2.30 o'clock, p.m., the hour appointed for the ceremony, the the wedding hour the guests—to tha number of 38 couples,—had arrived. Precisely at 2.30 o'clock, p.m., the hour appointed for the veremony, the the wedding party, consisting of the groom, his best man, Mr. Fred Veale, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Miss Veale, the bride cleet, accomponied by her assistant, Miss Nelle Brandon, of Cannington whie was brideswald, entered the parlor and took their position. The bride came in leaning on the arm of her father, and looked charming in a dress of blue-grey cloth trimmed with white satin, and carrying a bequer of white roses. The bridesmald looked handsome in a dress of grey trimmed with white silk. The Rev. Mr. Best, Beaverton, performed the ceremony in his usual able and happy manner. The congratulations of the large company present baving been tendered, all retired to the dilingroom to tables literally groaning with good things. After Justice had been done these, and a little time spent in repartee, the wedded couple left amid a shower of rice, and accompanied by a host of their friends, for the station at Lorneville, leaving by the 6 o'clock train for Toronto and points west. The escorting company then returned to Mr. Venle's, where a most enjoyable evening was spent. To Mr. and Mrs Morrison we extend hearty congratulations, and well wishys, and we feel sure that we are but volcing the sentiment of the community in se doing.

The nomination meeting here Monday was well attended. A large number of nominat

Beet Sugar C. mmittee appointed last week, and a number of representative citizens and farmers, met last Friday afternoon, as agreed upon, to take further steps in support of the eet sugar factory proposition. Substantia prog ess was made as a result of some thre nours' carnest discus ion.

Mr. E. H. Hopkins was appointed perma pent chairman, and Mr. J. H. S otheral nunerated in proportion to his labors.

Chairman Hopkins, on calling the meeting to order, explained briefly that the commit-tee had been called together to make arrange ments for a canvass to secure the required

Mr. Johnson Ellis said everyone seemed was all-important, and the first matter to be settled. In that case not a day ought to be wasted.

Dr. Vrooman said there were two modes of procedure open to them—to have the canvassers call on every 'armer and make a detailed explanation in every case, or to approach the farmers through meetings held in every schoolhouse. He believed the latter plan to be the better one, as farmers would be more inclined to consider the matter favorably when they saw their neighbors lending support to the schome.

Mr. Channon agreed with the Doctor—he had from the outset been in favor of schoolhouse meetings, as by that plan the schome could be placed belo e a number of farmers, as easily as it could be explained to ac individual, and the method would also be much cheaper than a farm to farm canvass. H.; believed the acreage could be secured, but when he recollected what had been told him by Capt. Boutell in Michigan relative to the difficulties he had met with at first when seeking to interest farmers, he felt inclined to think the canvassers would have their work cut out for them.

Mr. W. M. Robson thought it would be well to secure the acreage guarantee as speedly as possible, but it was not the plan followed in the case of other factories—in most cases bonuses had been granted and the sid of capitalists ought before the farmers had been interviewed. He suggested that the views of the County and Town Councils be ascertained.

Mr. Hockim—"No, that would be commencing at the wrong end."

Mr. F. C. Taylor—"In Peterboro they were told to secure the acreage first."

"Mr. F. C. Taylor—"In Peterboro they were told to secure the acreage first."

are seeking natures, and it linds ay cannot offer some greater inducement than acreage I fear we will not stand much show of getting the industry.

Air. Ellis—"We must secure the acreage first—where is the man that would establish a saw-mill until he had first satisfied himself that he could get logs to cut."

Mr. Chas. Fairbairn thought the position of things was similar to a cheese factory—he man will start one unless as ured of the milk of at least 100 cowe; and capitalists will not establish a best sugar factory unless certain of the yield of 5,000 acres. "Let us secure that quarantee and then see how near the capitalist; will come to us." He regretted his inability to accompany the delegation to Michigan, but had perfect confidence in the two men that had gone, and he had read their excellent report with much pleasure. As for the money required for preli ninary work, he believed the County Council would be willing to do all in their power to aid the good work, and would make a further grantif necessary. He ap proved of schochouse meetings—get the farmers away from their stables, because when they did not know how their neighbor viewed a question, they were apt to be evasive and hard to convince. He hoped the farmers and citizens would work together with a single purpose, and that any feeling of selfishness would be baried for ever. Farmers should regard Lindsay archeir county town, and help build it up in every way possible. He looked on the proposition as likely to have a very important effect on the preserving of the town and county.

Mr. Hockin said that he did not know that a bonus would be demanded or that and county.

Mr. Hockin said that he did not know that a bonus would be demanded, or that the town or townships interested would refuse financial said if asked for it, but in case of necessity he was willing to give $1,000 towards a bonus if 24 other citizens would do the saws.

towards a bonus ii 24 other citizens would do the same, Chairman Hopkins thought the canvassers should make an effert to secure stock while making their rounds.

Mr. W. Flavelle said he appreciated what Mr. Lytle and Mr. Hookin had said, and highly approved of Dr. Vroomans' views.
It was meet important that farmers in various parts of the district should be urged to assist. If farmers could be induced to take stock to be paid in kind in four or five years, we might be able to roll up $100,000 in that way, which would be a grand inducement when coupled with the acreage guaranteed,
Mr. Channon said that if appointed one of the canvassers he would undertake to do the satements. Moved by Mr. Taylor, seconded by Mr. Bryans, Bryans, seconded by Mr. Bryans, seconded by Mr. Bryans, Bryan

Aff. It. Bryans approve to geometries, and the schoolbones meetings would be the right plan to follow. It was a grand chance to secure a great industry, and no effort should be spared to secure it.

Mr. Hopkins suggested that a small working committee be appointed to advise the canvassers and deal with the many matters suggested that on the state of the can vassers and deal with the many matters suie to crop up.

Mr. Lyte—"Suppose we appoint two can vassers; there are probably 50 school-houses to be visited, and it will take some time to cover the ground. I believe the can vassers wil meet with good success, because any farmer who heard of or read the fine report presented by Messers. Channon and Ellis should be very easy to convince."

Mr. Flavelle—"it seems to me that the delegates sent to Michigan are the proper men to can vasse the farmers."

Mr. Chas. Silver—"I think a farm to farm can vasse would be best. I would not be afraid to guarantee the 5,000 acres if prid I c. per acre."

tee a reage or take stock, breause their main doubt would be as to the fitness of their land. Of course there was nothing in the —almost every fa mer has 15 or 29 acres fit for best growing, but it would be necessary to convince them that such was the case, and that shoult be done prior to the canvass.

Mr. Flavelle—"Cr, we cannot spare time to go over the district twice,"
Mr. Jas. Flurey said be had been can assing farmers for one thing or another for 20 years, and his experience led him to say, if you want to get down to business with a farmer you must eatch him alone rather than at a meeting.

Mr. Henry Glendenning, after praising the comprehensive report present dby the Michigan delegates, remarked that during last winter, while lecturing at Farmers' Institute meetings, he had met a number of beet acreage canvassers and had had his attention directed to the extravagant statements made by them. The farmers were told that no fertility was taken from the soil, that pure sugar was pure carbon, and that pure carbon was really condensed sunlight. Well, it had been demonstrated by careful experiments that $1.26 worth of fertility per ton of beets is removel from the soil in the form of nitrogen and phosphoric acid, and this has to be restored in some way. One of the first questions the canvassers would have to answer would be, "Is beet growing hard on the lad?" The Michigan growers acknowledged the fact, but on the other hand said the crop brought about a higher state of cultivation and increased the value of their farm. One of the ameters.

Mr. Channon said that if appointed one of the canvassers he would undertake to the farms.

The sub-committee then held a short business meeting, Dr. Vrooman in the chair, when a number of matters relating to the canvass were discussed and dealt with. The meeting was adjourned at 5 o'clock, after a three hours' session.

This information has been received from Frank Tanner, who successfully managed Graham's exploits in the lower river during the past summer. After leaving the Falls, it was understood that Mrs. Taylor went to her home in Bay City, Mich, where she was suffering from paralysis. She disappeared from public view entirely and her real whereabouts was a matter of conjecture. It is said that her condition is serious and that it is doubtful if she will ever recover.

EATEN BY WOLVES.

Basswood, Man., Dec. 28.—A report has been brought to this section by Indians from the northwestern reserve, lying between Newdale and Strathclair, of the finding of the body of a man in that district. According to the story, the body was torn and eaten by wolves, which roam at will in large numbers in this country. The remains could not be recognized, but it is presumed to be the body of a Gallcian, who became lost and subsequently frozen during the sovere weather. Another theory is that the man, while traveling alone, may have been attacked by the large timber wolves, which are numerous and very ferocious in the north. It is understood the authorities will investigate the truth of the report.

The local governor of the district, Major Correia, agreed with some native chiefs to await the robber band, which was composed of 300 men, and repulse them. This was done with such success that the Guanhamas' attack was completely defeated, 200 of them being killed on the spot.

The Victorian Leaves Cape Town.

The following cablegram was yesterday received from Cape Town:

Has on board for Hulliax Lieut.-Col. Gordon, Canadian staff, Captain Mason, Victorian Mounted Infantry, Civil Surgeon Farrell and four men."

Lieut.-Col. Gordon was D.O.C. at Montreal, but went out to South Africa attached to the first contingent. After the regiment returned to Canada, Col. Gordon remained behind and was given command of a military district in Cape Colony. He was taken dangerously ill with crysipelas some months ago, but recovered and returned to duty. It is supposed he will take over his position as D.O.C. at Montreal when he comes back. The tardy departure of the Victoria from Caro Town was taken from Caro Town waters. as b.O.C. The rumor was prevalent yesterday that the War Office had refused to consent to an extension of General O'Grady-Haly's term as officer commanding the Canadian militia, but it cannot be traced to an authoritative source, and is not credited. An official of the Militia Department, said: "The Government has passed an order in Council extending the General's time until June 30 next, and he will in all probability remain and he will in all probability remain here until then. It is not likely that the War Office will override the wishes of the Government here."

The Mounted Rifles separate unit. The Mounted Rifles have their own medical equipment, which is oven fuller than with the majority of regiments, in view of the fact that it will in all probability be cut up into two separate commands. WHAT THE POPE DESIRES

London, Dec. 24.—The Pall Mall Gazette yesterday published the following despatch from Rome: "The Vatican is becoming decidedly more hopeful that the United States will yield to the Pope's great desire and appoint a diplomatic representative to the Vatican. So anxious is the Pope for the success of his project that he would be satisfied at present with a semi-official representative, in the hope that he would eventually be turned into a minister or ambassador."

The Pentin's Rebuke.

Rome, Dec. 24.—The Pope this morning received the Cardinals, who offered him their Christmas greetings. The Pontiff made a lengthy address, during which he condemned the excessive liberty of thought indulged in at the present time. He sharply criticized Socialist agitation for divorce and the hostility between different sections of the church, and urged a union of the Christian churches.

The Church, said the Pope during the course of his remarks, is now confronted by difficulties similar to those of earlier times. There were attempts everywhere to make the masses enemies of the church. The religious orders were subjected to all kinds of vexations, proscriptions and laws were being passed in open defiance of God's eternal laws.

In his reference to Socialism, the Pontiff said the only means of successfully combatting it was for Catholics to hearken to and obey the instructions of the church.

COL. DAMANT'S GALLANT RALLY

Showed Resource and Courage in Resist ing M. Botha With 800 Boers, and Drove Boer General From a Kopje -Was Dangerously Wounded,

However-British Casualties

London, Dec. 24.—Lord Kitchener, in a despatch from Johannesburg, dated Saturday, Dec. 21, sends reports of sharp fighting in the Orange River Colony. Two hundred mounted infantry, in the neighborhood of Deginderyn, were divided into parties and were searching farms when they were attacked by three hundred Boers and forty armed natives, under Commandant Britz. The Boers charged determinedly in overwhelming numbers. The British casualties were severe; but no details have been received.

The engagements occurred Dec. 18, 10 and 20, at points widely apart. The casualties, so far as known, aggregate about 150, equally divided; but, heavy British losses, the totals of which have not yet been reported, have occurred in the Transvaal.

A force of Boers, during the night of Dec. 19, attacked the British post at Eland Spruit, but the burghers were driven of, leaving eight men killed, including Commandant Krieze. Field Cornet Mahon, who was wounded, and three other wounded men were also left on the field. The British casualties were seven men killed and six officers and eighteen men wounded.

Lord Kitchener also reports that during Gen. Dewet's attack on the British force, commanded by Generals Dartnell and Campbell, at Langberg, Dec. 18, the Boers charged bravely and fought desperately for several hours. Dewet was driven off with the loss of twenty men. There were twelve casualties on the side of the British.

On Dec. 20th M. Botha, with eight hundred Boers, surprised Col. Damant's advance guard at Tafel Kop. Orange River Colony. The Boers rushed a kopje commanding the main body and the guns; but Damant rallied his men and drove the Boers from the kopje. The British casualties were heavy. Damant was dangerously wounded, two officers and twenty men were killed, and three officers and seventeen men were wounded.

The Boers left six dead on the field and dispersed. The British pursued the enemy and captured a number of prisoners, including Commandant Keyter.

Later, the Boers, under a flag of truce, asked permission to remove their dead. They admitted having burled twenty-weave men.

In the fight at Tafel Kop the Boers dressed as British yeomen, engaged in a splendid race with the British in the attempt to be first in gaining the crest of the kople. The Boers gained the summit first and opened a heavy fire on the single troop of Damant's horse, which took part in the race for the kople. These troopers took advantage of all the small amount of cover available immediately below the Boers, and fought until all but four of them were killed or wounded. By that time reinforcements of Damant's Horse came up and charged and captured the kople.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—A telegram received by Hon. W. S. It appears, therefore, to be doubtful whether the now celebrated scientist will pay a visit to the capital or whether he will simply explore the coast of Nova Scotla in search of suitable sites for further experiments in transatlantic less telegraphy. The British Government is evidently desirous of affording Signor Marconi every assistance in carrying out his experiments, as the Marine Department has received an official communication inquiring whether land can be obtained on the Island of Anticosti. The island is now of course in possession of Mr. of course in possession of Mr. Menier, with the exception of the small plot immediately surrounding the lighthouse there. In addition to the five officers and a warrant officer, 55 non-commissioned officers and men will be required, making a total of 61 of all ranks. The equipment for the field will consist of general service wagons, 1 forage wagon, 1 water curt, 28 horses, 8 sets of saddlery, 20 sets of harness. The technical equipment of the hospital will be as follows: Two medical companions, 4 water bottles, 2 surgical haversacks, 2 pairs medical field panniers, 1 surgical pannier, 1 field fracture box, 1 antiseptic case, 16 field stretchers. There will also be a portable X-ray apparatus. Tents and blankets are also included in the equipment. The Field Hospital.

The Commissioner's Work WHAT MR. CHALMERS HAS DONE DURING THE YEAR.

A Complete Report Covering the Past Twelve Months.

A Complete Report Covering the Face
Twelve Months.

Below we print for the information of ratepayers the very full report submitted by Town Commissioner Chalmers at the meeting of Council held Dec. 16th. It will repay carefull perusal, and will no doubt be alluded to at the nomination meeting Monday evening. We direct parficular attention to the large saving shown in the construction of granouthic walks as compared with contract prices paid by the town.
Gentlemen,—I beg to submit my annual report of the work done and off Works under my supervision for the year 1901.

From January 18t to February

Gentlemen.—I beg to submit my amnual report of the work done and the money expended by the Beard of Works under my supervision for the year 1901
From January lat to February 19th I was engaged in receiving stone for rondinaking and having the same piled in convenient shapet for crushing, and attending to the show piowing of the walks throughout the town. I also inspected all the plumbing that was connected during the specified time.

On February 19th I commenced to remole the town hall by day labor, and finshed out the entire system of sewers and did general repairs throughout the town. I attended to the crushing of 192 cords of stone, inspected the several plumbing jobs ready at that date, and ploughed and graded several streets.

On the 17th of May I commenced to prepare Lindeay-st, from Glenelg-st, to the G.T.R., a distance of 1,000 feet by 22 lineal feet wide, for macadamizing, which was completed
July 12th. Considerable extra expense was incurred in the building of this road, as it rained fully onequarter of the time and rendered the condition of the road unlit for work.
The sewerage system then received another flushing.

Monday, July 15th I commenced to build granolithic walks, and continued to do so until September 23rd.
Tuesday, August 20th we commenced to macadamize Klog-st, east ward, from Lindsay-st, to a point 150 feet east of St. Paul-st. 809 feet by 36 lineal feet, and completed same Friday, Oct. 4th.

I then filled in that portion of Wellington-st. between William-st, and the bridge, which was necessary owing to the steep grade and the bad condition of the road.

I then built six granolithic crosslings at the following piaces, viz.:
Two crossings at Lindsay and Kentsts., one crossing at Kent and > News of Such an Appeal to Her Good Offices.

London, Dec. 24.—The British Government is watching with considerable anxiety the progress of the dispute between the Chilian and Argentine republics. A representa-tive of the Associated Press was informed yesterday that neither side has yet approached the British Foreign Office. If both Chili and Argentina Office. If both Chili and Argentina request Great Britain to arbitrate the matters in dispute between them Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, will promptly acquiesce.

The statement, however, of Dr. Alcorta, the Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs, that Argentina has referred the matter to the arbitration of the British Government under the agreement of 1898, appears to be inaccurate, for the Foreign Office says the present contention is quite beyond the powers of that commission. As the Foreign Office understands the case, it is not one of boundary between the two countries, but whether Chili has the right to build neutral roads in the disputed territory. This commission is which Lord MacNaughton is tries, but whether Chili has the right to build neutral roads in the disputed territory. This commission of which Lord MacKhaughton is president, has been sitting in London for nearly two years, and is now-almost ready to go out and personally inspect the disputed boundaries. For various reasons, however, the departure of this commission has been delayed, and is likely to be delayed for some time to come. The appeal of Dr. Alcorta has not yet officially been communicated to the British Foreign Office. When this appeal does reach Downing street, it will meet with the foregoing answer. Although Lord Lansdowne, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, holds that the MacNaughten commission to be powerless, he will intimate the willingness of Great Britain to arbitrate the difficulty between the two countries if Chili agrees to that proposition. Up to a late hour last night neither country concerned had requested Great Britain to take this action. Opinion in Downing street is that while the cause of the dispute is petty, serious consequences may ensue unless prompt action is taken.

Cause of Savage Street Fight Between A Policeman Injured.

New York, Dec. 26—A race riot which broke out in Harlem yesterday on West 13th street, became almost a battle between negroes and whites in the open street, the negroe's being armed with revolvers and other weapons, and the whites with stones. There were 100 fighters on each side. The negroes beat the whites, but were driven back into their tenements by the police after they had charged out on the whites with pistols and razors. Fourteen negroes were arrested. Four whites, including a policeman, were badly shot or cut. The rioting was begun by some white boys stoning two colored girls, who were going to their homes. The girls told their friends and a dozen negroes chased the white boys, boxed their ears, and struck several of them in the faces. The boys ran away and told some white men, who returned and stoned the negroes. More men joined the first band, and all attacked the negroes. The negroes and other weapons. In the fight at close quarters, the negroes dashed into the street, 100 in all, slashing right and left. The whites resisted with clubs. At this point, a squad of policemen arrived on the scene and stopped the rioting.

OPS.

(Special to The Post.)

On Friday evening, Dec. 20th, the teacher and pupils of S.S. No. 9, Ops, gave an entertainment in the school-house which was very largely attended by the people of the section and surrounding communities. The school presented a fine appearance, being very prettily decorated with evergreens, autumn leaves, flags and colored crayon drawings. The good order of the children was remarked by many, which reflects great credit on the excellent training the children have received during the serious manual programments. The way interesting programments and the market of the difference and the performed the duties of organist. The very interesting programmens much appreciated, and to make special mention of any of the different parts would be difficult, as all did exceedingly well. The address by Mr. J. N. Moffatt on his experiences in South Africa during the war was delivered in his usual pleasing style. Mr. Moffatt was formerly a teacher in this school. Towards the close of the evening Miss McHoull was surprised by being called to the platform, when Miss Janet McNeyan and Miss Edith Fair read an address and presented her with a latter portfolio and china tea-put on behalf of the school. They took this opportunity of expressing their high appreciation of her services and regret at her departure, as she had proved herself an efficient teacher and true friend. Although taken tompt they be surprise Miss McHoull replied in a very pleasing manner.

The S. S. concert and christmas tree in connection with the Methedist church or the 32rd uit, was a pronounced success. The program consisted of songs, recitations and disologues. The sepretary's report showed the school to be in a prosperous condition, numerically and financially. The process of distributing the numerous presents decorating the two trees was a deeply interesting one for the children and others. The selical gave prizes to all pupils who laid attended forty Sundays in the year. The Superintendent, Mr. T. C. Birchird, received a beautiful pair of fur gauntlets, the gift of the school. The proceeds, which exceeded those of last year, so for literature for the school. On Saturday evening last Mr. William Holland, one of our most estimable citizens, breathed his tast. OAKWOOD.

(Special to The Post.)

I wish to add a few words to the few lines that have already appeared in The Post referring to the death of the late Mrs. D. King. Mrs. King was born in Whitchurch, near Newmarket, and was married there in 1836, removing at once to Mr. King's present home, commencing life in a shanty standing a little north of the present residence, belping with all the patience and endurance customary to roughing it in the woods. The writer comembers helping them at harvest time about ten years later a couple of days, hinself and two others following two good men with cradles all day, and keeping up, and Mrs. K. setting up shocks. Mr. and Mrs. King were not pushers, but got along well, Mrs. King being a good housek-eper and cook.

It is too bad that we have to-have another contest with the liquor men. The defeats already given ought to be snough. Do they think we forget St. Poul's admonition to the Galatians in the 7th chapter, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked; whatever a man soweth, that shall he also reap". We must not forget to help to resist bad causes and help good ones.

The results of the bye-elections of vesterday are shown above. Seven Liberals are elected in the nine constituencies that voted, or, counting the acclamation in Beauce last week, the ten seats in which nominations were held on the 8th return eight Liberals, and two Conservatives. The greatest victory is that of West York where the Conservative majority of over 800 was converted into a minority; but Hon. Mr. Harty's magnificent majority in Kingston, Mr. Beith's return in West Durham, and the crushing defeat of Mr. Rergeron in Montreal are also important features of the day.

At the last election Addington was won by the Conservatives with a majority of 529; West Durham, with 40; West Hastings, with 842, and West York with 880. Kingston was won by the Liberals, with a majority of 192; Laval, with 319; L'Islet, with 100; St. James' Division of Montreal, with 745.

Mr. Campbell's Thanks.

The appearance of Mr. Campbell at an upstairs window stirred annew the enthusiasm of a great gathering of electors to the highest pitch. It was some minutes before he could make himself heard. He was interrupted during his remarks again and again by ringing cheers. He said: I have to thank my friends for the great service they have rendered me to-day in electing me by such a handsome majority as memmer for West York. I do not know that I over had an election which was contested so keenly as this has then my most sincere thanks. I thank my Conservative as well as my Liberal friends for the work they have done for me to-day. It is not often, gentlemen, that we have to celebrate such a great victory as we have won on this occasion, and it is well that we should bear in mind the means by which we have won this great victory. It has been won by hard, persistent work on the part of our friends, With the help of many of our political opponents I have been able to redeem the riding of West York, and am now the member. I can assure you that I appreciate very much the great honor that has been conferred upon me, and I can also assure you that every effort I can make will be put forth to advance the interests of West York and of the Town of Toronto Junction.

I hope I will be able to so perform my duties in the House of Commons that the Conservatives who supported me to-day will never regret the efforts they put forth in my behalf. I congratulate you as well as myself upon the splendig victory which has been won; it is your victory and I have British Mule Transport Foundared on Blown Up by Boer Spy in the Gulf of Mexico-Hundreds of Dead Mules Floating For a Distance of 40 Miles-News of the War.

London, Jan. 16.—King Edward has given the royal endorsement to the belief current among the public that an early declaration of peace in South Africa may be anticipated, "The war might now be regarded in South Africa may be anticipated,
"The war might now be regarded as approaching its conclusion," were the words used by His Majesty yesterday morning in addressing the officers of the Guards after reviewing a draft of 1,200 of the Grenadiers, Coldstreams, and Scots Guards, who start for South Africa to-day.

Feared That British Mule Transport Has Reen Lost.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 16.—It is believed in shipping circles here that a British transport, laden with American, mules, bound for South Africa, has been intercepted and blown up by a Boer spy in the Gulf of Mexico or has foundered. A schooner arriving on the lower coast reports hundreds of dead mules floating for a distance of 30 miles. This news has greatly stirred shippers here, who fear that further desperate attempts will be made to stop the export of mules to Cape Town.

The more conservative elements attribute the floating carcasses to a disaster to one of the British vessels during the storms that have been raging near the coast this week. Despetches from Quintana, Texas, which is only a short distance south of Port Eads, say that the schooner. Olga has put into Matagorda Bay to shelter from the fierce gale blowing on the Gulf, and that Captain George Peterson reports having seen long rows of dead cattle and mules floating in the water. He describes the range of the dead stock as covering at least 40 miles.

The recent attempt to blow up the British transport Mechanician in this port is recalled by those persons who incline to the opinion that a British transport has been blown up. The attempt to destroy the Mechanician was charged to Boer agents.

Novals Point, Jan. 15.—The new line of blockhouses from Beaufort. West to De Aar, guarding the rail-way, which the men of the West Riding Regiment have been erecting, is now completed. The blockhouses are from twelve hundred to sixteen hundred yards apart, and are in telephonic communication with one another. The work of fencing the line with barbed wire is proceeding and when this is finished it will be exceedingly difficult for the enemy to cross the railway.

CHAPTER XVII.

When Larry finds himself under the railway carriage he has already mapped out the course he means to pursue. The other side of the train is partly in darkness, and consequently this must be his line of advance in the direction of the locomotive.

He pursues it, at times hiding in order to screen himself from observation, but all the while drawing nearer the head of the train, that pulsating engine, panting there as if eager to continue its onward race.

Once a man confronts the dude—he seems to be desirous of halting him, perhaps recognizing Larry as one of the party against whom the animosity of the Carlists is aroused; but the tourist is in a hurry, and cannot stop to satisfy the curlosity of this fellow—the clamour that arises from the rear announces that the battle is on, and seconds are precious. When the man attempts to use force, Larry gives him the benefit of the weapon he carries, and presses on toward his goal, the puffing motor.

More than once he is delayed by being compelled to hide, so that minutes elapse before he finds himself in the yielnity of the engine.

The panie is now on, and Larry wonders what causes it, as he has not understood the cry raised by Mercedes in advancing. It ceases, and once more the melee begins, but, thank heaven, he is now beside the locomotive.

locomotive.

In appearance it differs from those he is in the habit of seeing in America, but they all work on the same principle, and, if necessary, Larry is ready to set the lever and open the throttle himself.

The engine-driver is in the cab, but her believe the contractions of the cab, but the cab believe the contractions of the cab, but the cab believe the c het him pull them off to a point of safety.

He is just telling a train man this when he feels a clutch on his arm, turns around, and looks into Larry's revolver. The desperate dude never appeared so big to any one in all his life as he does in the eyes of the astonished engine-driver—the fact of his holding a loaded revolver may have something to do with it.

"Start the train ahead!" snaps Larry. His look and the tone of his voice cannot be mistaken even if the other does not understand the words used. The man makes a gesture, and in broken English stammers that he dares not start without orders.

used. The man makes a gesture, and in broken English stammers that he dares not start without orders.

"There is your order—start the train," roars the irate dude, thrusting the revolver into the other's face, and pointing to the throttle.

The man looks him over as if to size him up—there is something he does not like about the diminutive New Yorker, and perhaps he sees death in his eye—at any rate, he turns sullenly around, grasps lever and throttle, throws the one into place, and opens the other cautiously.

As the train moves, a shout arises without—men run frantically toward the engine, and Larry stands ready to shoot the first one who tries to come aboard.

"Faster—open the throttle, man!" and he gives the driver's arm a jerk—the throttle is thrown open, and with a jump the train begins to gather headway.

It is too late now to unfasten the a jump the train begins to gather headway.

It is too late now to unfasten the last car—no one can do it, for most of the shouting Garlists are left behind, and a few who still cling to the cars are dropping off in great terror lest they be carried off, and fall into the hands of the government forces.

Larry beams with triumph, but he knows it is too garly to crow—not for a moment does he relax his vigilance, to he has become assured that the carries at Carlist and may play trick yet.

I will be a carried off the carries of the valley, only the stars as guides, but the yeals hold the iron horse on his way, and all is well.

Every mile passed over makes them so much farther away from their ene-where they take a new course, and head almost north, for distant Bayon-ne and Pordeaux.

Lights are Shining ahead now, and it is evident they are nearing the point where the trains meet. Their race becomes slower, and at length they come to a halt. Signs of bustle abound, and Larry even imagines it resembles in a degree an American station.

He leaves the driver to his own de-He leaves the driver to his own devices, and leaping to the ground, hurries back along the side of the train, anxious to ascertain what has become of his friends. On the way he runs into some one whom he has not noticed.

"Pon 'onah! you must pawdon me, but—"

"Larry! Great Scott!" is shouted in his ear, and he feels himself lifted bodily from the ground by the strong arms of Doctor Jack, who is as delighted to find his friend as though the dude were a long-lost brother.
Together they walk to the carriage, where they find things in their normal condition, and the two ladles looking out of the window. Larry is warmly greeted by both of them, who look upon the little dude as a hero, although Avis can never place him in the same class with the man she saw holding the mob at bay.
So far as they can forsee, their troubles of the journey are now over. True, Don Carlon and the pasha are probably on the train, and Doctor Jack symembers having seen Pedro Vasquez, the inatador, in their company, but it does not seem probable that they will be able to do any more mischief on the road to Paris, however, much they may accomplish later.
Soon they are once more on the move. It is nearly midnight, and until early dawn they will recep northward. With the early morning they may expect to see the green waters of the magnificent Bay of Biscay on their left as they advance upon Baronne.

Bayonne.

The railroad approaches the coast,

The railroad approaches the coast, because in this way the great mountain wall of the Pyrenees is avoided in passing over to France. Besides, there are cities of considerable importance that, need to be visited. When they move on, the gentlemen make the ladies comfortable with rugs, having changed to another compartment at the junction because of the dilapidated condition of the one that had sustained the attack of the mob—the guard, who belongs to Jack, that had sustained the attack of the mob—the guard, who belongs to Jack, body and soul, goes through to Paris, it seems, and he looks after them. Jack manages to sleep some himself in spite of the jostling of the car, which fact proves what a nature he has—few men could calmly sit down and take a nap after engaging in a sangulnary battle with a desperate mob, determined to have his life.

Time slips by—Jack is up and down, now out talking with the guard at a station, and more than once bending over to gently replace a rug that has slipped down from Avis' shoulders. Her eyes are shut, she seems to be asleep, and he stands a minute looking into that fair face. Will he ever have the privilege of pressing a kiss upon that sweet mouth. He is sorely tempted, but turns away with a sigh, which causes Avis to open her eyes and wonder what worries Doctor Jack.

tor Jack.

All things must have an end, and this seemingly interminable night is no exception to the general rule—light appears without, and gray dawn shows them the waters of the bay. In places so close does the railway trend along the shore that the waves, rolling in and lashing the little beach, seem directly beneath them.

Then they run late the small town.

Then they run into the small town of San Sebastian, and soon the sun rises. Bayonne comes next, and our friends breathe a sigh of relief to think they have actually left Spain behind, and are speeding along toward Bordeaux.

At last they are in a condition to congratulate each other on the success attending their efforts; but the end is not yet-other dangers lie in the future, which may be as yet hidden from their view, but are nevertheless as real as those they have just come through.

The run to Paris is now no great come through.

The run to Paris is now no great matter, and with bright skies above them they pass through Bordeaux, and speed onward toward the gay French capital, where every tourist eventually turns, no matter what his object on the Continent. There is but one Paris—It is much the same to-day as during the last Napoleon to-day as during the last Napoleon dynasty, when ganupuig along the road to Ems with blindfolded eyes. It seemed a terrible thing to poor humiliated France to have Germany at her door, and the gay capital of the world in the hands of the Teutons, but looking back to-day, who would have it changed, since that defeat was but looking back to-day, who would have it changed, since that defeat was to shake the grasp of the Napoleons from the throat of la belle France, and leave the country in the happy condition she rejoices in to-day—a republic, with no tyrant at her head.

It is early in the afternoon when the delayed express enters Parls, Our friends immediately debark. Jack keeps a sharp eye around for familiar faces, but those he hopes to discover keep shady, for he fails to discover them them.

A carriage is bired, and they set out for a hotel, glad to be out of Spain, with the many discomforts that greet one there. It is not their intention to remain long in the French capital—duty beckons them on toward the Orient, where, as they believe, poor Aleck Morton languishes in confinement, a victim is all by venyence of the ne and Pordeaux.

At this place there will be lights, engines, people, and the motor will be changed. They are behind time, but they present speed will make up what was lost if no accident occurs.

So Larry must poesses his soul in patience, and wait—it will not be for long. The swaying of the locomotive is dreadful to one unaccustomed to it, and many a time Larry is thrilled to the heart as he imagines the massive plees of mechanism about to topple over; but mile after mile is placed be-him sober while on the train, even after all troubles seemed to have been brushed aside, and ever since the tdea has remained with him.

By degrees a plan has been evolved, and Doctor Jack becomes more sociable, since he has solved the enigma. He spends the rest of the day with his friends, and goes to the theatre at night—Pattl or some song bird is at the Grand Opera House, and our friends enjoy the sights and sounds that greet them here.

It is after midnight when they return to the hotel, somewhat weary, Doctor Jack finds a chance to whilsper to the driver in French:—

Doctor Jack sees his triends into one hotel, bids them all good-night, and, as they believe, retires, but he has work to do this night. Three minutes later he emerges from the hotel, and comes upon the driver pacing up and down. Jack can chatter in French like a mative.

"I am ready, driver," entering the vehicle.

French like a native.
"I am ready, driver," entering the vehicle.
"Where will monsieur go?" asks the man, with a leer, closing the door—the glass is down.
"To the office of the prefect of police," comes the astounding answer.
"Le diable!" cjaculates the Jehn, staggering back, "then it is not to the Mabilie gardens?"
"You have my orders—drive on."
"Oul, monsieur." Scrambling to his seat, his mouth is in a pucker as of a man trying to whistle, but unable to make a sound, until several blocks have been passed over.
There probably does not live a Jehu in New York who does not know where the mayor's office is, since they get their licenses there. In Paris every driver can tell you exactly where the prefect of police may be found—even the daily habits of this high and mighty functionary are well known to them.
Hence it is that Jack's driver has no difficulty in taking his patron to the building where he will be apt to find the head of the greatest police force of modern times at work—for Monsieur le Prefect has a holiday very seldom, and at certain hours is always to be found in his office.

force of modern times at work-for Monsleur le Prefect has a holiday very seldom, and at certain hours is always to be found in his office.

Jack knows himself where he is going—he has not spent weeks and even months in Paris without learning a few things, though as yet it has never been his fortune to meet the prefect of police save in a social way. Leaving his vehicle in a quiet street, he enters a door—it belongs to no public house, and is one of the private ways for reaching the elevated office of the head officer.

On the way he passes two quiet men who look at him closely, and then stiently bow, pointing onward. In this manner he finally reaches an ante-room, where he finds several officers gathered—they look like the aids of a general waiting either to deliver reports or receive orders, which is really the case. One of them steps forward, looks him in the face, and says:—

"You are Dector Evans?"

"Yes. I would see the prefect," replies Jack.

"He is expecting you—pass through yonder door, and you will find him."

"It seems incredible," gasps Jack: the power of the police has appeared so tremendous to him that he cannot conceive of any men defying their utmost endeavours, and working such agame even in the heart of the French capital.

"Nevertheless it is true. Only lately we discovered that the gang had its headquarters—where do you think?"—in the cataccmb sewers under the city. We have broken them up, but still factions might and probably do exist. Now, it would not be strange for some of these men to capture Abdallah Pasha, convey him to a hiding-place in the sewers, and hold him there for, ransom several days."

"Monsieur, I came here to ask a favour," he says, and, as he expects, the other smiles.

"I can guess it, Doctor Jack. You would have me assist you by detaining the pasha."

"I may be asking too much—" begins Jack when the other interrupts him.

"As a man, I would assist you with every pleasure in the world—as the prefect of police in the city of Paris, I must be more cautious. True, France and America, sister republics, are joined hand in hand in ties that I trust shall never be broken; but we are also at peace with Turkey, and it would be a serious matter to oftend efficially one so high in authority as Abdallah Pasha—complications have arisen from even a smaller thing than that, which have threatened the peace of all Europe."

"Not for the world would I cause you trouble, Monsieur le Prefect. I was foolish to think you could give me assistance, not that I shall ever doubt your goodness of heart, but I see now more clearly that you have an official character to sustain."

Doctor Jack reaches out his hand for his hat, as if to go, when the other lays a finger on his arm, looks into his face, and says:—

"Patience, Doctor Jack. I have still ten minutes left, and we may find a way out of this trouble yet."

CHAPTER XVIII. road with the morning, and after that rest will be a stranger to him most of the time.

In his portmanteau he has a diminutive clock, which he carries with him always. The alarm he sets for seven, as he desires to get the others up, and everything ready. It was the intention of the Pasha to take the ninetwenty express out of Paris—Jack and his party will board the train early, with a double object in view, the first part of which is the fact that they cannot leave Paris earlier, and then again it will be easy to learn whether the trap has been sprung. If Abdallah Pasha does not show up at the station for that trein, Jack is ready to accept the matter as settled that the Turk is at that moment held in durance vile by a remnant of the once famous catacomb clique, who demand for his release a heavy ransom, and will be in no great hurry to collect it, possibly giving him a chance to escape after several days.

Jack throws himself on the bed only partially disrobed, and in three minutes is fast asleep—such is the severe strain that has been of late upon his rervous system that he tosses about c. nsiderably, but does not once awaken until the faithful little clock, placed close to his head, rings out its silvery summons.

At the first not: of alarm Jack sits

Cultivation of Sugar Beets

FACTS LEARNED BY THE BER LIN DELEGATES WHEN IN MICHIGAN.

Intresting Interviews with a Number of Frominent Growers-Views of a Well-known Stockman as to the Value of the Pulp for Feeding Purposes.

Below we continue our series of articles giving the more interesting features of the great mass of in-formation submitted to the Berlin Board of Trade at several meetings by members of the deputation that visited the Michigan beet sugar fac-tories. The information so impressed the farmers around Berlin that the required acreage was speedily secured; first farmer questioned was Edward Nithtschke.

This Grower Came From Ottawa. After viewing the sugar plant and its wonders, the yeomen were anxious to interview the farmers to learn from them whether sugar beets are a profitable crop and likely to be a permanent industry. The first farmer questioned was Edward Nithtschke.

He formerly lived near Ottawa, Ont., and said; "I live ten miles from Bay City, on a forty-acre farm I have been growing beets for four years. I never knew a farmer who began the growing of beets to give it up. The first year I put in 11-2 acres. The second year 3 acrs, the third year, 4 and this year, 6 acres. If find that I can cultivate the six acres of beets as easily as I did the one and a half acres the first year. Last year my beets averaged 15 tons to the acre and 14 to 16 per cent. in sugar. Lots of growers get 20 tons to the acre. When I say mine averaged 15 tons to the acre, I mean I was paid for 15 tons after the tarq had been deducted. The tare ran from 2 to 5 per cent.

ducted. The tare ran from 2 to oper cent.

It is easy to raise sugar beets now. We were green the first year.

A man will thin two acres in a day and a half. I employ no outside help I and my two sons, aged 19 and 12 respectively, handled the six acres. I estimate the whole cost of raising the beats to be not over $25 an acre. This estimate includes all labor and rent of lands. Last year my crop of beets averaged $64 an acre. I sowed the seed, in rows, two feet apart.

an acre. I sowed the seed in rows, two feet apart.
Each farmer contracts with the company to raise a certain number of acres. He may raise more than he stipulates if he wishes. The company supplies all the seed at 15 cents a pound. I sowed only eight pounds to the acre. Other put on twelve.

company supplies all the seed at locents a pound. I sowed only eight pounds to the acre. Other put on twelve.

You can't grow the beets too large. Big beets, it solid, have more sugar than small once. The company takes them whether large or small. It would be a mistake to raise beets swary year from the same field. I put beets on wheat stubble; plowing and manuring it. I consider five acres of my farm in beets pays well and cleans the lands. I grow a good crop of oats after sugar beets. I do not feed the pulp to my cattle owing to the distance I would have to haul it. If I lived near town' I would feed some. I have no railway near by which to ship beets. I can haul in only one load a day."

The price of farm lands have gone up since the sugar beet was introduced. I paid $25 an acre eight years ago for my land or $1,000. Now I can secure $75 an acre for it. The increase in its value has for the most part come during the past few years. There is no crop like sugar beets. It brings us more money than anything else.

Before the sugar beet factory business was started here, I could not make a living nor pay my debts. Since they came. I have paid all my debts and purchased new wagons, harness, machinery, furniture, etc. Without sugar beets fit farmers of this county could not pay the interest on their mortgages.

Since we began raising sugar beets the prices of other farm products have risen. Hay, which sold count has risen from 30 cents then to 50 cents now. I raise only enough potators. Have found that placing beet goods.

rows 20 inches apart at least, bes since, with them that distance apar I can use a horse and a five-show corn cultivator."

corn cultivator."

The King of Beet Raisers.

The deputation was fortunate in meeting Mr. J. Gilbert, the king beet grower Michigao. Mr. Gilbert is Bay City's milk lospector. He has had over 1,000 acres in beets this year, and has already contracted for 2,300 acres for next year, and if possible, will obtain 3,000 acres. He rents all this land and pays men to look after it. He bas 200 acres within the city limits. His profits on this year's arreage is expected to total $15,000.

Speaking to us he said: "The big secret in raising sugar beets is to keep them clean. I have found a ton of clover per acre a good preparatory fertilizer for beets. If the land is not right I do not rent. H I got ten tons of beets from an acre I am satisfied. My yield runs from 8 to 15 tons and the average is 12. My beets averaged 14 per cent. last year. I engage men, women, boys and girls to do the cleaning and thinning. I pay teamsters $3 a day. Each of my forenean have charge of from 150 to 200 acres of beets.

Wheat or oat stubble is good for beet top. I plow sod in the fall and d sk it in the spring. Stubble should be manured well new and turned down either new or in the spring. Gern stubble is all right for beets, but there is more trouble in handling it.

in the spring. Corn stubble is all right torbeets, but there is more trouble in handling it.

Bests require thorough working, and should be thinned when two inches high. On rich land have them seven inches apart, using five-inch hoes in thinning. The earlier you can get into the beets to thin them when they are small, but it does when they are large.

Ashes make the greatest fertilizer for beets there is. Use lots of seed. This year early beets were not as good as late. Bests will stand more punishment than any other root. A horse may step on them and not kill them. If I can get the help I sow errly and twenty acre plots at a time. I prefer a city loam soil. Don't like sandy ground. I had eight acres of sand upon which I put ten leads of leached ashes per acre. It turned out fairly 15 tons. Beets require a lot of potash. Distillery manure would be all right as a fertilizer for beets. Some of the land I rented this year has been under crop a second time. I would not attempt to use it a third time.

If I had but 20 acres of land I would not this year has been under crop a second time. I would not attempt to use it a third time.

If I had but 20 acres of land I would not he sitate to put it all in beets for the first year. Had I a 150-acro ferm, I would sow 100 acres of beets the first year and raise grein on the other 30 acres. The second year I would put in beets on the 50 acres of grain and 50 acres meadow, using seed grain and getting clover; cut clover one year and then turning it down. This retation of crop could be kept up for years and I venture to say that at the end of 20 years you would have a better farm than at the outset and have made money. Beet sugar is an agricultural industry. The sugar factory is the same as a flouring mill." Office Boys Make Money.

Mr. W. C. Peneyer, who chaperoned our party, ield us he had 400 acres of beets for which he rented land and hired help to cultivate it. His office boy, who is 22 years old, along with his brother, aged 19, rented 50 acres of beets and hired their own help. They will clear $1,500 on the speculation, Mr. Penoyer knew of a hardware man who had I to acres last year a has 170 acres this. All rented land and worked by hired help. This man will clear over $30 an acre last year.

Mr. H. L. Janzen met a florist the next year.

Mr. H. L. Janzen met a florist the next day who has 10 acres of beets this year and will make a lot of money from the crop, notwithstanding that he rents the land and hir s his help.

Beet Pulp for Stock.

The following is a report made by Mr. John Reimers, of Grand Island, Neb.;

Mr. John Relmers, of Grand Island, Neb.;
As requested in your favor, of the 13th inst. to I. R. Aiter, I wish to give you my opinion of four years' experience in feeding beet pulp to cattle.
"I consider it a valuable food in connection with grain and other feed, as it is a great digestive food and appetizer. It has some fattening qualities, but I do not depend on it for that purpose, but mainly to digest the other foods.
"When I begin feeding I use for the first few days from 20 to 25 pounds of pulp per head daily, with hay and a little grain on meal mixed with it. Then I gradually increased to 40 or 50 pounds per head I have also tried 80 to 20 pounds per head 1 have also tried 80 to 20 pounds per head. but am positive that this is a disadvantage in fattening cattle, as they eat less grain and meal. Too much pulp is inclined to be loosening. Cattle can be put on full feed of grain much quicker with pulp, as it helps to digest the food and lessens the danger of over-feeding or getting the cattle stailed and foundered.

After feeding from ninety to one dered.

After feeding from ninety to one hundred days, I would advise going back gradually to 20 or 25 pounds of pulp per day and increasing the grain feed, of which each feeder must judge for himself the amount his cattle can digest profitably.

He and Mrs. Drummond wore driving over to the smelting works as couple of weeks ago when they saw his wolfship quite distinctly at the edge of the woods, only about forty yards distant from them. As Mr. Drummond did not have a shooting iron along ha did not have a shooting iron along ha did not have agout thing to say to the wolf, nor the wolf to him, and so they parted good friends.

Both teams put up a superb game and every player did justice to him-self as well as to the team he represented. It was a great surprise to the large crowd, and even a surprise to our team, that they should achieve such a notable victory. When the two teams lined up every person expected that the gam-would be one-sided, but instead i was genuine hookey all the way person expected that the game would be one-sided, but instead it was genuine hockey all the way through, being fast with excellent combination play thrown in, and our boys—the future champions—won the game entirely on their merits. It was the opening game of the intermediate series of the O.H.A. and and no person could go away saying that they did not get value for their money. As the game progressied, and the score keeping about even, excitement became intenses and the cheering was beyond anything ever heard within the walls of the Lindsay-st. rink. Our eastern neighbors came up with a very strong aggregation of men who have been in senior company in O.H.A. matches, and the result of last night's game was a serious blow to them. There is no doubt of it—we have the fastest bunch yet put upon the ice to represent Lindsay. Each player handled his position well and went into the fray with a determination to win. The visitors showed up well; they played a good game and fought hard for victory. No time during the game were they caught sleeping. With the exception of a couple of trival mistakes, the game was clean throughout, much to the satisfaction of the spectators. We do not wish to particularize any of our boys—they all did well. Dennistoun deserves great credit for the victory won. He is a star on the forward line, being a fast skater and as quick as lightning, he was able to get away with the puck or many occasions. Callaghan's stick work could not be improved on. Gross at goal always had a keen eye on the puck; he stopped many a hot shot Burke's lifting was good, and the work of Shannon, Taylor and Parkin was commendable. Of the visitors' team we can only say there was one weak spot. Their forwards were always awake. Whiteroft and Morgan, mymbers of the Colts' team who won the junior championship last season. Played an exceedingly fine game. Armstrong is a daisy, and his rushes reflect great credit to his team. "Rolley Gover, and last season. Played an exceedingly fine game. Armstrong is a daisy, and his rushes reflect great credit to his team. "Rollle" Glover, an old timer at point, did good work, Lynch aud Watt did not play to advantage; they can play a much better game. Comstock stopped many a shot, but it kept him busy. His goal was stormed frequently by the Lindsayites. His Worship Mayor Ingle opened the game by facing the puck, and in a few brief remarks he said, "Players of Peterboro team, players of Lindsay team, in presenting you with the puck for this contest I do so with the desire that the game be conducted in a gantlemanly way, that no rough play be pursued, and no player injured, and sincerely hope the best team may win." Then both teams gave a rousing cheer and his Worship walked off the ice. The puck was faced off at 8.30 sharp, and five minutes elapsed before Lindsay scored in a scrimmage, the trick being done by Stafford Shannon amidst great applause. After this rushes by both sides followed and the both goals were stormed, the goal-keepers getting in some excellent play. Parkin got the puck and in a rush passed it to Shannon, who scored. Following this Armstron; scored in a rush, and sueceeded in tieing the score, when half time was called On resuming play both teams struggied, but Taylor got an opening and art the opportune time scored just three minutes later. A few accidents followed and a little time was called to During Dennistonn's skate broke and Lynch went off to balance. During Dennistonn's absence Peterboro scored two goals almost in succession, but our boys got down to work again and in appretty rush by Callaghan, who tossical to Parkin, the latter, scored, which made the score a tie. When time was up the score stood at it. Extra time was given and each was ordered to play five minutes no team scored, so an extra five minutes was again played and the bome team scored, thus whining one of the fastest and most stubornly contested games ever played here by a score of 5 to 4.

Tororto, Jan. 9.—Despite a drizzling downfall and general uncheer-fulness without, a large gathering witnessed the opening of the Legislature yesterday afternoon. The restraint of Court mourning, owing to the death of Owen Wittens which the death of Queen Victoria, which prevailed last year, had been remov-ed, and as it is the last session of this Parliament the attendance and this Parliament the attendance and Interest were greater than usual. Sir Oliver Mowat, the voteran Lieutenant-Governor, whose health continues good, despite his advanced years, again officiated, attended by his staff and a guard of honor. Premier Ross and the members of his Cabinet were early in the chamber to greet their fellows and friends.

Sir Oliver Mowat then read the speech from the throne as follows:

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Mr. Speaker and Goutlemen, of the SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

I take great pleasue in again meeting you as representatives of the Province in Parliament assembled.

Since the last meeting of the Legislature we have been honored by a visit from Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. I was greatly pleased to notice the hearty reception given to Their Royal Highnesses in every part of Ontario which the limited time at their disposal permitted them to visit. The gracious manner in which they received the expressions of loyalty which their presence evoked and the interest they manifested in every matter pertaining to the prosperity of the Province will, I trust, strengthen our attachment to the empire which they so worthly represented, and in which we, as a Province, are so deeply interested.

Prospering industries.

I congratulate you on the continued prosperity of the lumbering industry, which gives employment to so many of our people and from whom such a large revenue is deriv-

The permanent Crown forest reserves, amounting to over a million and a half acres, have been carefully protacted during the past season, and no loss of any consequence from fires or other causes has occurred. Steps are being taken to further increase there reserves in order if possible to establish a perpetual source of income from the forests of the Province. Province.

Province.

The mining industry of Ontario is making steady and satisfactory progress. More capital and labor are now being employed in mining operations than at any previous time, and the output of the chief mineral products of the Province is rapidly and steadily increasing in both quality and value.

Some For Farmers.

The work of settling the acultural lands of the Crown has cultural lands of the Crown has been successfully prosecuted during the year. Extensive areas have been disposed of to actual settlers, most of whom are from southern Ontario. It is satisfactory to know that those who leave the older settlements of the Province to obtain homesteads or amployment in newer fields now realize that they can find unexcelled opportunities within our own boundaries.

Care of the Insane.

Care of the Insane,

The adequate care and maintenance of the insane of our population still engages the attention of the Government. Additional accommodation for 150 patients has been furnished by the completion of the new asylum buildings at Cobourg. This will relieve, for the time being, the existing congestion of the asylums of the Province, but I fear you will be again called upon at no distant period to consider the advisability of making further provision for the accommodation of the increasing number of this afflicted class.

Educational Progress.

Educational Progress. I am glad to learn that very sat I am glad to learn that very satisfactory progress has been made in the promotion of technical education and that in several of our towns and cities special buildings and suitable eaulpment for the purpose have been generously provided, and also that the system of traveling libraries for the newer parts of the Province, for which provision was made a year ago, has met with general approval. proval.

The Revised Statutes.

The compilation of the Imperial statutes in force in the Province of Ontarlo under the provisions of Chapter III., R.S.O., has been completed and embodied in what will constitute Volume III. of the Reviscontitute Volume III.

pleted and embodied in what will constitute Volume III. of the Revised Statutes. This compilation, with necessary legislation, will be submitted for your consideration, and I have no doubt will be regarded with great favor by the legal profession and the public.

Agricultural Prosperity.

The year just closed has been one of very gratifying prosperity to the agricultural classes. The growth of the dairy interests of the Province is especially noteworthy, and the marked success of the exhibitors of the Province at the Pan-American Exhibition evinces the intolligence with which agricultural condenses the intolligence with which agricultural condenses the intolligence with which agricultural condenses the intolligence. The improvements made at the Agricultural College by the erection of a physical and biological laboratory, and the early completion of the Massey Library and Museum, will add greatly to the efficiency of the college, and place it among the first lege, and place it among the first agricultural colleges of America.

Beet Sugar Production. I am pleased to learn that the leg-islation of last session for the encouragement of the beet sugar the dustry is likely to produce the results desired. The experiments conducted by the Department of Agriculture conclusively show that the Province is most favorably adapted to the growing of sugar beets, and several companies are now preparing to undertake the work of sugar production.

The amendments to the factories to undertake the work of sugar production.

The amendments to the factories act, regulring the owners of factory buildings to provide suitable fire escapes, have greatly increased the safety of the operatives and others connected with the mechanical industries of the Province.

The Fishing Industry.

It is gratifying to be able to state that the fishing industry has during the year been unusually prosperous. The work inaugurated last year of restocking the inland lakes and rivers will be continued during the approaching season.

Measures will be submitted concerning the sale of intoxicating liquors, the construction of a railway from North Bay to Lake Temiskaming, increased representation for the northern districts of the Province, the assessment laws, the fisheries and extra-Provincial corporations.

The report of the Royal Commission appointed to revise the assessment laws of the Province and the reports of the several departments of the public service will be laid before you in due course.

The estimates for the current year, prepared with as great regard to economy as is consistent with efficient service and the growing wants of the Province, will be submitted for consideration at an early date.

At the conclusion of the speech the Lieutenant-Governor withdrew, and

At the conclusion of the speech the Lieutenant-Governor withdrew, and immediately in walked Sergeant-at-Arms Glackmeyer, carrying the mace. Speaker Evanturel walked in his wake, and from the throne read the new legislature prayer, in which reference is now made to the heir-apparent and his consort, as Prince George of Wales and the Princess of Wales.

bers are Liberals. Announcement was also made by the Speaker of the resignation of Hon. William Harty, member for Kingston, who has accepted the Liberal nomination for the House of Commons. The House then adjourned.

The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne will be begun this afternoon. The mover in the debate will be Mr. J. F. Gross (Welland), and the seconder Lt.-Col. Mutrie (South Wellington.)

Victoria after the proclamations had been issued and no new notice given, said it reminded him of the famous essay of Archbishop Whately, 'Historic doubts as to the existence of Napoleon Bonaparte.'

Sir John said that it is specially provided by law that no Legislature body 'summoned or called by Her Majesty or her heirs or successors' shall be affected by the demise of the crown, and consequently the proclamation referred to was in no way effected by the demise of the Queen.

Have Boers Offered to Quit?

London, Jan. 13.—The Globe's financial editor said a report which came from well-informed quarters was current in the city on Saturday that the Boer chiefs had made overtures to the British Government to the effect that they were prepared to lay down their arms, produced they were not exiled. Wednesday next is the Boer feast day, and it was said the surrender of the Boers would probably occur then. The War Office officials asserted that no proposals to surrender had been received from the Boers.

Woman's Attitude to Woman.

Woman's Attitude to Woman. Speaking before the Toronto Ministerial Association, Crown Attorney Curry of Toronto laid particular emphasis or the fact that women were most uncharitable to their fallen sisters. He had often been begged by respectable women to be lenient with hardened, disreputable men, but it was a rare occasion for a woman to ask leniency for a unfortunate member of her sex. He thought that if this order of things was reversed much more good would be accomplished by women's societies. Has this a local application?

TAKING DEFEAT HARD.

Ever since election day, when ratepayers declared in favor of the old Council, certain "sore heads" have been racing about trying to find a means whereby they might upset the means whereby they might upset the will of the people, even at the cost of another election. It was whispered everywhere that proceedings were to be taken against three or four of the members on the ground of insufficient property qualification, and many citizens reposed faith in the cost. On Saturday a more serious many citizens reposed faith in the story. On Saturday a more serious charge was launched, and the town has been buzzing with the news ever since. It was stated—no one knows by whom—that last year's Council had transferred some Collegiate sinking fund money to the general funds—in order, presumably, to lessen the deficit. It having been stated also that Messrs. McSweyn & Weldon were about to take the necessary legal proceedings in connection with the above charges, a representative the above charges, a representative of The Post to-day interviewed Mr. McSweyn, the senior member of that firm, who acknowledged that he had firm, who acknowledged that he has been retained by some half-a-dozen citizens to look into the several mat-ters and advise them in relation thereto. He had not completed his investigations and was therefore not in a position to say whether pro-ceedings would or would not be tak-

Most of our citizens will have sufficient confidence in the uprightness and intregity of the members of last year's Council to acquir them offen as stated. hand of the latter offence, which would be a grave direliction of duty, and we hope the men responsible for the charge will be able to offer an honorable excuse for be-ing so easily misled into looking upon last year's Council as a body of-we were going to use the word criminals, but will say tricksters, instead. "Previous to the late municipal elections I wrote to the president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company pointing out the necessity for protection by means of gates at George-st-crossing and on the last day of the year I had an interview at Toronto with Mr. Timmerman did not dispute that protection was needed, but urged that a "Chiengo crossing signal," would give adequate protection, and that the town should bear half the expense. Since then I have received a letter from Mr. Timmerman in which he says he is arranging to have a signal placed at the crossing, leaving the matter of expense an open question. I have replied to him that in view of the circumstances of this crossing we would not consent to the signal being considered sufficient protection and that the town took the position that it was not liable for any of the expense. Lindiay Defeated by Port Hope on Cobourg Ice by a Score of 6 to 5-Large Orowd Witnessed the Match. The Seniors put up a star game in Cobourg Tuesday night against Port Hope and were only defeated by one goal, and that deckling goal was made by the Port Hopers after ten minutes' extra time. The score was a tic-5 all—when time was up. The result of last nights game must be very pleasing to the local enthuslasts, because it proves that our, cam can put up good hockey away from home, therefore we should not loss confidence in our team and fall to support them over the defeat of fast night, but should congratulate ourselves that Lindsay has a team this year which she should be proud of. On three occasions the home team had their opponents wiped, and it is had not been for a poorly lighted rick the speedy Lindsaylites would have come home victorious.

Port Hope scored three goals during the game from the point position on litts. The rink was so poorly lighted that it was simply impossible to see the puck until it was landed in the Lindsay nats. However, despite the defeat our boys played faster and got in superior combination play, than their opponents. On several occasions they had their opponents tired out. When half-time was called the score stood 3-1 in Lindsay's favor. On resuming Port Hope gingered up and succoeded in ticing the score. The next two goals went to Lindsay, but within four minutes of time the Port Hopers scored two more goals again ticing the score. TEETHING BABIES.

A Trying Time for Mothers When Great

A Trying Time for Mother. When Great Care and Watchfulness is necessary. There is scarcely any period in baby's early life requiring greater watchfulness on the part of the mother than when baby is teething. Almost invariably the little one suffers much pain, is cross, restless day and night, requiring so much care that the mother is word out looking after it. But there are other real dangers frequently accompanying this period that threaten baby's life itself. Among these are diarrhoen, indigestion, colic, constipation and convulsions. The prudent mother will anticipate and prevent these troubles by keeping baby's stomach and bowels in a natural and healthy condition by the use of Paby's Own Tablets, a medicine readily taken by all children, and which dissolved in water, may be given with perfect safety to even a rew-born infant. In every home where these Tablets are used baby is bright and healthy and the mother has read comfort with it, and does not hesitate to tell her neighbors. Mrs. C. J. Delancy, Brockville, says: "I have been giving my fifteen months past. She was toetting and was cross and restless. Her gums were hafd and inflamed. After using the Tablets she grev, quiet, the inflammation of the gums was reduced and her teeth did not seem to bother her any more. An improvement in baby's condition was noticeable almost at once, and I think flere is no better medicine for teething babies." Baby's Own Tablets or will be sent postpaid at 25 cents a box, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A GUARANTEE. L. C. I. Notes.

The general meeting of the Litzerary Society took place last Friday, of some egotistically "self-respects ing" sheets to Canadian cities accepting library donations from Mr. Carnegie, the London Advertiser says: "Mr. Carnegie's givings are cosmopolitan, and go out to all parts of Great Britain as well as the United States. His splendid recent gift to the Scottish universities will be greatled by all. If Great Britain is by the let C. boys were fine—short and sweet, with many a catchy swilling to accept large gifte from Andrew Carnegie, why should not Canadia accept them? The kick usually has been that rich men do not do enough in the way of viewing the sawards public objects." That is a very sensible way of viewing the matter. And it is dollars to dough nuts that the same persons who affect to regard the acceptance of Carnegie's donations to libraries as "degrading" would snap at a chance to be degraded did he make an offer of a few thousands to them' personally.

ADDRESS

Expressing Appreciation of His Work as Local Superintendent of the Separate Schools-The Board Regrets the Impending Severance.

(Peterboro Review, Saturday.)
The departure of the Venerable

Arch Teacon Casey from town means the loss to the Separate schools of the energetic and most capable Lo-cal Superintendent, one who has always interested himself in whatever pertained to the success, progress and well-being of those educational institutions. His counsel and great worth have been much appreciated by the Separate School Board, than whom no one will more regret the impending severance. Last evening the members of the Board waited upon the Venerable Archdeacon Casey and presented him with an address, which gave expression, not merely to their regret, but also to their going, and their appreciation of his work in the interests of education

Those who waited upon the Venerable Archdeacon were; Messers, James Murty, John Kylie, J. J. Lyuch, D. O'Connell, Joseph Hickey, and John Corkery, Secretary-Treasurer, who read the address, which is given below;
To Venerable Archdeacon Casey, Local Superintendent of Separate Schools, Peterboro, Ont., Reverent and Dear Sir,—It has been with the deepest and most sincere regret that the members of the Separate School Board of the town of Peterboro learned that in consequence of your removal to Lindsay you were about to be called upon to sever the relations which have ever been sustained, with much pleasure to us and profit to the interests entrusted to our care, between yourself, as Local Superintendent, and ourselves, as a Board. We desire affectionately and respectfully, reverend sir, to express to you our appreciation of all that you have done in the interests of education and of oun schools. We are aware how dear to youn heart are the interests of the children and how solicitous you have been to see those interests advanced by efficient training and instruction in our schools. To accomplish this you have placed at our kipposal all those talents which you possess and which have made your advice, so valuable as a guide in our, work.

And, reverend sir, while it may be unnecessary to convey in words what you may a how a single in our work.

Curling Notes:

-Lindsay won her first match in the Octario Tankard Primary in a close and very keenly contested game Tuesday, from the Feterboro Granites. The ice was very keen but tricky, and it called for the closest play and the best of general-ship to win. If a player missed the broom by a few inches his stone was completely out. Mr. Flavelle played Mr. Whiten on Ice No. 3 and at the start the Peterboro rink took the lead, and at one stage in the game the score stood Flavelle 2, Whiten 6. Then the Lindsay men got a winning gait on and scored 5 points whilst the Peterboro men were scoring 1, so that at the close of the sixteenth end the score stood Flavelle 21, Whiten 7. By a beantiful shot in the seventeenth end Whiten cut out the Lindsay shot and counted four; the next live ends yielded singles, Flavelle taking three of them and Whiten two. Score at close, Flavelle 24, Whiten 13. The game the rinks were tied and at no time was there a difference of unore thou three shots between them. Jimmic Connall, the skip of the Peterboro rink on this ice, has long been considered by Lindsay Judges as one of the best exponents of the gams that over visits Lindsay. He played yesterday in remarkable fine form himself and he was ably assisted by the different members of his frink. The score wound up—W. McLernan 17, Connall 17, Total majority for Lindsay 10 points.

Prof. Robertson says Sir William Macdonald has sent to Hon. Mr. Ross an offer of $125,000 for the purpose of providing teaching in domestic science to girls in the Public Schools. That will be sufficient to make an experiment on a modest scale. Sir William's generosity is to be commended.

The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail has interviewed Rudyard Kipling, who has just arrived there. Mr. Kipling declared that the "fools" and "oafs" of his poem did not refer to the athletes serving at the front, for whom he had the greatest admiration, but to the stay-at-homes. He declined to further re-but the criticisms of his poem.

Some of the large life insurance companies of New York are adopting rules requiring the retirement of employees when they reach the ago of 60 years. The rule is not a good one. Some of the world's greatest achievements have been accomplish-ed by man over that age. Some men are younger at 70 than others are at 40, and the experience gained is worth money. Companies adopting such rules deserve to lose by them.

One of the proposed changes in the Ontario Marriage Act is the print-ing of a memorandum on the affidavit forms setting forth the degrees of affinity and consangulaity which or attinity and consanguintly which bar or hinder marriage. Although few people could state them, we do not think that the lack of the knowledge has caused much hardship. The United States postal authorities are considering the adoption of a lone-cent letter rate. That might abolish postal cards.

The Manitoba Liquor Act does not, as some people seem to think, aim at preventing the use of liquor; what it prohibits is the consumption of liquor in places where it is kept for sale. A man may import all he wishes and may give away as much wishes and may give away as nucleas he like to his friends. It does not aim at preventing the manufacture of liquors; that is expressly provided for. Now that it is being closely scrutinized it is found to be full of gaps through which the proverbial coach and four may be driven.

London, Jan. 14.—A remarkable article appeared in yesterday's Times under the caption of "Literature of German Anglophobia." recounting the character of the anti-British cartoons which have appeared in the German newspapers, which, The Times says, "in coarseness, obscenity and venom are without a parallel in modern times."

The Times' article, which is two columns long, says: "These papers are not gutter-sheets, but are sold everywhere at the stations of the state railroads, even at Potsdam station, where the Emperor is constantly traveling. He was finally obliged to personally order their removal." "Neither are those papers anonymous. One of the most infamous of all, entitled "The Boer War,' bears on the title pages the names of persons distinguished in the literary and artistic world of Germany. From a purely technical standpoint the paper is an art production, but it is difficult to find words to convey a notion of the filth which its cultured artists and writers venture to lay before its cultured German readers. British soldiers are represented as robbing the dead. Mr. Chamberlain's state coach is depicted as a cart laden with skeletons, and King Edward is shown dead drunk in his bedroom, receiving the news of Cronjo's state coach is depicted. From Worship." The then Princess of Wales standing, with the young princesses by her side, is decorating the youngest soldier. The legond usedenseath reads textually:

"An English Princess decorating the youngest soldier in the British army with the Victoria Cross, because, although only thirteen, he has already outraged eight Boer women." "This obscenity, sold in respectable shops, was engerly bought by the public, and lies on fashionable drawing-room tables."

The Times yesterday, of all days, begins a series of articles on the ofensive German caricatures. The Times ought to hesitate before it deliberately flogs the passion of the people. Are our publicists mad? Can they not see the abyss towards which they are hounding this long-suffering nation?"

Early last fall we placed an order with a German firm for a consignment of FANCY GLASSWARE, and CHINA NOVELTIES for the holiday trade.

The goods were shipped late and the vessel carrying them was delayed by winter tempests, the result being that the consignment did not reach us in time for Christmas.

It was unfortunate, but it would be worse luck to have to carry them over till next season. Every year has its new styles in China and Glassware as in dress goods, and we have decided to clear out this consignment NOW. If you want some pretty things for your table your opportunity is here.

The minutes of the last two meetings were read and confirmed. Imperial Trade Relations.

Imperial Trade Relations.

A communication from Mr. Goo. Chapman, Toronto, bonorary secretary of the Dominion Board, of Trade, called attention to the importance of closer trade relations being cultivated between Great Britain and her Colonies, and to the opportunity offored in the conference of Colonial Premiers in London next summer for the presentation of Canadian views. The letter suggested affiliation with the Dominion Board and the appointment of representatives to attend a meeting at Ottawa.....On motion the Secretary was instructed to write, expressing the Boards apportant of the objects almed at, and the Presideat and Mr. F. C. Taylor were appointed delegates.

Out of Our Railway Feeders.

The following communication from Mr. L. B. Howland, General Manager of the Irondale Bancroft & Ottawa R. R., was next read; Irondale, Dec. 24th, 1902.

To J. H. Scotheran, esq. Secretary, and members Beard of Trade, Lindsay; and members Ecard of Trace, Lindsay; Gentlemen,—The line of the Iron-dale, Bancroft & Ottawa Rallway, whose charter authorizes the build-ing of a rallway from a point on the Grand Trunk Rallway near Kinthe Grand Trunk Railway near Kinmount, thence in an carrerly alrection to a point on the Ottawa River, has forty-eight miles of its line in actual operation from its line in point on the G.T.R.R. to a point near Bancroft, traversing through the townships of Snowden, Glamorgan, Monmouth, and Caroliff, County of Haliberton and township of Faraday County of Hastings, thus rendering the only means of transportation for freight and mails from said downships, and also from the townships mentioned.

Is the construction of the said road there has been expended over kownships, and also from the townships morth and south of said townships mentioned.

In this construction of the said road there has been expended over $700,000, of which amount the sum of $105,000 has been by way of subsidy from the Province of Ondario and the sum of $134,000 subsidy from the Dominion of Canada. Since the death of Mr. Pussey, more than two years ago, I have experienced an exceedingly hard struggle in order to keep that anterprise in operation and solve the many difficulties attending its construction. Unfortunately at this time the ultimate destination of the extension was vague, thus capitalists were somewhat skeptical, but now having its destination line definitely defined has enabled me to obtain substantial financial support from one of the most prominent. Trust Companies in New York City, who will supply all funds (pending this granting of subsidies) preessary to extend my line in an easterly direction to a point on the Canada lation, being a distance of sixty miles from the end of completed line, and besides put the whole enterprise on a substantial footing.

By Yaving the line completed to this point will canable me to participate in the through traffic from all south-western points of the Province to the north-east and Ottawa Valley, besides increasing a tributaged, wired by the Other Revenus of the March and the sends of the Sends of the Province to the north-east and Ottawa Valley, besides increasing a tributaged, wired by the Other Revenus of the Province to the north-east and Ottawa Valley, besides increasing a tributaged.

tary from which Linused trail benefit.

Having fifteen miles of subsidy already voted by the Ontario government on the said extension I will only require forty-five miles of new grant to complete the link. From the Dominion government a straight grant for the whole sixty miles is necessary.

As I anticipate very strong opposition to the granting of aid to my railway, for reasons which I will explain to you before youn Board meets, it is very necessary to back my application with strong and influential resolutions, therefore, I take the liberty of appealing to your fluential resolutions, therefore, I take the liberty of appealing to your fluential resolutions, therefore, I take the liberty of appealing to your fluential resolutions, therefore, I take the liberty of appealing to your fluential resolutions, therefore, I take the liberty of appealing to your order of the respect your amp showing the line as constructed and proposed extension. WROUGHT IN THE CASE OF A OHARLOTTETOWN LADY.

Statistics published from time to time show the number of deaths occurring throughout this country rrom consumption to be as great as the number caused, by all other preventible diseases combined. 16 is to wonder, therefore, that the medical traternity has at last awasended to the fact that the most urgent means must be taken to prevent its rether spread, and to teach the public that while the disease is readily communicated from one person to mother, it is not necessarily interfect, though the tendency to it may be. It is therefore, of the utanost importance that people with weak langs should take the greatest care of themselves to prevent consumption obtaining a hold upon thom. For out-of-gloor air, and, lots of sanshine, wholesome fool and a good toole medicine to keep the blood rich, red and pure, will enable anyone to resist the innocals of the disease. As a blood forming tonic, there is no medicine the equal of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills where recely and I fally uses of consumption when taken in its early stages. Proof of this is gaven in the cases of Mrs. Afram Hency, of Charlotterwen P.E. To a reporter of the Islander who called upon her. Mrs. Hency and the medical is a doctor, who said that my langs were affected, and that I was obliged to take to my bed, and call is a doctor, who said that my langs were affected, and that I was obliged to take to my bed, and call is a doctor, who said that my langs were affected, and that I was obliged to take to my bed, and call is a doctor, who said that my langs were affected, and that I was going into consumption, and he told my own condition because on much worse, that in weight own of the benefit of some other poor sufferer.

Freshient Flavelle.—"You are seeking the ordinary government ald?"

Mr Howland—"Yes, from both governments. I received a very favorable reception in Toronto, but of course the members of the government hesitate to make promises on the ground of the subsidies already voted to the Pembroke Southern. I think it can be shown that they would be justified in alding my line as the routes are not parallel."

A map of the district having bean secured, Mr. Howland traced the respective routes for the information of the members. The object of the Pembroke people, he explained, was toget a direct line to Toronto, and they diserved credit for the efforts being put forth, but to gain their point they wished to force him to garand two sides of a triangle. Senator McHugh—"Would not the Pembroke line sherten the distance between that town and Toronto?"

Mr. Howland—Yes, but Pembroke is not the hab of the universa. That line can meet me at Pelmer's Rapins. I'm asking for a subsidy for a straight line to a junction with the cannad Atlante at Caldwell, 14 miles west of Renfrew; at that, point the Fort."

Mr. Howland—"A local line will not pay—we must have through freight. I feel assured, from communications with Mr. Hays and the Canada Atlantle people, that there would be a good train service. Three-qrarters of the settlers cust of the Madawaska are thrifty Germans who want an outlet 'for themselves and their produce, and two-thirds of the passengers on my line at the present time are ticketed to Lindsay."

President Flavelle said his believed the extension talked of would benefit Lindsay, and he could vouch for the fact that the, line to Bancroft had helped our business' men. All Mr. Howland asked for was sympathy and moral support, and he should get it.

Mr. Howland—"Oh, I'll take monsy too, if you have it."

On motion of Mr. Paddon, seconded by Mr. W. Flavelle, the President, R. J. McLaughlin, C. D., Barr, Wimsters and the Secretary, were appointed a committee to draft memorials to be presented to the Dolinon and Ontario governments asking that subsidies be granted for the proposed extension.

Sturgeon Point Option.

Secretary Sootheran Informed the Board that he had been handed an option on the Sturgeon Point hotel property, at the price of $3,250, ofter the considering the number of companies that are putting money into summer hotels, there shouls be some way of getting at them. President Flayelle—"The important thing is to get the property into proper shape for negotiations with outsiders. I'm' willing to be one of of a syndicate, large or small, to buy it."

In the course of the subsequent discussion it transpired that in addition to Mr. Simpson's lot, adjoining Mr. Flavelle's, Mr. McDomald, the owner, wished to reserve his own residence—the old hotel cottage—and half-an-aero of land, but agreed to leave the lot vnfenced, and allow free passage across his property. and contracts for 80 acres were signed on the spot, while the canvassers agreed to devote to-day to visiting those farmers in the neighborhood who had been unable to attend the meetings, in the full confidence that the total acreage would be very largely increased.
Much interest was manifested in the efforts being put forth to secure a beet sugar factory for the district, and the cordial way in which the Lindsay representatives were received went to show that the farmers present regard the interests of the town and county—in this mater at least—as identical.

Light, Heat & Powen Co., returned last Friday from Montreal, where he had been attending the meetings of the Canadian Electrical Associ ation in session there, and of which influential body he is secretary. On Thursday Signor Marconl, whose dis-covery has made him famous the world over, was the honored guest of the Association at a luncheon, and was introduced to all the members. While the luncheon was in progress a message arrived from the American Electrical Association conveying an invitation to Canadian electric ians to attend a session of that body in New York next day, "when they would have the honor of meeting would have the honor of meeting the eminent Signor Marcon! Be-fore leaving Signor Marcon! promis-ed to attend the next meeting of the Canadian Association in Quebec in June, when he will give an explana-tion and perhaps au illustration of his invention.

COUNTY COURT.

wo Interesting Judgments Rendered.

Two Interesting Judgments Rendered.
Lennon vs. Stevens.—This case was tried at the last sittings of the County Court in December. As the matter to be determined involved this consideration of the accounts between the defendant and George Spencely, who had mortgaged the three wagons in question to the plaintiff. His Honor Judgo Daen deferred giving judgment until after these accounts were taken. This having been done, the finding was that Stevens still owned the wagons and the judgment was given in favor of the defendant, but as, he had told one Hartwick, one of the witnesses, that he, the defendant, had sold the wagons to Spencely, the judgment was without costs.

Spencely vs. Stevens.—This case was brought to ascertain the true state of the accounts between the plaintiff—who collected ashes and sold the vanced money or paid the plaintiff from time to time. There was a considerable difference in the accounts. The parties agreed to refer the matter to Judge Dean and it took thirteen days to take the evidence and hear the arguments and on Saturday hast His Honon pronounced judgment in favor of the defendant, I. E. Weldon, esq., of Mosses. McSwayn & Weldon, esq., of Mosses.

Bob Burdette's Advice.

Remember, my boy, the good things in this world are the cheapest. Spring water costs less than corn whiskey; a box of cigars will buy two or three bibles; a gallon of old brandy costs more than a barrel of flour; a "full hand" of poker often costs a man more all twenty minutes than his church subscription amounts to in three years; a State election costs more than a scap in church every Sunday morning for nothing, if you are mean to dead-beat your lodging, but a nap in a Pullman costs you $2' every time. Fifty cents for the circus, and a penry for the little ones to put in the missionary box; a dollar for the theatre, and a pair of trousers frayed at the end, baggy at the knee, and of the circus and a very; the cost of the circus, and a penry; the horse race swoops in $2.000 the first day, and the church fair lasts a week, works twenty-five or thirty of the best women in America to death, and oomes out $10 in debt.—St. Louis Christian Advocats.

Council Responsible for Neglect (To the Editor of The Post.)
Sir,—The following item in last evening's issue of your paper arrested my attention and suggested rested my attention and suggested some remarks:

Ratepayers who notice any neglect of duty on the part of snow-plow contractors should drop a postal car to Town Commissioner Chilmers or leave a statement in writing with 'Yown Clerk Knowleon, when the matter will be attended to promptly.

The above is well enough in its way, but like many another bluff it does not work. A complaint to the Commissioner (who I am sure is doing his very bost) will result in this information—that he can do practically nothing in the matter, as last year the fines he imposed on the snow-plow men were remitted by the Connell.

The employment of some of these

Fire Hall Site—Notte, "Better Late Than Never."

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Sir,—The privilege of free expression from press or people is a boon to be appreciated—an acknowledged right. It must be accepted as such when it breathes no oftence to state or people. Then, sir, with your permission I take the liberty of indulging in a few remarks re the Fire Hall site, prompted by hearing a party say that he would give a day towards the excavation of a new site for the Fire Hall gratis, and he ventured to say that many more would do the same, including some farmers with their teams just to preserve their market, and the townspeople's market intact. Commolious and safer, it would then not be a whit too big for all the purposs of a developing town like Lindsay. He suggested that the north-west coroer of the park would probably be the best site, where the old Fire Hall stood thirty years ago, where property (then in a line north, south and west,) was not one twentieth part as valuable as it is now nor in the same need of fire protection as it is now. This situation has much to commend it as a Fire Hall site—a goo! road along the west side, easy access to the back, a level entrance or just a perceptible elevation to the first floor, sufficiently removed from the throng of traffice, a desirable edifice on our main street. The little park would then seem to nestle between the sheltering wings of two stately buildings that would harmonize and be a relief to the bleak and barren appearance it presents at present, also forming a partial shelter from those keen cold winds that strike the pedestrians as they pass.

Such interest developed might arouse the patriotism of some individual to the extent of laying out walks, getting seats and planting with tasty trees. Then we might, with some degree of pride, hear the "encomium" of some north country Englishman or Scotchman saying "it's a bonnie spot." Tils a consummation to be described in the complete such such the interested might be fire Hall there the surroundings would be m

Beet Root Sugar.

(St. John Telegraph.)
The development of the beet root sugar industry in the United States is an interesting matter, although as yet it is comparatively trival in relation to the total consumption. Approximately speaking, the United States uses about 6.081 tons of sugar per day. Last year there were 39 beet sugar factories in the country, with a total output of 150,000 tons, or about 411 tons per day, the total being equal to some 24 days consumption. The production, however, showed a stendy increase since the first establishment of the industry, the statistics being as follows:

Year Factories. (Product. 1892 ... 6 12,018 tons. 1897 ... 7 37,536 tons. 1897 ... 7 37,536 tons. 14 is claimed that the output for 1902 will amount to 250,000 tons, but on the other hand it is shown that the total consumption of sugar in the United States increased in 1900 by more than 141,000 tons above what it had been in 1899, and the ratio of increase is also developing. From the Throne Adopted by the House After Hearing Messrs. Gross Mutric, Whitney and Ross-Surplus in Cash Half Million Greater,

Toronto, Jan. 10.—In the Legislative Assembly Mr. Gross of Welland, in moving the address in reply to the speech from the Throne, yesterday afternoon, said that at the beginning of a new reign it was an opportune time for the taking of stock, in a mational sense. He dwelf history in order to profit by its teachings, and briefly reviewed the leading incidents in the history of Canada. The greatest progress of Canada had been made since Confederation and a comparison with the history and present condition of the United States was greatly in our aver. He was utraid that Canadinas were inclined to be too pessimistic and a little of the spread eagleism of our neighbors would do so no harm. He alluded to the royal visit and the hearty reception reverved by the buke and Ducless of Cornwall. The reception they met. In the city of Toronto was especially creditable. It would result in the people of the Old Country becoming better acquainted with Canada. Herefored approvingly to the consolidation of the statutes relating to property law, which would be greatly appreciated not only by the legal profession but by the public. The Province of Ontario was fortunately free from provincial taxation while in New York, as he knew by experience, the State taxes on real estute amounted to four mills on the dollar. The people of the Province were singularly favored in their financial position. It was very satisfactory to note the rapid filling up of the northern portion of Ontario, which would aid the industrial progress of the older districts. The absence of coal was a drawback to the Province, but the development of the recent improvements in electrical science. In 10 years he believed that the Falls would not only supply power, but heat for domestic purposes to the whole Province. The industrial development of the Province word was a farmed and of the recent improvements in electrical science. In 10 years he believed the view of the recent improvements is necessarily though to an electrical science. In 10 years he believed the pro what it had done to promote the dairying interests and to raise the standard of agriculture generally. He gave a number of figures showing the extent to which Ontario farmers had carried off the honors at the Pan-American Exhibition in every department in which they had competed. The Winter Live Stock Fair at Guelph he considered the best fair for educational purposes held in Canada, and he hoped the Government would give it the support it merited. The Agricultural College had done a great work and won widespread appreciation outside of Ontario and what it had done to promote the ot Much Doing on Monday-First Petitions Asking For a Prohibitory Law Were Presented.

Were Presented.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—The session of the Legislature vesterday lasted twenty minutes, and was attended by a scanty House. Considerable business was, however, transacted, and promise given that the work would be facilitated more rapidly than usual. Another large batch of peritions from Methodist congregations in accordance with an organized plan, asking for a prohibitory quor law, were received. An important bill introduced by the Premier confirms a new agreement with the Canadian Niagara. Power Company, extending the time for the completion of their work. The public accounts are expected by the end of the week, and in the event of their being presented the budget speech may be expected early next week.

Bills Get First Reading.

Premier Ross moved the first reading of the bill confirming the agreement of the Victoria Niagara Falls National Park, It will receive its second reading on Thursday, as will also these bills introduced by the Attorney-General: Bill respecting the temporal statutes relating to property and civil rights, incorporated with the statute law of Ontario, bill to provide for the revision of the statute law; bill to amend the Marriage Act; bill respecting mortmain and the disposition of lands for charitable uses; bill to amend the Marriable on Stunding Orders would meet to-day, so that the private bills could be brought down at an early date.

The Striking Committee presented its report to the House naming the various standing committees. There are few changes from last year, and the report was adopted. Hon. J. T. Garrow goes on the Legal Committee, Committee on Agriculture and Colonization and several others.

BIGAMY CASE FELL THROUGH.

Joshua W. Curts Was Not Wrong in Going to Ohio and Marrying

Joshua W. Curts Was Net Wrong in Geling to Ohio and Marrying.

Toronto, Jan. 14.—In the Assizes yesterday Joshua W. Curts was tried and acquitted of a charge of bigamy. He was accused of marrying Melinda May Abbott at Niagara Falls, N.Y., during the lifetime of his first wife, Frances Collier Curts. He was represented by counsel, who argued that there was no case to go to a jury, inasmuch as there was no o'donce that Curts went to the United States for the express purpose of marrying while his first wife was alive. Chief Justice Meredith, in instructing the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty, said: "I do not think there is evidence to prove that the prisoner wished to evade the criminal law by going to Ohio to get a divorce. He went to get rid of the injustice which limits divorce in this country to the jurisdiction of Parliament, a tribunal which ninetenths of Canada's citizens cannot afford to approach to secure the cancellation of an unhappy marriage. Under the circumstances no evidence was offered in the case of Melinda May Abbott, also charged with bigamy.

MANY MESSAGES AT ONCE. i So Predicts of Wireless Telegraphy.

New York, Jan. 14. — William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, was the guest of honor last evening at the annual dinner of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The only formal addresses were those by President Charles Protest Steinmetz, Signor STRETCH OUT.

Many a man is unable to stretch his arms or legs because of rheumatism. There is no excuse for this state of affairs. Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure will remove the disease in short order. In the case of Henry Hasler, Flinton, Ont., two bottles made him as sound as ever. He had suffered from muscular rheumatism in his arms and legs for two months and was perfectly helpless. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Marconi, Prof. Ellinu Thomson and Dr. Michael I. Pupin.

Marconi, Prof. Elinu Taomson and Dr. Michael I. Pupin.
Signor Marconi, on being introduced, first described what his system had accomplished. He then referred to the prevailing opinion that when a message is sent into space any one of the necessary apparatus can intercept that message and read it.

He said: "Messages can only be read when the receiver and transmitter are attuned. This attuned system as perfected is not at present deemed necessary that each ship should be coulpped with apparatus which will permit of their reading a message sent from any other ship because of the possibility of aid being required in case of danger."

Let Act Be Euforced.

Let Act Be Enforced.

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—The following resolution was passed at a citizens' mass meeting last night in St. George's Church: "Resolved that in the opinion of this meeting any delay in putting the liquor act in operation, such as would be caused by again referring the question to the people, would be unfair, un-British and unjust to the majority of Manitobans who have waited so many years for satisfactory legislation, and have spoken, in an emphatic way on it, on at least two occasions. This meeting demands that the liquor act, the proclamation of which was held over until the decision of the Privy Council should be at once proclaimed to come into force June 1, 1902."

Winnipeg, Jan. 14.—Last evening's session of the Legislature was not very lengthy; the only business was the speeches of J. T. Gordon and James Argue, who respectively moved and seconded the reply to the speech from the throne.

Killed by a Falling Plank. Milled by a Falling Plank.

Toronto, Jan. 14. — The Morse Soap Works was the scene of a fatal accident yesterdey morning, as a result of which William Corbett lies dead at 48 Munro street. Corbett was engaged on the ground floor, when some workmen on the second floor accidentally dropped a plank, which struck him on the head, inflicting injuries from which he died about 5 o'clock last evening.

No News of Miss Stone No News of Miss Stone.
London, Jan. 14.—Wiring from Constantinople, the correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, says there is no news of Miss Stone, the captive American missionary, and that the delegation which some days ago left Salonica for the interior to meet Miss Stone's captors, have not yet met the bandits.

Silent'on Bodus Vivenai.

St. Johns, Nfd., Jan. 14.—The colonial legislature will meet Feb. 13. The Colonial Government has, up to the present time, received no request from the British Cabinet for the renewal of the French shore modus vivendi, which expired Dec. 31, 1901. It is believed in official circles here that the cabinets of France and Great Britain are consulting over the prospect of affecting an arrangement of this question more acceptable to Newfoundland.

The Supreme Court Vacancy,

Ottawa, Jan. 14.— The appointment of a successor to the late Mr. Justice Gwynne in the Supreme Court has not yet been discussed by the Government. There is an impression that Mr. Justice Moss would fill the office with ability and dignity, but he might be disinctined to leave Toronto and make his home in Ottawa. M. A. B. Aylesworth's name is also mentioned for the position.

Russia Advancing in Corea.

Yokohama, Jan. 14.—A report has been received here from Seoul, Corea, to the effect that Russia, without waiting for Corea's permission, has pushed its telegraph line across the Toomen into Corean territory.

(Per Bottle off the Coast of Africa.) Ye may study the song I leave ye; ye may ponder the lines and Ye may snort at the cuts I give ye may sputter and fume and fuss; The lash I wield is knotted; I swing it with all my might.

And I'm not afraid of your answer, since I'm far away out of sight—
Ay, quiver, and squirm, confound ye; or turn in wrath, if you please, I'm not afraid of your anger-I'm far on the billowy seas.

I give ve of gall and wormwood, instead of the honeyed drip;

Ye are craven dogs and ye know it

—I'm far away on my ship—
Ye were whelped by the sneaking jackal, ye wear but the loa's hide Ye are daytime braggards only—I'm far on the billowy tide—Ye are flabby, flannelled flunkles, that's all that I have to say—
He may live to do more rhyming who rhymes and hurries away.

Separate School Affairs.

For the first time in many years the Separate School board, acting on the advice of Rev. Fr. Phelan, has issued a detailed statement of the receipts and disbursements for the years ending 31st Dec. 1901, in pamphlet form, in place of the customary condensed report. The pamphlet also contained the statement of the Stafford Library Trust for the same term. The receipts of the school board were $3.895.60, expenditures $2.597.70, cash in bank $1.087.90. The Stafford Library Trust, established in Oct. 1883, amounts at the present time to $1.809.50, of which $1.545 is invested mortgages, the balance being cash in bank. The books represent an investment of $421.72. The pamphlets were distributed Sunday at high mass, and there was an eager demand for them.

Varsity Glee Club Concert.

of Toronto Harmonic Club, which is to be given here on the night of Thursday, Jan. 28rd. The concert will be the first event in the LC.I. Lecture Course and promises to be altogether a most delightful event. The Harmonic Club will bring with them the Glee Club under the direc-tion of Mr. A. T. Cringan, banjos, mandolins, and guitars under Mr. G. mandolins, and guitars under Mr. G. F. Smedley's leadership, and a small orchestra. Mr. H. N. Shaw, B.A. has been engaged to read at the concerts in Lindsay, Peterboro and Ottawa. and he will no doubt be well received by many old friends in Lindsay. Mr. F. E. Brophey is a clever monologue agrist who will be introduced to a Lindsay andlence, and Mr. Smedley will be heard in characteristic instrumental solos. In addition to the above talent, the Harmonic Club will bring Mr. E. C. Clarko. the popular baritone, and Albert H. Abbot. B.A., as flutist, There looks to be plenty of material for an enjoyable evening and the Collegiate Assembly Hall will probably be taxed to accommodate the audience.

-Fenelon Falls special to Toronto World: A friendly game of hockey was played at Fenelon Falls last world: A triendly game of notative was played at Fereion Falls last evening between the home team and Bobcaygeon, the score being 11-3 in favor of the Fenelon team. The game was clean throughout, but the Cataract Village boys, who won the Cataract Village boys, who won the Trent Valley League Cup last season, got in their, combination work too well for Bobcaygeon. The Fencion team have not yet been beaten for years and are anxious to go up against some of the crack O.H.A. teams.....No, Fencion Falls, you arie quite corroct. It is true, you have not been heaten for years O.H.A. teams.......No, Fenelon Falls, you are quite correct. It is true you have not been beaten for years on your own ice, but got trimmed a few times during last season in Lindeay, and you could get a good dose of medicine any time now if you come down and give us a game. Who won the Simpson Cup games? —The Peterboro Examiner, in a reference to Friday's Waterloo, says: Friday's game in Lindsay goes to show the inadvisability of playing off a tie game in a three or four club district. At full time the score was a tie, and its being played off makes it possible for a tie all round after the schedule has been played, taking the ground that the local team will win their home matches. Paterboro wanted this rule changed but it did not go through. Lindsay has a well belanced team, and are playing as good brockey as will be found in any intermediate district. The home taam is well pleased with the showing made against Lindsay and are not overlocking the fact that condition is a very important factor. In the playing of games, and consequently the players are to be found on the rink every night.

Sir. Doboti's Career.

Richard Reid Dobell was the son of the late George Dobell of Liverpool, England, and was born in that city in 1837. He was educated at the Liverpool College and came to Canada in 1857 to embark in the lumber trade. Together with his brother-in-law, Thomas Beckett, he founded the firm of R. R. Dobell & Co., of Quebec; having a branch in London, Fag., and he had been at the head of the house throughout. He was elected to the presidency of the Quebec Board of Trade, and was subsequently appointed one of the Harrbor Commissioners for that city. While occupying these positions he took an active part toward securing the construction' of the Princess Louise ary docks at Quebec. He was likewise instrumental in promoting the adoption of the cold storage principle on transatlantic steamers, and had been since 1895 president of the Cold Storage Company of Quebec. He was a director of the Quebec Railway Bridge Company. Mr. Dobell was a delegate to the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, held in London in 1892, and also to the conference held in London in 1896. In 1892 he went to Cape Town to speak there in behalf of the commercial interests of Canada. In 1894 he was elected president of the deep waterways convention in Toronto.

Mr. Dobell was known as the projector of the new Atlantic cable, which it is proposed to lay between Clew Bay, Ireland, to Greenly Island in the Straits of Belle Isle. He was an ardent Federationist, and was an ardent Federationist, and was an ardent Federationist, and was an effective for the federation of the mount of the council of which he was elected. He was formerly on the council of the Council of the Council of which he was elected. He was formerly on the council of the Dominion Board of Trade, and was again elected president of the Quebec Board of Trade in 1895-96.

Mr. Dobell consetted Quebec West for the House of Commons as an Independent in June, 1895, and secured a majority of seven rotes, but subsequently lost the election on a recount. At the general election in 1896 he appeared as the general candidate of the Liberal opposition, and was returned by 231 majority. In his address, to the electors be announced limself to be strongly in favor of tariff reform, of intercolonial trade,

On the formation of the Laurier
Cabinet in July, 1898, he was called to the Privy Council and appointed a Minister without portfolio.
He was a staunch member of the Church of England. He was a vice-president of the Quebec Bible Society, and a trustee of Bishop's College University, Lennoxville.
Mr. Dobell married Elizabeth Frances, eldest daughter of the late Sir David Macpherson of Toronto. Their son, Charles Macpherson Dobell, graduated from the Royal Military College in 1890, was appointed lieutenant in the Royal Weish Fusiliers, saw service with his regiment during the Burmese war, and was mentioned in despatches for bravery in the field. More recently the son has been serving in Crete. Another son, Alified, is a graduate of Toronto University and of Osgoode Hall.

AN ARCHBISHOP'S VIEW.

Dr. Machray of Rupert's Land on the Question of Prohibition.

Winnipeg, Jan. 11.—The subject of the Liquor Act referendum continues to be the absorbing topic of public interest among Winnipeg citizens, expressions of opinion on all phases of the subject are freely offered, and many new ideas are being publicly discussed.

Most Rev. Robert Machray, D.D., Archbishop of Rupert's Land, says: "I entirely disapprove of the principle of prohibitory legislation. But if that principal is to be applied, which I do not approve of, then it should only be upon the clearest proof of a large majority in its favor. I regard it as a matter of individual conscience rather than of law, and only the honest and active convictions of a large majority would warrant a law or secure its proper observance. I should say that the majority should be fully 75 per cent."

The Free Press last night that the majority should be fully 75 per cent."

The Free Press last night says: It was learned this morning that the Government will use the municipal voters' lists with which to submit the prohibition referendum to the people. There was some uncertainty about this matter, a great many being of the opinion that the new provincial voters' lists would have to be prepared for the purpose in accordance with the act passed last session.

Montreal, Jan. 11.—William Doull, director of the Havana Electric Company, reached here yesterday from Cuba. He says the proposed 50 per cent. tariff will be accepted by Cuba sugar raisers, and this will increase the prosperty of the country.

Ring's Crowning.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—It is Mr. Marconi's ambition to have his wireless system working across the Atlantic in time to furnish reports of the coronation of the King on June 26. After doubling the electric power at his Cornwall station Mr. Marconi will return to Canada in two or three months, and get his station at Cape Broton in working order with this object in view. Mr. Marconi is to be the guest of honor at a banded to be given by the Electrical Society in New York Monday evening.

coast, and also with other st using the wireless apparatus.

Will Return in June.

Moutreal, Jan. 11.—Signor Marconi passed through here yesterday en route for England. He was dined at the St. James' Club and announced that capital had been offered both in Montreal and Ottawa to complete his enterprises. Besides the Cape Breton station, he says one will be erected on the shore of the Red Sea. Mr. Marconi also promises to return to Canada in June, and will read a paper before the Canadian Electrical Association at Quebec. Will Return in June.

Company With Provincial River Rights Upsets Ottawa.

HON, MR. TARTE'S AID INVOKED

The Minister of Public Works Will Deal

With the Threatened Interference With Chaudiere Water Lessees Leases at Once-If Hawkesbury

Will Be in Bad Case. Ottawa, Jan. 11.—The aid of the Minister of Public Works was invok-ed Thursday to avert a threatened interference with the Chaudiere wa-

Minister of Public Works was invoked Thursday to avert a threatened interference with the Chaudiere water power, which would jeopardize Ottawa's fire protection, water supply, electric light and car service.

Last session a charter was granted to the Hawkesbury Lumber Company, Mr. W. C. Edwards, M.P., and others, under the name of the Ottawa and Hull Power Manufacturing Company, to utilize the water power appertaining to the Table Rock property on the Quebec side of the Chaudiere Falls. The company obtained its rights in the river from the Quebec Government.

Now it has issued a notice to the water power leaves and other establishments on this side of the river, that they must remove the northern portion of the dam, which was built to secure to the mills and other establishments on this side of the river a constant supply of water. The removal of this dam would leave them all practically without power, even the city pump house, it is claimed.

With this predicament threatening them, a delegation of the Chaudiere lesses, consisting of Mr. J. R. Booth, the Messrs. Bronson, Messrs. A. Lumsden, M.P.P., W. Y. Soper, and P. Whelan, accompanied by Mr. W. A. Belcourt, M.P., interviewed Hon, Mr. Tarte yesterday aftornoon, fore the Minister dwelt upon the serious loss the Ottawa and Ifull Company's demands, if complied with, would entail on the city. The dams, he pointed out, had been built by the Dominion Government, and any interference with them would, in fact, render these leases valueless.

Mr. Tarte promised to deal with the matter at once. The Minister will probably protect the interests of the lessees from the Crown, but would, in fact, render these leases of the lessees for the city by seeing to it that in the meantime the company is not allowed to carry out its threat to remove the dam. Should the matter get into the courts, however, there would seem to be all the elements in it for protracted and expensive litigation.

SIR WILLIAM MACDONALD'S OFFER.

Will Build Grade School in Ontario on Certain Conditions.

Toronto, Jan. 11.—Premier Ross yesterday announced the scheme of Sir William Macdonald in connection with his liberal donation for educational purposes in the province. Already Sir William has given $125,000 for an addition to the Guelph Agricultural College, and has proposed to make a grant for the establishment of a grade school in some thickly populated township. He will have to have an agreement or assurance first, however, with the trustees that they will see to the transportation of the scholars who may wish to attend. If they do this Sir William is willing to provide for the erection of a school which would also contain a library. Another idea of the Montreal millionaire is the establishment of gardens in connection with schools. He proposes to give to eight or ten schools grants for the setting aside of gardens, in which would be grown plants, vegetables, etc. By this means teachers would be able to give a more practical instruction to the children attending the schools. When these gardens are established Sir William will send an inspector or expert around to give lessons on the practical side of agriculture.

C.N.E. Extended.

Winnipeg, Jan. 11.—A deputation, representing the farmers of the Boissevain district, waited upon the Government to urge the extension of the C. N. R. from Minto or some other point on its line to Boissevain, so as to give competition with the C. P. R. The representatives, Mr. Miller and A. S. Barton, presented a petition signed by 207 farmers, and pointed out that the farmers of that district were very anxious to have the C. N. R. extended. In reply the Ministers promised to take the views of the deputation into very careful consideration. Subsequently, the deputation waited upon D. B. Hanna, of the C. N. R.

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—The War Office must be exceedingly anxious to secure nurses for South Africa, because it has cabled the Governor-General directing that the five Canadian nurses recommended for service proceed to the front by way of England. The cablegram was in response to a message stating that there were no room for the nurses on board the transports Manhattan and Victoria, which will take the Second Mounted Rifles to South Africa. The five ladies will be granted transportation to England on a requisition being made to the Imperial officer incommand at Halifax, and on reaching the other side the Adjutant-General will arrange for their passage to South Africa. Lieut Domville of Woodstock, N. B., has declined the position of assistant veterinary to the Mounted Rifles, and Dr. James of Ottawa has been appointed to the vacancy. The latter will leave for Halifax to-day. Major Cameron, formerly of the Royal Scots, Montreal, was in town yesterday taking, leave of his friends. He also starts to-day for Halifax to-join the Mounted Rifles.

The nurses are: Miss Forbes, Miss Macdonald, Miss Harcomb, Miss Fortescue and Miss Cameron. They will leave shortly by steamer from Halifax or New York for Liverpool.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MEN.

Dairymen's Association Gives Startling

Whitby, Jan. 9.—The twenty-fifth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association opened yesterday morning. President Derbyshire in his augural address

Derbyshire in his augural additional said:

"We made 2,494,686 boxes of cheese in 1901, valued at $17,500,000.

Of these 400,000 remain on hand. Prices for cheese have not been so high as last season.

"Of creamery butter we made 670,898 packages, valued at $8,000,000.

Of these we have on hand 25,000, and have consumed 200,000.

25,000, and have consumed 200,000 packages.

"The cheese and butter came to $25,000,000, or a gain of $500,000 over 1900. To this we must add our hog products $14,500,000, making 40,000,000 our dairymen have produced in 1901. The future of our business is bright."

He entered a strong plea for improvement all along the line, and was in favor of adding another instructor to the list, making three In_all.

The committees were then appointed.

The committees were then appointed.

Hon. Sydney Fisher summed up the afternoon's work by declaring a competent cheese and butter maker was worth $1,000 to $2,000 a year. In the evening in the Music Hall Mayor Ross welcomed the Association to the town. Hon. John Dryden, W. H. Hoyle, M.P.P., A. Pattullo, M.P.P., and William Ross, M. P., delivered addresses.

Hon. Sydney Fisher delivered an address, in which he attributed the present dangerous condition of cheese to lack of ventilated chambers in vessels, to improperly ventilated railway cars, and to the lack of proper curing houses.

Many Interesting Addresses Delivered at the Sessions Thursday.

Whitby, Ont., Jan. 10.—At the Ontario Dairymen's Convention yesterday, Prof. Van Slyke of the New York State Experiment Station at Geneva, gave an address confirmatory of the theory that the success of the cheese industry in Canada depends on having factories equipped with satisfactory curing roams, capable of keeping the temperature down. Cheese so ripened is better. In the afternoon Prof. Dean gave some startling figures, representing the result of increased milk returns at Guelph. Prof. Fletcher talked on grasses for farm culture.

In the evening C. C. Jones spoke on present day problems in agriculture, holding that honor, fame and omolument were in store for the farmer. Prof. Fletcher, Prof. Dean and Mr. Creelman also spoke.

Miss Wilson and Miss Crabbe of the O. L. C. played and sang. Messrs. Musson and Ross gave a piano duet.

GENUINE IRISH FREIZE.

We have a larger to the lack of destroys and the component of the co G. H. Hopkins.—awaited their keen appetites. The commodious diangroom presented a very pretty appraence, all the table appointments being perfect. Nearly 100 curlers were present, and while the systers and other good things were being disposed of a lively conversation was kept up and imprompture ferences to some of the amusing fractures of the game just concluded at times provoked roars of laughter. It was a joly gathering and one in which may yeld members of the Club scattered or the length and breatth of the Dominion would have participated with pleasure. Curlers are not forgetful of others, however, and it is safe towager that the thoughts of many about the board went out to old comrades.

Arter the banquet a short toast list was honored. President Hopkins, in proposing the first toast, "The King," referred in heapty terms to the lovable and commanding qualities of our gracious soverigh—qualities which, if England became a republic to-morrow, would make of him the first President. "God Save the King," was then sung with right good will and fine offect. President Hopkins, referring to the coension of the gathering, said he considered it his duty, as head of the Club, to afford the members an opportunity to meet in a social yet informal way, occasionally, hence he would propose only a few toasts. The next on the list would arouse the enthusiasm of all—it was 'Success to the Winnipeg Bonspiel Rink." (Loud applause.) All were proud of Skip Plavelle. It was now about ten years since he first visited Winnipeg; he had captured some of the leading prizes after several plucky attempts, and had gone West again after that to show that his aim was sport, not glory alone. There were many good curlers out Wost, but the young men going with Skip Flavelle. inst will be secured, as both parties are alike in their cleavage or this question.

The grand jury afterwards reported upon Judge McIntyre's remarks open this question as follows: Waitstened with special attention to your Honor's very interesting remarks on the question of prolibition, a question which will probably be an issue before the electors in the near future. While we look upon the liquor traffic, and especially the treating system, as perhaps they greatest prevailing curse in this, our fair country, we realize, along with your Honor, the many difficulties that attend this verations problem. Further constitutional questions may arise; the rights and privilegss of private individuals and vested rights have to be considered. While, say, in the crime of stealing, one of the parties is opposed to the transaction, and zealous in bringing that guity party to justice, the buyer and seller of a glass of liquor are both equally agreeable, making detection in all cases much more difficult. This, and the treating of that by the law, as a crime, which is not looked upon as such by individuals, at least in its initial steps, render the passing and the properly enforcing of a prohibitory liquor law, unless backed by the sametion of a large public majority, extremely problematical. We can only hope that time will solve the question satisfactorily and largely remove the many evils that now attend this traffic.

FEWER CHILDREN NEEDED.

Susan Anthony Tays These Should Be Better Taken Care of and Educated Ro hester, Jan. 7.—Commenting on the large decrease in the number of marriages in Rochester in 1901, Miss Susan B. Anthony, the veteran advocate of woman suffrage, who is now nearly eighty-two years of age, said;

"I think one reason for the decrease is the increased intelligence of women. In the old days women were married at the age of sixteen, and until they arrived at forty their one aim seemed to be to give birth to a child every yeard or two. The heydray of their lives was spent in hopeless toil and worry, and they became old long before their time. What this world needs is fewer children and those better taken care of and better born and bred.

"A woman who marries a man and finds that he is a drunkard or a wicked man is committing one of the worst sins against society in she continues to live with that man. One of the greatest crimes is the bringing of children into the world under such circumstances. The woman should get a divorce and see to it that she does not rush into another such alliance."

IT IS AN IMPUDENT FAILURE

What Bi hop Potter of New York Has to Say of Prohibition, to Say of Prohibition.

A New York despotch says: During a discussion of the subject of the opening of Sunday saloons, bafore the Church Club, Bishop Potter said that inasmuch as "the powers that ba" had decided against any change in the existing excise laws of New York State, the subject was academic.

any change in the existing excise laws of New York State, the subject was academic.

Bisl op Potter then went on to describe the law as it exists at present, saying it recognized drunkennoss as a mitigation of crime, and that this attitude of the law was false and vicious. "That was the first blunder that was made," said Bishop Potter. "The next was in the matter of vicious treatment."

John B. Gough always pictured the drunkard the victim, who was not a criminal in getting drunk because he was practically a martyr. That is just as false a sentiment as the other is a false lie, and the whole theory of Mr. Gough's teaching was false and wrong."

Bishop Potter said concerning prohibition: "Wherever it has triumphed it has educated a race of frauds and hyprocrites. In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont to-day, aby actual statistics the consumption of certain preparations is larger than anywhere else in the country. One of these is a sarsaparlla which has 17 per cent. of alcohol; another is a compound with 27 per cent. alcohol; a good claret has 10 per cent. of alcohol, and great multitudes of people who are sworn prohibitionists are the consumers of these things. We are going to persist in this polley, to screw up all the front doors on Sunday and open the back door; we are going to nurse a race of hypocrites to furnish an opportunity to the polled to exact a bonus and to close the door to the manly christian method of dealing with intemperance. "Prohibition is an impudent fraud and an impudent failure."

MILNER SAYS FIGHT

LORD MILNER'S LATEST SPEECH.

Would Not Bring the End of the War Nearer-The Only Way Was the Continual Pressing of the Enemy -Boer Delegates in Holland Changing Their View.

Changing Their View.

London, Jan. 11.—At a local banquet given in Johannesburg Thursday night Lord Miner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, made a long speech on the situation, and expressed his belief that the storm cloud overhanging Africa had burst, that the great cataclysm was now behind instead of before, and then men breathed more freely. After strongly denouncing the tactics of the British pro-Boers, Lord Miner declared:

"The war will end all the sooner if we apply a steady physical pressure without fidgeting about negotiations. It is uscless to threaten and uscless to wheedle. The only thing is imperturbably to squeeze and to keep our elemency and conciliation, both excellent in their proper places, for the Boers who surrender, instead of lavishing it in blandishments upon those who continue the fight."

London, Jan. 11.—James Bryce (Liberal) member of Parliament for Aberdeen, in the course of a speech to his constituents at Aberdeen yesterday, advocated making generous terms with the Boers. He said he was more concerned for the country than for the Liberal party, and would welcome any ministry, however composed, that would conclude an honorable peace. Mr. Bryce believed the country was tired of a ministry which had proved itself incapable of keeping peace or conducting a successful war.

Waiting Her Husbands Fate.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Alice Anthony of San Francisco is at the Auditorium, awaiting the fate of her husband, Dr. R. S. Anthony, who was to have been tried on the charge of high treason Jan. 7 by a a court in the British army in South Africa. Mrs. Anthony came from Washington, where she went to intercede for her husband. There she learned he had been arrested about two months ago on two specific charges, that of furnishing aid and comfort to the enemy and intrigue. Dr. Anthony formerly lived in San Francisco, and was practicing medicine in Cradock, South Africa, when he enlisted in the Boer army. Mrs. Anthony left Cradock with her children last winter and has been living in San Francisco ever since. She has been attempting to enlist the services of this Government in securing the release of her husband.

Barsfooted Beer Stormers.

Durban, Jan. 10.—Private information states that Dewet's surprise of the British at Tweefontein was complete. Leaving 200 men to guard his laager, Dewet headed north with the bulk of his force on a clever feinting movement. Doubling back after dark the Boers climbed barsfooted up the dangerous precipice, upon which Col. Firman's force had pitched its camp, and which was the head of the blockhouse line going to Idehlehum.

Boera Look For Feace.

Amsterdam, Jan. 11.—The Boer delegates in Holland evidently anticipate that some kind of peace overtures will shortly be forthcoming, though they are reticent as to their reasons for this belief. They maintain, however, that the demand for an unconditional surrender must be abandoned. It is privately admitted that none of the delegates will reject what they call "any fair offer of terms."

The municipal elections passed off quietly and the result is apparently satisfactory. We are sorry to hear that diphtheria has again appeared in this vicinity, several cases in one family being reported. Our sympathy is with the afflicted.

Elsie, the little daughter of our genale blacksmith, Mr. Graham, had the misfortune while riding on, a sleighload of bark, to be brushed off one of the runners passing over her leg, crushing and breaking it, in two places. She is improving nicely now. That last snowfall improved the slighing grady and as a result wood and bark are being rushed into the railway-siding here for shipment.

teer Land Grants, and 2,750,000 Have Been Set Aside For Occupancy.

Reen Set Aside For Occupancy.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—At the Legislative Assembly yesterday, a large number of petitions, principally from Methodist churches, were presented, praying for the enactment of a prohibitory liquor law.

Mr. Hoyle introduced a bill to reduce the expenses of the administration of justice.

Mr. Matheson asked what amount was received by the Province during the past year as bonus on timber limit sales, and what amount was still owing on account of bonus on past sales.

Hom. B. J. Davis stated that the amount received was $571,383 and that the sums falling due between the present time and June 20th, amounted to an aggregate of $210,-247.

Mr. Matheson asked how many applications had been received for volunter land grants under the act of last session; how many townships had been set aside for such grants, and what was their total area.

Hon. Mr. Davis replied that about 18,000 applications had been received and that 19 townships had been set aside as open for the location of volunteer land grants, having a total area of 2,750,000 acres. No grants had as yet been located.

The House rose after a sitting lasting about a quarter of an hour.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Jan. 15.—
The Supreme Court yesterday morning delivered judgment as to the validation of the Prohibition Act. The decision arose out of application by Angus McDonald to remove by certiorari a record of a conviction made against him to the Supreme Court on the ground that the Prohibition Act is ultra vires. The judges were unanimous in sustaining the law. McDonald's application was dismissed.

A Prohibition Act on the same lines as the Manitoba Act went into force in the Province of Prince Edward Island last spring. It prohibits the sale of intoxicants within the province, but does not prohibit the importation, so that it does not interfere with Dominion revenues in the same way that it has been declared the Manitoba Act does interfere.

There is a peculiarity, however, about the Prince Edward Island Act. The Scott Act was in force in every county and town of the province, except the city of Charlottevince, except the city of Charlottevine, except the city of Charlottevine except the city of Charlottevine, except the city of Charlottevine except the Farmer Gets Some of It Into a Cut and Blood Poisoning Ensues.

Galt, Jan. 15.—James Keachie, a well-shown farmer who lived near Galt, died Monday as a result of blood poisoning. While working about his barn some days ago he got some particles of an insect powder into a small cut in his lip, and blood poisoning developed shortly afterwards. Mr. Keachie had spent his entire life in this community, and was highly respected by all, A wife and three children survive him. He had recently sold his farm with the intention of removing to this town within a few weeks.

Bought Their Lives For 25.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 15.—Two skaters, Fritz Gartner and Robert Quest, were saved from drowning vesterday by a negro tramp. The pair were gliding over the ice on a creek on the outskirts of the town when they fell through an air hole. Their cries for help attracted the attention of the negro. He grasped a pole and hurried to the edge of the stream. "Gimme $5 and I'll pull you out," he said.

Gorrie Drank Belladonna.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—At 1 o'clock this morning, Louis Gorrie was taken to the Emergency Hospital, suffering from belladonna poisoning. He was unconscious and appeared to be in a critical condition. The usual antidotes were administered, with the result that he recovered somewhat, At 2 o'clock he was still in an unconscious condition. How Gorrie came to take the poison is not definitely known. Gorrie is about 25 years of age and has a wife and one

The entertainment which was to have been given by Miss Pauline Johnston and Mr. McRae in the town hell last Friday night, was postponed owing to the lilness of Miss Johnston. It will be a treat to look forward to yet.

A concert undr the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute will be given in the town hall next month, and here let me say that the town, hall is badly in need of being enlarged or replaced by a new one, as crowds are often turned away for want of seating accommodation.

The Black Knight will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist church next Sabbath morning and evening and will also deliver a lecture Monday night.

The quiet sorenity of our otherwise peaceful community has been much disturbed over our school, and the office of trustee just now is a much sought after position. The large school tax on this section has set hearly all the ratepayers kicking "with both feet" and they are now seeking redress. The annual meeting resulted in the defeat of one of last term's trustees, and now another has been disqualified. This will give some more of the anxious aspirants a chance to try their luck. The retiring trustees have every reason to be congratulated on their choice of a teacher, as Miss O'Brien comes well recommended and is sure to be a success.

(Special to The Post.)

Mr. Sydney Johnston, express messenger on the Hallburton train was presented with the following address, accompanied by a beautifully bound Morece leather Book of Praise, a few nights ago at his home in Hallburton by the members of the Presbyterian church for officiating as organist of that church: To Sydney Johnston, Esq., Dear Sir,—It gives us much pleasure, a few members and friends of the Presbyterian church at Hallburton, to meet with you and Mrs. Johnston in your home to express our hearty thanks to you for the kind and untiling, and cheerful part which you have taken in the worship of our church as organist for a period of over-two and ane hill years. You have been absent so little from the house of God that you are deserving of the highest praise. Had you been paid a salary of $200 or $300 for your services we would from expect you to be at your post of duty. Since your services have been so heartily given without remuneration, we feel that we cannot thouk you sufficiently for your kindness. We would here ask you to accept this Book of Praise as a slight token of our appreciation of your services to our little congregation. The value is as nothing in comparison to the service endered. You have to some extent deprived yourself of the services of your own church in order to aid us in our worship. Had it not been for your kindness we might have been like the children of the Captivity, "we hang our harps on the willow tree," or "Who shall sing us the song of Zion"

We can assure both you and Mrs. Joh: ston that we heartly appreciate the combined service of you and Mrs. Johnston. Time may separate far apart—then may this Book of Praiss be a reminder of the services which you rendered to the congregation of Haliburton. May God long spare you and your partner to sing and play the praises of His sanctuary. When the duties of the day are over you can play "Let me hide myself in Thee," and when life has run its course here may it be your portion to play the golden harp "In the home over there." May God's choleest blessing rest upon you and your household, is the best wish of your many friends.—Signed on behalf of the Haliburton Presbyterian church, A. NIVEN, January 17th, 1902.

OAKWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

We inadvertently, last week, omitted to mention a most enjoyable and social evening spent at the Presbyterian manse Thursday, the event being the welcome of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Webster and his family, to the village by the members of the congregation and asherents. Each section of the pastor's charge was well represented. The evening was spent with music and games until eleven p.m., when all lands adjourned to the dining room, where stemping plates of well-cooked oysters, etc., awaited them, and to which most of them did justice. The party broke up a bout midnight, everybody saying they had spent a most enjoyable evening.

The meeting in the town hall re Beet Sugar Factory as not as largely attended as it ought to have been Messrs. Ellis, Channon and Minthorn were the speakers, the chair being ably filled by Wim. Parkinson, Mr. Channon, we are pleased to notice, is improving very much as a speaker. He gave, in a very lucid and interesting manner, the details of their visit to Michigan, and was able to answer most of the many questions put in a satisfactory manner. We understand thirty-two acres were subscribed for, 10 of which were taken by Mr. Parkinson. The baket social to be held by the Foresters of this place will be celebrated at the residence of Donald A. Anderson, 12th concession of Mariposa, on Friday evening, Jun. 31st. Everybody is extended a kind invitation, and from all accounts we believe mearly everybody is going. It is with deep regret that we chronicle the death of Richard Cruess, a resident of the 12th concession. He was taken away in the prime of life, being only thirty-nine years of age. He leaves a young wicow and family to mourners and sympathizing friends.

(Special to The Post.)

A deep gloom of sadness pervades our community. Our highly esteemed and beloved neighbor, Mr. Richard Cruess, passed pencefully away on Monday, Jan. 20th. For several months his health had been failing and though loving friends and skilful physicians did their best, the hand of disease was not stayed. He bore his sufferings patiently, ever willing to submit to the Divine Will. Influences have gone out from the sick room that will neven be forgotten. His short life was spent in this neighborhood. He took a deep interest in the good of the community as well as that of his home. For many years he was a faithful worker in the Sabbath School. A large concourse of relations and friends followed his remains to the Friends cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. G. R. Clare, assisted by Mr. Benjamin Hancock His sorrowing wife, children, aged mother and relatives have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood.

NO MORE BILLBOARD ADVER-TISING.

Take Space in Papers

Mr. M. C. Dickson, the popular District Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, told a Toronto reporter the other day that the Company were increasing their newspaper advertising, as they found it the most profitable.

It is also understood that in 1902 all railroads will cut down on back fence and billboard advertising and expand the amount saved and more explain the amount saved and more in taking more space in daily and weekly publications and periodicals. Advertising is becoming a sort of exact science with the railroading has reached the advertising department and yet the appropriations for ment and yet the appropriations for the department are being constant-ly increased. This means that more care will be taken, said a railroad man yesterlay, in selecting advertis-

There's a lesson in this for business men generally. Some mer-chants say they derive no results from advertising—nine times out of from advertising—nine times out of ten it will be found that they squan-der their good money on announce-ments in hotel registers and any old scheme presented by a gilb-tongued fakir. One-half the sum thrown away yearly on these moss-grown methods would pay for a good sized advertisement in the local papers going into the homes where the buying is planned before the trip to town is made.

Having seen the ladies safe in the hause Jack sives them a few di-attention to them so long as they saint ter about.

Hence Jack is too wise to rush along. no matter what eagerness he may be restraining, but makes up for this by peristence, so that he gets there all the same.

Leaving Pera, he makes enquiries, and finally enters the shop of an armorer in a bazaar. The man looks at him closely, gives a cry of "Allah is great! it is my master," and kisses his hand impulsively.

This Turk is a man whom Dector Jack has made his slave—when here before, circumstances allowed him to do Achmed a great favour, and the man fairly worships the ground he walks on.

Jack needs him now—be tells him what the rick is, but the man shrugs his shoulders. His life would have been taken before but for Jack, and he is quite willing to jeopardize it now, if by so doing he may prove his gratitude.

Such words please the American, and he knows Achmed means it, too. He will do whatever he is told to the best of his ability.

Jack becomes more positive in his belief that if Aleck is alive they will save him. He is very dogged in his way, and having set his course, will sail it until the mest is blown out, before changing.

He gives the Turkish armorer certain work to do, and declares that he will return to the shop to hear his report at dusk. Achmed knows where Abdallah Pasha has his residence—just outside of the great city, and overlooking the blue Gosphorus—one of the loveliest sites the human mind could conceive. His grounds are noted for their magnificence. Certain European friends of the Pasha, who have travelled a great deal, have seen and admired the palace and its surroundings, but none of them have, with the owner's consent, ever set eyes on the interior of the harem or the seraglio, where the beautiful houris of the Origen pass their life of luxury.

Achmed has a hard task before him, but he is more than ordinarily shrewd for a Turk. It was from him Jack got his hint that his friend Aleck had not been killed, but was a prisoner in the Turk's palace, and he is now sent out, well supplied with possible. Jack asks more questions, makes an appointment, and hurries away.

He hies himself to the home of the American minister—it is possible that this gentleman may interfere and save Aleck, for no matter what his offence has been, he is an American citizen, and entitled to the protection of his flag.

The fates are against him. He finds that the minister, together with the British ambassador, has gone off for a cruise on a new vessel that has just been built for the antiquated Turkish navy.

"When will he be back?"

"With rare good luck, if the engines do not break down, in a day or so, but," with a shrug, "we always allow for accidents in Stamboul."

Just so, and this sets Doctor Jack back a peg or two in his calculations. He remembers the Quinnebaug, the old style American man-of-war, then in port, and wonders if her captain dares to assist him, shakes his head, grinds his teeth together, and says, emphatically:—

"Before I could set the wheels go-emphatically:—

"Before I could set the wheels going he would be here—no, I see very plainly this good arm alone stands between Aleck and death."

CHAPTER XX.

CHAPTER XX.

If ever Doctor Jack was aroused in all his life, he certainly is now—a lion at bay could not exhibit more animation, for success or failure means much to him. There are rare qualities about this man that make him an enemy to be feared—his usually quiet manner can be thrown off, and a flerce aggressiveness takes its place. Passing along through the streets he heads toward the bazaar. Crowds jostle him—they are composed of representatives of many nations—Circassians, Arabs, Russians, Jews, negroes, Greeks, Armenians added to the Turks themselves, Servians, and natives of Monteagero—each in his national costume, make a spectacle not to be found elsewhere upon the globe. Looking neither to the right nor left, Jack more than once stumbles over some mangy cur, of which millions, one coulo almost say, roam the crocked thoroughfaires and alleys of old Stamboul, where day and night magnificence and squalor go hand in band.

A pilgrim with a camel, direct from Egypt or perhaps Persia, adds to the lah!" and witness their contortions.

His attention is attracted by the loud voices of a band of howling dervishes in the mosque, and he glances in for a moment to hear their continual shouts of "La illa ha illa Allah!" and witness their contortions.

Jack is no stranger to the sight. He has looked upon dervishes of all grades, from the dancers of Stamboul to those of the singing tribe, who take the place of our "little German band" in Persian cities.

Turning back, he is soon in the bazar—it is less crowded now, but Achmed is there, waiting, ready to lead the daring American to the prison of his friend, no matter what the dance.

Gentlemen: I write the stestimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many ethers, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 180th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully,

Dr. TAFT Bros. Medicine Co.

PLACE BLAME ON FARMERS

Poor Cheise Due to Quality of the Milk-An Effort to be Made to Over come his Difficulty Which is Costly.

(Toronto Star, Friday.) Mr. Geo, C. Creelman, superinten-dent of Farmers' Institutes, is home to-day from attending the Western tend of radmers institutes, is shown to day from attending the Western Dairymen's Association at Woodstock, where he says the prevailing tone was one of regret at the failing off in the quality of Canadian cheese and the consequent decline in prices in the British market. Formerly the trouble was attributed to the lack of competitent makers. Now the dairy schools at Strathroy, Guelph and Kingston have remedied this evil. The difficulty now is that the farmers do not supply in all cases, clean, sweet milk, and the poor quality of cheese, Mr. Creelman thinks, is thus caused.

The Dairymen's Association and the Farmers' Institutes will unite in organizing dairy unstitutes all over the province, which will be of service in instructing the farmers in proper methods.

Mr. Daniel Derbyshire was at the parliament buildings this morning, arranging for the establishment of such institutions in Eastern Ontario.

THE HAPPY FARMER.

Oh the happy, happy farmer, who lives a few On the happy, happy farmer, who lives a few miles from town,
Has no furnace in the basement that must now be shaken down;
He doesn't have to hurry out to catch the train and then Work behind a deak and worry as the slave of other men;
No superior berates him for the small miss takes hem kes,
He is not denied employment for some little rule he breaks,
And he needn't, when he's weary from the duties of the day,
Hurry to some distant station, dodging footpads on the way.

Oh the happy, happy farmer, he just hustles out of bed
And goes shivering for the kindling, which he chops out in the shed;
Then, while maw is getting breakfast, he runs cut to milk the o.ws,
And to pry the frozen hay up from dusty, musty mows;

Oh, he milks away at Bossy and his handare cracked and sore,
But he thinks with kindly pity of the pale clerk in the store,
And he curries down the horses and, at last, all hairy, goes
In to breakfast with the odor of the stable in his nose.

Oh the happy, happy farmer, what a careless life be leads! Instead of always buying, he just raises what he needs; His neighbors don't ignore him if he's not

His neighbors don't ignore him if he's not as rich as they,
And all he has to do is work to keep the old gray wolves away.
The coal man and the plumber never crowd him to the wall;
He just keeps forever paying for farm implements, that's all;
And absight he needr't dress and blow three dollars for the treat
Of beholding a performance that's worth fifty cents a seat.

They Swapped Horses.

A complicated case has arisen out of a local horse trade. At the beginning of the week Hilliard Armstrong and Daniel Stinweek Hilliard Armstrong and Dapiel Stinson swapped animals, the latter receiving a small amount of cash as boot in the deal. On Thursday morning, when Armstrong went to his stable, he found the Stinson horse gone and the one he used to own in its place. Later he discovered that Dan Stinson had the missing animal, and now there is going to be some fun [in the police court over the matter. It looks as if another Daniel may come to judgment, as the boot money was not returned.

Private Letter.
Fenced by your careful fathers, ringed by your leaden seas,
Long did ye wake in quiet, and long lie down at case;
Till ye said of Strife; "What is it?" Of the Sword; "It is far from ken;"
Till ye made a sport of your shrunken hosts and a toy of your armed men, Ye stopped your care to the warning—yo would naither look nor heed—
Ye set your leisure before their toil, and your lusts before their needs. Because of your witless learning and your beasts of warren and chase. Ye grudged your sons for their service and your fields for their camping-place.

Ye for ed them glean in the highways the straw for the bricks they brought; Ye forced them to follow in byeways the craft that ye never taught. Ye hindered and hampered and crippled; ye thrust out of sight and away. Those that would serve you for honor and those that would serve you for pay.

Then were the Judgments loosened; then was your shame revealed, At the hands of a little people, few but apt in the field.

Yet ye were saved by a remnant (and your land's long-suffering Star), When your strong men cheered in mill lons while your striplings went to the war, Sons of the sheltered city-unmade, urhandled, unmeet-Ye pushed them raw to the battle as ye picked them raw from the street, And what did ye look they should compass! War-craft learned in a breath? Knowledge unto occasion at the first far view of death?

So! And ya train your horses and the doys ye feed and prize. How are the beasts more worthy than the souls you sacrifice? But ye said: "Their valor shall show them;" but ye said: "The end is

And ye sent them comfits and pictures to help them harry your foes. And ye sant tight countries power and ye flaunted your fron pride Erc—ye fawned on the Younger Nations for the men who could shoot

Then ye returned to your trinkets; then we contented your souls

With the flanneled fools at the wicket or the middled oafs at the goals.

Given to strong delusion, wholly believing a lie,

Ya saw that the land lay fenceless and ye let the months go by,

Walting some easy wonder; hoping some saving sign—

Idle—openly idle—in the lee of the forespent Line.

Idle—except for your boasting, and what is your boasting worth

Clearsed of service panic slow to dread or despise, Humble because of knowledge; mighty by sacrifice.

But ye say: "It will mar our comfort." Ye say; "It will minish our trade." Do ye wait for the spattered shrapnel ere ye learn how a gun is laid? For the low red glare to southward when the raided coast towns burn? (Light ye shall have on that lesson, but little time to learn.) Will ye pitch some white pavillon; and lustly even the odds with nets and hoops and mallets; with racquets and bats and rods Will the rabbit war with your formen—the rad deer horn them for hire? Will your workmen issue a mandate to bid them strike no more? Will ye rise and dethrone your rulers? (Because ye were idle both, Iride by insolence chastened? Indolence purged by sloth?) No doubt but ye are the people; who shall make you afraid? Also your gods are many; no doubt but your gods shall aid.
Idols of greasy altars built for the spirit's ease;
Froud little brazen Baals and talking fetishes; Tronghs of sept and party and wise wood-payement gods— These shall come down to the battle and snat h you from under the rods? These shall come down to the pattle and shat a you from under the rods? From the gusty flickering gun roll with viewless salvoes rent, and the pitted hall of the bullets that tell not whence they were sent, when ye are ringed as with iron, when ye are scourged as with whips, when the meat is yet in your belly and the boast is yet on your lips; when ye go forth at morning and the noor beholds you broke—

Ere ye lie down at even, your remnant under the yoke,
No doubt but ye are the people—absolute, strong and wise;

Canada's Prosperity.

Mr. Byron Walker, General Man-ager of the Bank of Commerce, is not of the opinion that Canada's prosperity is dependent upon the adversity of other countries. While pointing out that Canada is getting into shope to add iron and stael and cont to the list of her exports, he calls attention to the fact that in Germany and elsewhere there have been serious industrial collapses, thus restricting the market from American products. He does not believe any country can permanently export more than it imports, and he adds that "the prosperity of Europe, while not necessary for our prosperity is necessary for an unchecked course of increased production and increased prices." noit of the opinion that Canada's

The expense will be large to construct these troughs, but the Grand Trunk is to be made the equal of any road on the continent. It is understood the Chicago Great Wester will construct these at once. They will be 1,600 feet long and a scoop lowered by the fireman will gather up 6,900 gallons of water if necessary. In winter steam jets will be interjected into the troughs at certain points to keep the water from freezing.

Scrofula

What is commonly inherited is not scrofula but the scrofulous disposition.

This is generally and chiefly indicated by cutaneous eruptions; sometimes by paleness, nervousness and general debility.

The disease afflicted Mrs. K. T. Snyder, Union St., Troy, Ohio, when she was eighteen years old, manifesting itself by a bunch in her neck, which caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore.

It afflicted the daughter of Mrs. J. H. Jones, Parker City, Ind., when 13 years old, and developed as rapidly that when she was 18 she had eleven running sores on her neck and about her ears.

These sufferers were not benefited by professional treatment, but, as they voluntarily say, were completely cured by

"According to trustworthy infors" mation, Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch Premier, recently intimated to the Boer delegates the desirability, in view of Lord Rosebery's speech at Chesterfield of their giving some intimation to the British Government of the basis upon which they would entertain peace negotiations.

"Dr. Kuyper pointed out the improbability of any of the great powers intervening in South Africa in the near future and suggested that he be allowed informally to sound his friends in London, in the hope of a somi-official response.

"The Dutch Premier accordingly met Abraham Fischer, the leader of the Boer delegates, and others at Brussels, where a long conference was held, after which Dr. Kuyper proceeded to London. The result of his visit, if any has been attained, its not yet known.

"It is understood that Dr. Kuyper distinctly assured the Boers that Holland, under no circumstances, would act as an intermediary.

Lord Kitchener emphatically denies Commandant Schalkburger's charges of forcible removal and exposure of pregnant women, and other accusations of rough and cruel treatment, and says:

London, Jan. 18.—In the House of Commons yesterday A. J. Balfour, Government lender, said that Germany had not asked for assurances in regard to reference by Von Buelow to utterances of Mr. Chamberlain at Edinburgh. Lord Lansdowne, in unofficial conversation, said it had been prointed out to the German Ambassador that Mr. Chamberlain made no charges of barbarity against the German army.

Mr. Balfour said Colonel Lynch, M.P. for Galway, would be arrested immediately after landing on British soil.

CRUELTY CHARGES REFUTED BUDGET FOR NEXT WEDNESDAY

Betha Much to Blame-Kitchener's Mag- An Interim Vote of $450,000 Passed by the Legislature-Estimates May Bo Down Monday, If Not, Budge Till Thursday-Some Proposed Bids.

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Yesterday's session of the Legislature was brief and developed no business of great importance. The estimates, in skeleton form, were laid, on the table, and Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a measure to amend the jurors act. The bill contains some of the clauses of his reform measure of last session, which was not then passed. Forty petitions from individual Methodist churches and from circuits of the same body, asking for a prohibitory liquor law, were presented. Before the session closed, the Premier said he hoped the estimates and the public accounts would be laid on the table on Monday, in which even he would deliver the budget speech on Wednesday. If they were not presented on Monday the budget would not be held until Thursday.

they were not presented on Monday the budget would not be held until Thursday.

A vote of credit of $450,000 was passed for current expenditure until the estimates are passed. The amount is made up of the following items: Civil government $50,000; legislation, $65,000; administration of justice, $50,000; deucation, $50,000; maintenance of public institutions, $10,000; agriculture, $20,000; repairs and maintenance of public buildings, $10,000; hanges on Crown Lands, $20,000; miscellaneous $65,000.

The Attorney-General introduced a bill to amend the jurors act. It provides that the county selectors of jurors may determine that the county court shall sit at the same time as the High Court, and that the same set of jorors may be used at both courts. It also provides that clerks of courts may, if there is no business for the courts, give the sheriff five days' notice to that effect, and the sheriff in turn shall notify the jurors not to attend. No fees or mileage is to be allowed to jurors who attend after having received notice not to do so, but any juror who might attend in good faith and not having been notified to the contrary, will be allowed pay for one day only.

faith and not have to the contrary, will be allowed posterior one day only.

A bill will be introduced by Mr.
Lee (East Kent) to amend the election act by providing that mariners and trainmen may one where they have resided for two days prior to the elections. Mr. Lee's object, he says, is to prevent managers, etc., of companies from depriving their employes of a vote should they differ from them politically, by send ing them away on the day of the contract

He cried, and then he started out
To show us how to skate.

He made a bold and rapid atroke,
His arms spread parallel,
And then his feet went in the air
And with an awful yell
He fell kerplunk down on the ice,
And cracked it far and wide;
And bruised himself from head to foot
Until he nearly died.

We carried him into the house,
And laid him on his bed,

My father faintly said.
The doctor came with pills and squills,
And looked both great and wise;
And said my father's case was one
Of too much exercise.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION.

Much has been said and wifted both for and against prohibition since the Imperial Privy Council handed out its decision that the Man-Sitoba Act was intra vires. There be ing a very strong temperance sentiment in Ontario, as disclosed by the Dominion Plebiscite taken a couple of years ago, it is but natural that the Manitoban attempt to limit the traffic in intoxicants should have traffic in intoxicants should have had the effect of infusing new vigor into the friends of temperance in this province. Some of the leaders in the cause have taken the bold stand that Premier Ross and his government are in duty bound to pass prohibitory legislation on the strength of the expressions of opinion already secured from the people, but the concensus of opinion of leaders in the religious press and in the denominational educational institutions is in favor of a referenstitutions is in favor of a referen-dum on the prohibition question and the recording of not less than one-half of the total vote favorable to the measure before it becomes law.

The Westminster, the high-class Presbyterian weekly published in Toronto, has from the outset been a warm advocate of a referendum, and it has declared itself strongly in favor of having two-thirds of the full number of votes polled, or one-half of the total vote cast for prohibition before such act becomes law.

"Nothingwithstanding all that has been said about the decisive character of the plebiscite on the abstract ter of the plebiscite on the abstract question of prohibition," says the Westminster, "it remains quite true that Ontario has never yet pronounced in favor, of the partial and qualified prohibitory law which it is within the power of the Ontario legislature to enact. It should be distinctly understood that the best the Provincial government can do the Provincial government can do will not prohibit manufacture, ex-portation and importation for priv-ate use within the province. Such prohibition is surely prohibition with prohibition is surely prohibition with a handleap, and not a few parment temperance people do not greatly care for such a partial measure. More than that, not a few prohibitionists would not favor such legislation unless it could be shown that the sentiment of the province is positively and conscientiously in its favor. Sumptuary legislation is not like a financial by-law or a sugar best or pulpwood amendment; and its enforcement would be disastrous if not impossible, without the support of the enlightened public opinion." It refers to the opinions of the leading men given in that week's issue, and continues: "Their judgment is distinctly against enacting such legislation on a bare majority of the votes polled. So far as we have been able to ascertain the opinion of all who have seriously faced the question, as it now presents itself in Ontario, except the most extreme prohibitionists, is in line with that judgment Unless Outario can poll more than 250,000 votes in favor of prohibitionists, is in line with that judgment Would not be morally salutary. Such is the deliberate opinion of men whose judgment is not warped by prejudice or party."

Principal Caven, of Knox College, favors a three-fifths vote. "I am quite aware that in making by prejudice or party."

Principal Caven, of Knox College, favors a three-fifths vote. "I am quite aware that in making by such steps of the people of Ontario should be sustained by such steps of the people of Ontario should vote for prohibition it would be perilous to enact aprohibitory law-perilous to the haracter in question and the action of the character in question of the character in suffering the proposition of the says.

Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria, favors a referendum. "The referendum to be satisfactory should first of all call out a substantial vote, say two-thirds of all the voters, and there for the large unmber of voters who, through indifference, fill not go to the polls.

have more faith in education and in the power of the gospel of Christ than in prohibitory legislation. Mere prohibition will not of itself effect radical reformation."

Rev. Dr. Potts writes; "Prohibitory legislation is not like any other kind of legislation, and it is of the first importance that it be supported by a very decided public opinion. I would regard prohibitory legislation on a bare majority vote as demoralizing to the temperance causs in Ontario. In the event of a referendum the highest interests of temperance would, in my ludgment, by best served by requiring from sixty to seventy per cent of the votes polled, as a condition of such legislation being made law." Ray. Dr. Warden's opinion is that, "should the government decide on the referendum there eaght, in my judgment, to be in fayor of prohibition at least two-thirds should constitute considerably more than 50 per cent, of the votes of the province. To be effective, a law must accord with the conscience of the people; otherwise its violation will almost certainly be winked at, and law itself brought into disrepute."

The actitude of the Anglican church as a body or the prohibition question is fairly put forth by the Church Record, in the following paragraph; "We will say frankly that we rather dread a revival of political agitation on the question of prohibition. The temperance cause is making rapid progress in this country. In the rural districts a dranken man is a much raree spectacle than twenty years ago. Our young men are for the most part sober, and they leave drink alone, not because the civil law, says they must, but because a deeper law of well-being is freely accepted by them. At the recent medical banquet in the University of Toronto, by general consent of professors and students, no intoxicating liquors were served. Those who can remember the scenes of such banquets a quarte of a century ago may well thank God and take courage."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The government has on file 18,-000 applications from old soldiers for land in northern Ontario. A few years will witness a great development in that part of our province.

An anti-flirtation bill has been in-troduced into the New York legisla-ture. It will only apply to bachelors, as married men never do such things as flirt. Ladies are probably ex-empt under the bill.

If the U.S. congress decides to give ex-presidents a salary of $25.000 a year, perhaps more of them will live to enjoy it. At present there is only one American citizen who, having received the highest gift in the nation, finds anything else worth living for.

Contracts have been let for the wheel pit and tunnel tall race for the development of Nlagara Falls power on the Canadian side. It will take two years to complete the works. The promoters still talk of conveying the current to Toronto by the land route.

If that New York scheme to secure a speed of 30 knots are hour across the Atlantic, by the use of furbine engines, operates successfully, Canada is to be congratulated on not having tied herself up to a bargain to pay $750,000 a year as a subsidy for a 20-knot service. People in a hurry to get across the pond would still go via New York for a speed of 30 knots on the northerly route would be a little risky in the iceberg season.

A false report led to the very general belief that Lord Dufferin had pressed away. The regret'ul remarks which were made in the press and elsewhere indicate that the memory of Lord Dufferin's regime in Canada is still fresh in public memory. He graced his office both as a gentleman and a statesman, and it is no reflection on any other occupant to say he was the most popular representative the Crown has ever sent to the Dominion.

The Watchman-Warder man is still sore because the electors ignored his choice oterie of municipal candidates and placed The Post nominees dates and placed The Post nominees in office. Because of that lingaring irritation he attempts to poke fun at us on the strength of the heading. "New Election Sure," placed over our report of the inaugural meeting of the Town Council. That the obstuseness displayed by our cotem during the contest is our cotem during the contest is not yet dispelled is made painfully evident by this attempt to prove inconsistency on our part. Any person gifted with ordinary horse sense could see that the headline in question had reference to Mr. Sincilair's conversation with our reporter, in which he stated that his object in "disclaiming" instead of resigning his seat was to compal a election.

TOWN SOLICITOR HOPKINS'

He Holds that the Re-elected Members of Last Year's Council are not Disqualified.

Dear Sir,—I have considered the question of the deadings with the Sinking Fund, which, I understand it is alleged disqualifies you and others members of the Council, and am of the opinion that you are not in any way disqualified. The statute, see, 418, sub-section 3, provides that in the eyept of the Council of a municipality diverting any sinking fund for current or other expenditure, the members who vote for the same shall be disqualified for two years. Now, in order to bring any member within this section it is necessary to prove that he voted for diverting some sinking fund for current or other expenditure; not that he voted for investing it improperly, but thist ha voted for unserting it improperly, but thist ha voted for investing it improperly, but thist ha voted for investing it improperly, but thist ha voted for unserting part in an improper investment is an entirely different matter, and is provided for by section 425 which provides that any member so doing shall be personally liable for any loss and that is the only penalty provided. It does not provide for disqualification, and simply means that if a member is liable for, the loss, but of there is no loss there is no penalty. Now, the facts, as I understand them, are: the town owned two mortgages, amounting to $900.80, bearing interest at 6 per cent. on town property, given in part payment for Queen's Square. Those were considered or treated as part of a Park Fund, but under what anthority I am not aware. But not being immediately required for park purpose, and money being urgently required for extensions to the Waterworks to Ridder & Kitchiener, The Rathbun Co., and R. M. Beal Leather Co., the Council of 1900 (not 1901) decided to dispose of these mortgages and lond the money to the Water Commissioners for that purpose. At the same time the town had on hand considerable money belonging to the livestment of the Sinking Fund deposited in the bank, bearing litterest at 3 per cent. Now, strictly speaking, the statute required to the sum of the provider the town is beyond my comprehension. Were the Council to-morrow, to lend part of the, Sinking Fund on a town property, that would not disqualify them, and this is all that transaction amounted to. The only thing done by the Council of 1901 was to pass a resolution on August 19th, which is verbatim as follows; Cash on hand January 1st, 1901, $110.24; cash received on April 12th, 1901, on account of principul of Corporation Mortgage No. 2, $50.00; and proceeds of Corporation Mortgages 1 and 2 transferred to the Collegiate Institute Sinking Fund account and the proceeds advanced to the Board of Water Commissioners and by them refunded to this Corporation, $960,80, be and the same is hereby set apart as a Park Improvement Fund, and that all expenditures for Park Improvement during the present year be charged to the said Fund."—Carried.

I understand this resolution was prepared by the Auditor, who asked to have it passed as a matter of form, and the question is: Did they (the Council) thereby vote for the divarting of the Sinking Fund for current or other expenditure? The resolution does not say so, and I do not see how such a construction can be put upon the same. All that the resolution says is that a certain sum of $1,127.04, made up of $110.24 cash on hand, and $960.80 received from Water Commissioners, be set apart as a Park Fund. This appears to me to be quite proper. Certain mortgages belonging to the Park Fund had been done allopsoed of by the Council of 1900 and ioaned to the Water Commissioners to When the amount was repaid by the Water Commissioners to she taking of any money from the Sinking Fund. That has been dove long before under the by-law passed ir December, 1900, and no authority for it was required, and if there was the resolution does not profess to give it, but only recites that it had been done, shewing the reason for putting the money received from the Water Commissioners to the Park Fund. And as it is only by voting for a resolution, to have resolution rot only does not, but does not profes

WILL NOT BE A NEW ELEC-TION" SAYS TOWN SOLI-CITOR HOPKINS.

Mr. W. M. Robson Entitled to the Vacant Seat.

Town Solicitor Hopkins holds that Mr. Dougall Sinclair and his advisers are mistaken in stating that the effect of his disclaimer is to cause a new election. On the contrary he says the statute expressly provides (sec. 241) that the candidate having the next highest number of votes shall then become the member elected and therefore Mr. W. M. Robson s now entitled to take his seat PART OF A TREE FELL ON HIM.

Ante-Nuptial Reception.

One of the most interesting of the season's event took place last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and ars. W. B. Graham, Maple Avenue Farm, Ops, to welcome home Mr. W. Bertram Graham and his bride, for-merly Miss Mabel B. Webster, Oak-wood. The bride was charmingly gowned in rich black silk, with whita Graham, Maple Avenue gowned in rich black slik, with whita satin and white applique trimmings. The music, refreshments and decorations were quite au fait. Only the immediate friends were present, numbering about thirty. After spending some time in wishing the young couple a pleasant journey through life and other expressions of good will, Mr. W. B. Graham read a congratulatory letter which he had received for Mr. and Mrs. W. Bertram Graham—during their absence—from Mr. S. Fox, Mr.P., accompanied by a complimentary present, from the fluous of Legislature. The groom made a very suitable reply, in a few well-chosen words networkedging the gift. The guests were charmed with the cordial and graceful hospitality of the host and hostess and the opportunity afforded them of enjoying so perfect a social evening.

FR. PAELAN LEAVES

Express their Regret. TANGIBLE EVIDENCES OF THE PEOPLE'S APPRECIATION.

The Rev. Gentleman Presented with Three Addresses, a Purse of Gold a Secretary and Chair and Other Valuable and Substantial Gifts Prior to His Departure—Hearty, but Treaful Good-byes at the Station.

The good people of St. Mary's Par-The good people of St. Mary's Par-lsh have been sorely tried of late in having to endure the severance of cherished relations with two be-loved priests. Barely three months ago Rev. Father Phelan, who had ably assisted the late Mgr. Laurent in ministering to the spiritual and other needs of the congregation— one of the largest in contains one of the largest in Ontarlo-was called by His Lordship Bishop O'Don nor, to labor elsewhere, and his de-parture was made the occasion of a remarkable demonstration of fection and regard by the parish-loners, who during the four years of his stay in their midst had grown to love him with a strength only, in-ferior to that of the bond exist-ing between the people and their ing between the people and their long faithful pastor and advisor, Mgr. Laurent. long faithful pastor and advisor, Mgr. Laurent.

Little did those who participated in that sad leave-taking think that in a few short months Rev. Fr. Phale on would again be in their midst to assuage the deep grief aroused by the saddest occurrence since the passing away of Father Stafford, the death of the good Mgr. Laurent. Bishop O'Connor, knowing the tender relations that had existed between Fr. Phelan and the congregation again transferred him to Lindsay to administer the affairs of the parish pending the selection of a permanort pastor. The Bishop's cloice was a wise one, Fr. Phelan being peculiarly fitted for the charge by reason of his knowledge of the parish affairs, the deep-rooted and tender friendship that had existed between Mgr. Laurent and himself, and also because his generous, sympathetic nature over responded readily to sorrow with gentle and reassuring words. It was but natural perhaps, that the congregation should cherish the hope that Bishop O'Connor might see his way clear to permit Fr. Phelan to remain in Lindsay, but the practice of the Roman Catholic church is to make young priests earn promotion by earnest, self-denying and trying labors in smaller and more scattered parishes, and as this rule is well-known no surprise was expressed when the amouncement was made ten days ago (that Fr. Phelan had been transferred to the parish of Young's Point, where Fr. Fitzpatrick has labored for some years.

The Parish Hall Gathering.

When the news was made public the members of the congregation held a meeting, and resolved to again mark in a fitting manner their high appreciation of Fr. Phelan's performance of his priestly duties and his good qualities as a man. The plans culminated on the 15th inst., when at Parish Hall Fr. Phelan was made the recipient of several addresses, a purse containing $90 in gold from the ladies and a handsome oak secretary and chair from the men of the parish. This Parish Hall was crowded to the doors, between two and three hundred parishioners and a number of Fr. Phelan's Protestant releads being present when Mr. A. P. Deviln, chairman, called the gathering to order. Mr. W. E. Cain, Headmaster of the Separate School, read the following address:

To the Rev Father Phelan, on the cocasion of his departure from Lindsay after over four years of Foithful Service:

Rev. and Dear Father.—There are cocasions in the life of men when

Since the death of the universally tamented Monsignor Laurent you have administered the parish with such tact and holy zeal that you have more than ever endeared yourself to the hearts of your sorrowstricken brethren.

You have continually urged the success of all undertakings profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction and for instruction in rightconess.

In the nobler spheres of sentiment and thought your feelings have always found expression in the highest and noblest language, giving to us that pleasure of conscience, peace and happiness. Your lofty interpid and inflexible spirit, combined with your sincereity, sanctity and zeal for the interests of religion, preach to us an eloquent sermon, while your bright and serene face, your temper and deportment, so suitable to your weighty charge and to the great purpose for which God continues you in the world, gains for you in Lindsay, as it will elsewhere, everlasting veneration and imperishable renown.

The summons has come and you have answered. We are delighted to know that His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, that prided prelate, ever amerileg in his ludgment, recognizes in you those marked qualities that will be so much in keeping with the functions of your important mission.

will be so much in keeping with the functions of your important mission.

From the depths of our hearts we are sorry to lose you, yot that sorrow is somewhat lessened when we know that your leaving means the acceptance of a higher and more important ecclesiastical responsibility, at which promotion we desire to congratulate you and in which translation we earnestly wish you health and happiness. We feet that we would be failing in our christian duty if we did not testify in some simple manner our deep love and admiration for you.

We therefore ask you to accept these small tokens, which when you gaze upon them, you may associate with the male members of the parish of Lindsay to whom you have devoted such faithful services and upon whose hearts your name has been indelibilized.

If hope and imagination can be engaged on Reason's side we freely paint for you the prospects of future good in nourishing and mulataining the divine life of man.

You may always rest in the assurance that our sentiments concerning your noble qualities will be re-echiced by the expression of the thought in the couplet.

We ask those books to speak sublime The thoughts we fain would tell; May they remind you of the time When Mar,'s children bade "Farewell". When Mar, 's children bade "Farewell".

The ladies of St. Joseph's Couvent also contributed to the many expressions of good will by presenting to their spiritual adviser a set of magnificently embroidered altar cloths for the church at Young's Point, and several members of the congregation, who wish their, names withheld, manifested their exteem for their departing pastor by asking his acceptance of substantial sums for use in his new parish.

The Lagra-Taking

To Rev. C. J. Phelan:

The glad New Year is scarce e'en here, Ere clouds of darkness gather; And softly falls love's silent tear, When parting from our Father.

Yet, Father dear, e'en though we part, Those o oude have silver lining; You've banished darkness from each heart, And left therein sun spining

Your lessons kind, and good, and true, Will speak "forget-me-not" In hearts which e'er will keep for you One sacred, treasured spot.

The Leave-Taking. The Leave-Taking.

Fr. Phelan left town Thursday morning at 11 o'clock for Peterboro, and was attended to the station by a large number of parishioners.

The leave-taking was hearty and affecting.

INTERPROVINCIAL TRADE IN

Some Interesting Fact. About the Trade Between Eastern and Western Canada.

Trade in live stock between Eastern and Western Canada has been growing rapidly within the last few years. This increase of trade has been promoted, and in fact made possible, by the wise and generous treatment of the C.P.R. During the month of December and the first eight days in January, forty-six cars of grade and pure-bred cattle were month of December and the first sight days in January, forty-six cars of grade and pure-bred cattle were shipped from Eastern Canada to British Columbia. These cars contained 2,223 head, and cost in the cast somthing over $30,000.00. Besides these, a considerable number have recently been sent to the North-west Territories, and orders are now in hand for additional shipments to be made to the last mentioned Territory. In order to promote this trade, which has proved very profitable in many districts in Eastern Canada, farmers should use first-class Shorthorn bulls. By careful selection and wise treatment females sired by such bulls will prove excellent dairy cows.

It is a noticeable fact that seventenths of the stock last of hardy purposes in Great Britain are Shorthorns and Shorthorn grades. Probably the most suitable dairy cow for the average farmer is a Shorthorn-Ayrshire cross. Steers whose dams are strong grade Ayrshire cows if got by a Shorthorn bull prove excellent feeders and very desirable shipping cattle. As dairy animals there are none, in the bands of the general farmer that will excel the Shorthorn-Ayrshire cross.

MR. PENSE NOMINATED.

Legislature-An Enthusiastic and United Convention—Mr. Pense Accepts.

Kingston, Jan. 21.—The Liberals, amid marked enthusiasm and at a gathering remarkable for its numbers and fervor, last night nominated Mr. Edward J. B. Pense as their standard-bearer for the Ontarta Legislature. Mr. Pense is the proprietor of The Whig, a stalwart Liberal, a loyal Kingstonian, and a man of fine personality. The Liberals feel they have a strong man in Mr. Pense. The convention met in The Whig Hall under the presidency of Mr. John McKelvey, who urged that a strong man be selected to aid I remier Ross in the Legislature. He asked the opinion of the meeting, whether it desired to have an open nomination or to act through delegates. With one voice an open nomination was agreed to. Ald. J. M. Farrell, in graceful and eloquent terms, placed the name of Mr. E. J. B. Pense before the meeting, dwelt on the public service Mr. Pense had performed in the pust, his indomitable zeal in all public enterprises and the great benefits he had brought to the city. He was ever ready to join in anything for Kingston's advancement. He was one of its most devoted citizens. He had alrought contemprates and always was a fair, true, able journalist, loyal to Liberalism, loyal to Kingston.

Rev. and Dear Father,—It is with feelings of sincere regret that we, the ladies of St. Mary's Parish, learn of your departure from our midst.

We feel that we cannot allow this occasion to pass without giving expression in home way to the sentiments that fill the hearts of every member of the Parish.

We have ever been attracted by the piety and sancitly of your daily life, your untiring zeal in the service of hely Mother Church, and the kinduess and consideration you have always shown towards your flock. These qualities exhibited themselves in an especial manner since the occasion of the much lamented demise of our good Monseigneur, and you have so endear d your self to us that your removal from amongst us becomes at once a matter of gennine and general regret.

Whilst to part with you is to experience the deepest sorrow it is some consolation to us to know that your worth has been recognized and that you are about to receive advancement in the noblest of callings, the service of Almighty God, and looked at from a layman's point of view we are assured that many honers are instore for you.

In saying adieu we desire to Present to you this purse and table linen, and whilet we shall ever pray that the bl ssing of God may be with you in your new home we would ask that you senetimes think of your loving and grateful people in Lindsay.

man when he lives in the full realization of his inability to give proper and fitting expression to his feelings.

Traight, my dear people, such an occasion has arisen with me. Less than three months ago, when at the summons of His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor. I was translated to Petersoro, and in good holy zeal and heartfelt gratitude you assembled in this same hall and made such a magnifleent offering, accompanied with such good wishes, little did I think that such a short time was to elapse before my return. But the Angel of beath, with his ever inevitable rand, seized upon the good Monsignor in the zenith of his priestly glory, thus effecting the sad occasion of my recall to Lindsay parish.

You have credited me with many talents and qualities of which I feel I am not the possessor. For four years I have been amonget you endeavoring to discharge the priestly functions of laboring for the glory of God and the salvation of soils. If in my work I have had any success you must remember that I had as adviser and tutor that eminent divine, the late lamented Monsignor Laurent.

While amongst you, my good paople you have opened your hearts in mary ways, leaving upon me everlatting impressions of practical illustrations forming the inestinable bond which thes the priest to his people. The chaste affection and cooperation of the people of Lindsay I have always shared, for which you will always have my blessing and thought's in the sacrifice on God's holy altar.

Report of the Directors.

To the Shareholders,—The Directors for 1901 beg to present the eighth's annual report as follows:

1. That a detailed statement of assets and liabilities, duly audited, is hereunta annexed.

2. That the total capital stock of the Club is $3,000.00, divided into 300 shares of $10 each, the whole of which has been subscribed for and paid up.

3. That during the year, in accordancs with the resolution passed by stockholders on 7th June, 1901, we have enlarged the rink by adding additions on both sides so as to give us two extra sheets of ice, so that we now have one of the best rinks in the province, with six splendid sheets of ice. The total cost of additions, as shown by the accounts, was $710.63.

4. That owing to the additions we deemed it advisable to increase the insurance from $1,500 to $2,000, and we have taken out a new policy for that amount, which expires 19th of October, 1904.

5. That in order to pay the cost of the new additions, it was at first decided to issue we stock, but on consideration it was found that our total capital stock was fixed at $3,000.00, of which $2,940.00 had been subscribed and paid for, and that, to increase the same would cost over $150.00, the government fee alone being $100. In the course of a conversation after the meeting Mr. Sinclair informed our representative that he had resigned in order to avoid sharing the responsibility assumed by the members; that his disclaimer would force a new election; and that legal proceedings were about to be taken against the old members who had taken the oath of office. And there you are!

Our town fathers assembled at 7.30 sharp, pursuant to the notice of adjournment given at the inaugural session at 11 a.m. Ald. Sinclair, who disclaimed his sent at the morning session, was the only absented.

The Mayor's Message. Before proceeding with general business Mayor Ingle read the foitowing message:

Gentlemen, — Before proceeding with the business of the evening I would like to address a few words to you, but let me first express my thanks to my fellow-citizens for again placing me in the civic chair, and to assure them it will continue to be my carnest endeavor to promote in every practicable way the laterests of the community whom I have been elected to serve.

mote in every practicable way the interests of the community whom I have been elected to serve. It is gratifying to find so many of my colleagues in the Conneil of last year again associated with me. I desire, however, to express the sense of my own sorrow, and to voice the sentiments of all who have gat in this Conneil with him, on account of the loss the town has sustained in the passing away of our esteemed friend and colleague, the left Richard Touchburn. He always took a deep interest in the affairs of the town and never spared himself in seeking to advance its welfare, and worthily earned the confidence reposed in him.

It is cause for regret that the hy-law submitted to the people to raise money for the permanent improvement of the streets was not sustained. I had hoped, after the construction of sewers had been so well advanced, the Council would be placed in a position to provide for making the principal thoroughfares of such a quality as the traffic upon them demands. The amount available for expenditure on the rough aways is so limited that all the Council can hope to do is to, make the most temporary kind of repairs, which on natural roads that have to bear heavy traffic is, to say the least, an outlay of the most improvident kind.

In the same connection the consequent inability to procure a steam roller—a machine that is so much needed long street work—is to be depiored.

The extension of granolithic walks and of sawers and the completion of the fire hall will, among other works equire your attention during the I trust, gentlame, that the same require your attention year.

I trust, gentlemen, that the same harmonious devotion to the furtherance of the interests of the town as was a feature of the conduct of business during the past year will mark our efforts and deliberations during the year on which we have entered.

-Yours respectfully.

Same Old Grog Shops.

On motion of Aldermen Jackson and Hore, By-law No. 957, fixing the number of tayern and shop licenses on last year's basis, was given a third reading and finally passed.

(From the Brockville Recorder.)
Sufferers from liver troubles find life one of almost constant misery, growing worse and worse unless prompt steps and the proper remedy be taken to restore the organ to its netural condition. Mrs. Joseph Leclaire. Of Brockville, was such a sufferer, but has been, happily, released from the trouble by the only medicine known to thoroughly restore this important organ to its normal condition, once disease has fastened upon it. To a reporter, Mrs. Leclaire willingly gave her story for publication. She said: "For a long time I suffered severely from complications of the liver and dyspepsin. I would awake in the morning with pains under my headlers and in my stomach. My tongue was heavily coated and I had a horrible taste in my mouth, especially on rising in the morning, it was constipated, and at times that it felt as though there was a coal of fire in it. The pain was especially severe after eating, and for months my if it is the same and in my stomach at times that it felt as though there was a coal of fire in it. The pain was especially severe after eating, and for months my if it is the same and the first box, there was a material improvement, and in the course of a few weeks longer I felt that I was completely cured. My tongue was cleared, the bad taste left my mouth, the pains disappeared, and I am as well as ever I was. Before taking the pills I suffered from bronchitis at times, but it has nover since troubled me. I can recommend Dr. Williams Pink Pills to anyons who suffers as I did."

TOOK LEAVE OF PETERBORO VEN. ARCHDEACON CASEY HAS LEFT FOR LINDSAY.

[Peterboro, Examiner, Saturday.]

(Peterboro, Examinor, Saturday,) oight years has performed the duties of Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, left this morning for Lindsay, having been transferred to the charge of St. Mary's church n that town.

Ever since the announcement of his removal from town Ven. Archdeacon Casey removal from town von. Archivascul care has been the recipient of many expressions of good will for his future. The various societies for which he has labored during his residence in Peterboro, the educational institutions with which he has been identified by the received of the property of the proper institutions with which he has been identified, have taken advantage of Von. Archdeacon Casey's intended departure to express to him their appreciation of his efforts on behalf of his people.

Last night in the Cathodral the last of these presentations was made, when at the conclusion of the benediction Ven. Archdeacon Casey was presented with an address and a purse of $300 from the congregation. THE ADDRESS.

The address was read by Mr. D. O'Connell, and the presentation of the $300 was made by Mr. H. LeBrun, on behalf of the congregation.

The committee which had charge of the getting up of the presentation advanced to the front of the Cathedral and Mr. O'Connell read the address in a clear and audible voice.

The Cathedral was filled with members of the congregati n, and the service was very impressive.

The address was as appended:

To the Very Reverend Archdeacon Domin-ick Jeremiah Cassy, Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral:

Cithedral:

Very Reverend and Dear Sir,—Eight years ago you assumed the responsible duties of Rector of St. Peter's Catholiral, and during that time your indefatigable seal and your great earnestness and tender selicitude in the spiritual and temporal well-fare of your parishioners have won for you their love and admiration. Now upon the you of your departure they o most allow you to leave them without giving expression to the deep sense of regree they feel at their loss and the appreciation and gratitude they have for the great benefits they have derived from your able and efficient administration.

The Needler-Shepherd Trophy

(To the Editor of The Post)

Sir,—In looking over the report of the Orillia-Lindsay curling match in your issue of the 17th I was rather struck with the remark that a lead of 22 points on the game to follow, practically elinehed the trophy for Lindsay for another season.

I ventury to say, Mr. Editor, that no such statement was made by a member of the Lindsay Curling Club. We have learned to deprecate prediction. In recalling games in which we have figured, and predictions that have been made as to likely winners, we have discovered that it is wisdom on the part of a curler not to predict.

A lead of 22 points on the game to follow, in an eight-rink match by no means assures victory in a game of curling, and it is not improbable that we would have to "pay the piper" if we had the presumption to believe it would be so.

We can assuredly claim we have the advantage, and that is all. That an advantage does not always insure victory we have very many instances to verify. For illustration, take our first game, for the Peterboro-Lindsay Cup in 1899-90. The conditions of that contest were first four games out of seven. Peterboro we there are always in sure victory we have sery many instances to verify. For illustration, take our first game, for the Peterboro went first three—surely a staggering advantage—yet Lindsay won the first three—surely a staggering advantage—yet Lindsay won the rext four and the trophy.

Better not predict. The old saying still holds good, "Don't countyour checkens till they are hatched."

—Yours, etc.,

A LOVER OF THE GAME.

The Lindsay Hockey Team.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

(No the Editor of The Posts.)

Sir.—As President of the Lindsay Hockey Club I desire to note, a few observations relative to our position as a team and the actions of some of its members, as well as the kind of the OH. A officials to compel the convener to make a new schedule when Believille team had withdrayn without touching the puck. At the commencement of the season a meeting at Port Hope was called by Mr. Henwood to outline the districts schedule—power to act for us was wired Mr. Henwood, Four teams entered—Believille, Port Hope, Peterboro and Lindsay. The dates were decidedly unfavorable to us but we never kickel. Fort Hope stood to play Belleville first, but Belleville defaulted and Fort Hope claimed the gam—lit is said that Belleville defaulted and Fort Hope claimed the gam—lit is said that Belleville defaulted and Fort Hope claimed the gams and dates was made much worse. The District was reduced to three teams. Our game with Port Hope how Friday night was our house how for the season of the Hope how Friday night was our hord, Port Hope having played one game with us at Cobourg and Peterboro one with us here. We informed Mr. Henwood that as Belleville failed to make a start, the original schedule should be cancelled and a new one made in its place. He refused to do this as by doing so he would forfeit his claim to the Belleville gift. We placed our grievance by 'phone before Messrs. Buchanan and Beaton, of theo. H.A., who admitted the injustice, but recommended that we fix it up among ourselves. Mr. Henwood would fix aothing, and we played our third game while Port Hope and Peterboro have yet to meet this year.

Mr. Henwood framed a schedule for four teams when in reality there were but three in sight. He found this out beyond a doubt before a puck had been touched, and I contend, in the interest of the game, and hore particularly in fairness to the district while Port Hope and Peterboro have yet to meet this year.

Mr. Henwood is responsible for the name of our remained on the leave of the order of the

Port Hope Defeated Lindsay

WARM GAME OF HOCKEY WIT NESSED LAST FRIDAY.

The Visitors Put up a Stiff Game from Start to Finish and Froved too Strong for the Homs Team The Most Exciting Match Ever Witne's edit Lindsay.

The Outarios, of Port Hope, defeated the Lindsay Seniors in a fast and exciting game by a score of 4 to Lat Lindsay-st. cink last Friday. It was the third game of the intermediate series of the O. H. A., and as the home team has been putting up good hockey this season, a very large crowd witnessed the game. The result was a great dispending the third of the game. The result was a great dispending the third of the good sportsmen and the visitors were treated in the most gertlemanity manner.

The local team are undoubtedly fast and played a star game in the first half, but in the second, their combination play falled to work and they were unable to accomplish very much. The Port Hopers are noted as hard finishers, and always show to advantage towards the end of the game, but if the home team had been in good shape they would have kept the visitors score down. It was plainly seen that our boys were not in best trim for the battle, while on the other hand the Outarios were in the plak of condition. Considering that the home team had not practised since last Tuesday they played a fairly zood game.

Whell Referse W. B. Lilly, of Toronto, appeared on the lee at 8.30 a termendous yell went up from the thirty or so loyal rocters in the grandstand. After calling the two varning as to rough play, etc., Mr. Lally tooted his whistle and the two sides were into the game. The teams struggled hard and some magnificent playing was displayed by both sides for the next twenty minutes, when Callaghan, by one of his swift shots from centre, talled for Lindsay amidst great applause from the enhusiaste supporters. The enext game went to Port Hope. After this the playing was displayed by both sides for the maxification as reference men did some very effective work. The Outarios managed within ten minutes to score stood 4 to 1 in Port Hope. After this continued to the fact.

On resuming play

The Industrial Review, published at Fort William, in a recent issue gives the following sketch of an old Lindsay boy under the heading, "Men at Fort William, in a recent Issue gives the following sketch of an old Lindsay boy under the heading, "Men of the District."

Neil McDougall, was born at Lindsay, Oat., in 1858, and educated at the High School there. He joined the Hudson's Bay Co., under Chief Factor Colin Rankin, of the Uppor Octawa District, coming to Fort William in 1875 under the late Gov. McIntyre.

He left this company to build the first telegraph line for the government through to Winnipeg, and from 1875 to 1883, was Superintendent of Government Telegraphs. As a mement of this he has in his possession the original of the first telegram sent from Thunder Bay District to Winnipeg, to Mayor Scott, of Winnipeg, signed by Thomas Marks, Mayor of Prince Arthur's Landing. He also built the first telegraph line east along the north shore under John Ross Supt. of Construction and was also connected with much of the survey and construction work along the north shore.

His record as an all-round athlete is more then average he having won championships in running at different distances, and many boatraces and snow-shoe contests. His record is 101-2 seconds for 100 yards run and 121-2 seconds for 100 yards run and 121-2 seconds for the same distance on snow-shoes. These experiences have stood him in good stead in the active bush life he has followed, during which five trips on snowshoes alone totalled 4,800 miles.

He has always taken an active linears in lacrosse, cricket and other sports, and probably shares with the celebrated 'Mac' Rochon the district eurlers.

During the past three years, as Inspector of Colonization Roads, no no sinceure in a new district, he has personally supervised the construction of over 100 miles of new roads, besides building bridges, and keeping roads previously built, in repair when it is considered that his district extends from White River, in the east, to Rat Portage, in the wost. It will be understood that to attend to these duties keeps him on the go.

Early last fall we placed an order with a German firm for a consignment of FANCY GLASSWARE, and CHINA NOVELTIES for the holiday trade.

The goods were shipped late and the vessel carrying them was delayed by winter tempests, the result being that the consignment did not reach us in time for Christmas.

It was unfortunate, but it would be worse luck to have to carry them over till next season. Every year has its new styles in China and Glassware as in dress goods, and we have decided to clear out this consignment NOW. If you want some pretty things for your table your opportunity is here.

St. Mary's New Pastor.

ARCHDEAUON

VEN. ARCHDEACON CASEY, LATE OF PETERBORO,

Despite the bitter cold St. Mary's church was crowded on Sunday'at bigh mass, the parishioners being anxious to see and hear their new, pastor. Venerable Archdeacon Casey, who arrived from Peterboro Saturday morning. They saw a man of large stacture and fine appearance, with hair showing the first silvery flecks of age, a fresh healthy they heard a clear, resonant volce make an earnest appeal for co-operation in carrying on the work begun by Father Stafford and proscuted with vigor by the late Mgr. Laurent, whom the speaker resembed somewhat as he stood on the altar. After prayers for the slock of the congregation Archdeacon Casey read His Lordship Bishop O'Connor's warrant and then spoke as follows;
My dear Brethren,—The appointment of a priest to a parish is in the hands of the Bishop of the bilocese, in accordance with the sametions of the Head of the Church, Jesus Christ. I have come to you in obedience to the Bishop's command to offer up the holy sacrifica of the mass for your benefit and to pray and labor for your sanctification. I desire with all my heart to do all I can for your benefit and to pray and labor for your sanctification. I desire with all my heart to do all I can for your welfare—especially your spiritual welfare. I have served many years in the priesthood and come here to continue that service in your bchalf, and perhaps my bones may yet rest with those of the good work of Father Stafford and of that good priests who have served you and passed to their reward. I know something of your loyalty, generosity and practical piety as a congregation. I have heard of the good work of Father Stafford and of that good priest, your late pastor, Mgr. Laurent, and I ask your co-oparation and prayers so that I may also be able to do a good work in your midst. The blessing of God will attend us in our endeavors if we seek His aid. I thank you heartily for the kind reception tendered me yesterday, and accept it as an augury of the pleasant relations that are to exi

THE SERMON.

Archdeacon (assy's instruction was based on the gospel for the second Sunday after Epiphany, John II.

1-11. describing Jesus' first miracle at the marriage feast in Cann of Galilea. Taking the words, "and the wine failing, the mother of Jesus saith to him, They have no wine. And Jesus saith to her, Woman, what is it to me and to thee? my hour is not yet come," the rev. gentleman proceeded; All of us have just commenced new year—in my case the first as your pastor. Your former beloved pastor has gone to his reward—lis hour came. All things pass away—time is short for all of us, and we cannot afford to waste a moment of it—the more precious a thing is the more we should esteem it. Time is given us in order that we may save our immortal souls, and not, as many seem to think, in order that we may save our immortal souls, and not, as many seek temporary satisfaction in pleasure, not to increase our wealth in lands or stocks—these things shall pass away. Let us remember that one moment is sufficient for sincere repentance, and that in one moment a man can loss his hold on heaven. The time will come when it will be impossible to secure even one moment's extension of life. We can appreciate how precious is time when we realize that our fate in eternity depends upon our use of it. Jesus died on the cross in order that we might be given time in which to repent and be saved. When the angels rebelled they were not given time to repent, but we one arth are extended that favor through Jesus Christ. Have we made good use of the time granted us—are we using it to make our peace with God or prostituting it to the granting value of the time granted us—are we using it to make our peace with God or prostituting it to the granting would be some day. What is many if he gainets the whole world gambling, others are so busy amassing wealth which will perish and fodd that they are not hought to laying up treasures in heaven, and others disobey in drunkenness and genoming the prostitution to repentance by asking God's forgi

"At the Academy Last Friday.

The picture play given in the Academy of Music last Friday under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. was a decide! success. Notwithstanding the counter attractions almost every seat on the plan was sold in advance. Mr. Armstrong's presentation of "The Little Minister" was pronounced by some to be even superior to the play in giring a realistic idea of the book and its plot, in his impersonations of the various characters one almost forgot who was speaking and became lost in Caddam woods or in Nanny's cozy cottage. The pictures were charming and made one long for summer again and the freedom of the past. The surroundings were most attractive as a background to the plassant love scenes between Babbic, the leasant love scenes between Babbic, the leasant love scenes when the surroundings were most attractive as a background to the plays, and Garvin Dishart, "The Little Minister." An interest into feature of the entertainment was the throwing on canvas the result of the bockey match.

Our curlers and citizens generally

Our curlers and citizens generally evinced great interest Thursday in the first match with the Orillia curlers for the possession of the trophy so generously donated by Mr. Shepherd, of Orillia, and Mr W m. Needler, town. Eight rinks of each club competed, four town rinks going to Orillia in the morning and four rinks from the latter town playing here in the evelig.

Our players finished 14 points up in Orillia, and when the game started here about 7.30 the visiting skips and their men buckled to with the determination to win if good careful play could do it. A large crowd of spectators witnessed the struggle with the keenest interest until the wishtors were unable to hold the home men down; they finished eight points to the good, giving them a total of 22 points. This makes their possession of the cup almost certain, the condition being that it shall go to the cup almost certain. Below we give the scores

Mr. Pogue preached, taking his text from Rev. 3-20; "Behold I stand at the door and knock." This was a message of love from our Lord through John fifty years after He ascended, and proves that he still loves us and Is standing at the door of every heart knocking, and the amazing part of it is that we do not at once admit Him, who is the King of Kings and Lord of Lords There are three reasons why this is not done. First, the depraytity of human mature, where Christ goes evil must depart, light always dispelling darkness; second thoughtlessness; third, procrastination. Mr. Pogue, who is a very carnest and convincing speaker, made an appeal to those which as their sayiour. Special services will be held in St. Andrew's church each night this week.

A THRIVING INSTITUTION.

A THRIVING INSTITUTION.

The foundary business that was carried on for years by Mr. John Makins, William-st. north, is now a flourishing institution. About two years ago the business was purchased by Mr. J. W. McCrao, of Tilsonburg, and who for years conducted a business in that town. Since Mr. McCrae has taken over the business many improvements have been made both in the building and machinery. Instead of a delapidated frame building there is now a large two storey brick structure erected in its place. Improved and costly machinery has also been installed—one planer was placed in the building which cost over $1.000. Mr. McCrae has dispensed with the use of the engine and a ten-horse electric power motor is now used instead to operate the machinery. There are ten first-class tradesmen employed and it is almost impossible to keep up with the work. At present Mr. McCrae is filling two orders for a saw-mill outfit, one from Watford, Western Ontarlo, and the other from Brighton. Mr. McCrae says he expects to do a large trade next summer, and that since coming to Linday he has expended over $6,000 in cash.

FEET AND HANDS FROZEN.

Sad Fate of an Old Man in Halibu tor Vicinity.

Sad Fate of an Old Man in Halibu ton Vicinity.

On Saturday, Jan. 4th, William Preston an old man about 77 years of age, and who resides alone in a small house at the end of his son's farm about ten miles north of the village of Haliburton, left his home and walked over to his son's house to get some provisions. When he arrived at the son's place he found no one home and the house locked, so he went to the barn and remained there a couple of hours.

The day was a very cold one, the murcury being down to 12 degrees below zero, and when Preston was discovered his feet and hands were badly frozen. Dr. Giles, of Haliburton, was summoned and relieved the sufferer a little, but advised that his be removed to a hospital at once for treatment. The unfortunate man passed through to-day on a stretcher to the General Hospital, Toronto, in charge of his son-inlaw, Mr. Dutton. It is feared Mr. Preston will have to lose nearly all of his fingers and toes, and as he is a very old man'tt is a question whether he will survive an operation.

DANGER IN SUNDAY LABOR

Sudden Deaths of Pilots and Engineer Arousing Attention.

Niagara Times: The cases are growing startlingly more numerous of railway engineers, of pilots and motormen dying instantly at their posts. The lives and limbs of ecorea, hundreds, are thus imperfilled. The pilot of a crowded New York City ferry was recently found at a critical moment, stiff in death. The engineer of a lightning express, running at full speed on a "slow" section, with his hand on the lever, dead. June 18th, 1900, a Chicago motorman did not stop as usual at a steam-road crossing, and an engine grazed the rear of his electric ear loaded with passengers. He was found with staring eyes, stone dead. Two New Jersey engineers, brothers, have been stricken with paralysis. We have numerous records of these and other similar cases. What is the matter? Their work is exceptionally straining on their nerves, and if they did not have the rest of one day in seven these sudden deaths would be to be expected, if they did not actually happen. Right here, too, is the cause of railway accidents that often cost stockholders from hundreds of thousands to a million or more, in the crash of a second of time. Therefore, "plous" reasons aside, there is danger to life and property in Sunday work thus enforced on laboring men, has made white slaves of millions of our countrymen. It is no longer safe to ride on sleeper or day trains, on trolley or ferry; and capital and labor both have cause to cry out against Sunday work as an enemy. Do we help this enemy, by influence or by example, in favor of Sunday work in any form?

WORTHLESS BONDS.

According to the report of Provincial Secretary Stratton, just issued, the province has been blessed during the year with honest officials, for in the opening paragraph he announces that there was no absconding municipal treasurers and no losses of importance in the form of deficits. From the statament of the auditor sufficient importance is not attached by the local auditors to the securities given for the responsibililities of county, township and other municipal treasurers. "There is reason to believe," he says, "that these securities are in many cases worthless, being improperly drawn out, classed or expired by effluxion of time." The auditor strongly urges schools separate and public, as well as high school boards, to use the cash books recommended by the government.

THE "HOME FOR THE AGED" ENTERTAINMENT.

The annual Charity Entertainment was held Thursday, in the Academy of Music, and such a program was rendered as did credit to all con-cerned. If the audience had been in numbers what the excellence of the cerned. If the audience had been in aumbers what the excellence of the entertainment deserved there would have been a bumper house, but that is just what there was not. Special meetings in connection with three of the churches, the match at the Curling rink, and the prospect of the Y.M.C.A. entertainment to-night, were no doubt the main factors accounting for the poor attendance. Miss Jean Gunn, the elecutionist of the evening, very disagreenbly disappointed such possimists as, not having previously heard her, were inclined to expect the travesty on elocution that the public have learned of late years to dread and abhor. Miss Gunn's reading, however, is certainly very distinctly above the ordinary, and she will be heartly welcomed when she returns to make a second visit to Lindsay.

Mr. Gray's violin solo was one of the best musical numbers, and was much appreciated. The trio—violins and plano—by the Misses Cairns and Miss O'Boyle, and the plane solo of Mr. Hamilton's, as well as several other numbers, were rewarded by well sarned recalls. Everyone was delighted with Miss Alda Sylvester's songs, and the vocal duet by Mr. and Miss Duffus, and the vocal solos by Miss Colles, Mr. Sackville, Mr. Podger and Mr. Steers, deserved more than the passing mention to which space limits confine us. The duett—violin and paino—rendered by the Misses Cairns was excellent, and the quartettes furnished by Messrs. Paton, Walker, McAlpine and Bayley were enjoyed by everybody.

The Citizens' band was in attendance and played at the entrance before the formal program within commenced. It is greatly to be regretted that so excellent and varied an entertainment, given in ald(of so deserving a charity, should not have been rewarded by a full house.

Hockey Notes

The Omemee Beavers are out of the running in the Trent Valley League. The have been put out of business by the Bobcaygeon team, and for the balance of the season they will have to be content with exhibition matches. This was Omemee first season in the league, and they showed up farlly well. The Bobcaygeon team will now run up against Fenelon Falls.

The sub-committee of the O.H.A. met yesterlay in Toronto, and after a little deliberation suspended the local hockey club for playing Dennistoun in Friday night's game against Port Hope. It seems as if the O.H.A. have their favorites and anfortunately Lindsay does not happen to be one of them. If we had a former resident of our town on the Executive, like Peterboro, we could get pretty near what we asked for.

Took to the Shovel—All Trains De layed-Woes of a Driving Party.

Local weather prophets who have been predicting a very light fall of snow this winter have not been seen on Kent-at, since Tuesday, and it is aurnised that they ar busy digging the selves out from under Most of our citizens are hard at work at the same task. Tuesday night's—or, properly speaking, Wednesday morning's—fall was "a cortaer". Starting soon after midnight, the storm became so bad that Night Constable Reeves lost his way crossing Kent-at, being unable to see the lights on the opposite side, When day-light arrived Kent-t, resembled a railway cutting after the passage of now-plows—nuge drifts were thrown up along the pavements, and many of the doorways were filed. As customers were few in number the staffs turned to with shovels and spades and cleared ar-ay the accumulations, raising many honest bilistors in the process.

People who had to turn out early to their work found locomotion very difficult, and very few of the school children werd in their places at the appointed hour. The snow-plow men were only moderately successful in coping with the deluge. Geo. Hart-wick, the north ward man, was at work at 4.30 and had the walks in that part of the town were a caution. Kearns, the east ward contractor had only made a good start when his horse walked through his harness, causing a long stoppage for repairs.

The G.T.R. station authorities anticipated much trouble on the line and were agreeably surprised when the Hallburton and Cobocoak trains pulled in almost on time. The former landed the passengers at the Victoria-ave. crossing owing to a box-car having jumped the track opposite Touchburn's storehouse. The express from the east, due at 9 o'clock, was over an hour late, and the express from the east, due at 10.40. did not get in till nearly 12. The mixed from Port Hope, due here at 2 o'clock, was one hour late, and the outgoing Hallburton train was held till its arrival. A snow-plow with two engines was sent east at an early hour as far as Port Hope. More trouble is expected to-night, as the snow has continued to drift all day.

Feterboro's two shots well guarded and impossible to raise, draw or run or get at them. One chance left, and that one in a thousand. Mr. Flavelle and Mr. Little have decided that, desperate as it is, it's the only thing: The onlookers thought it impossible and concluded that the game was Peterboro's. But Flavelle is equal to the cocasion and plays a beautiful run, outwicks Lindsay's stone he played for from the outside, runs, straight across at right angles against the Peterboro stynes, disgraph across at right angles against the Peterboro stynes, disgraph across at right angles against the Peterboro stynes, discreasing white places them and lies shot!

A Board of Inquiry Now Sitting at Ottawa-The Quality Was Complained of by British Officers-Recommend-ed For Decorations-N.Y.C. Gets O. and N.Y. Railway-A Big

Ottawa, Jan, 18.—The Government now holds 133 seats in the House of Commins, as against 76 opposition, showing a ministerial majority of 57. There are, however, four seats yet vacant—Victoria, B. C., Lisgar, Quebec West and Maisonneuve, or Terrebonne. Mr. Profontaine was returned for both the last-named constituencies, but cannot say which seat he will hold until the election proceedings in Terrebonne are concluded.

Te Retire Certain Judges.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—It is stated that a movement is on foot to compel the retirement from the bench of certain judges who are incapacitated either by extreme age or physical infirmity from properly discharging their judicial duties. This action is said to be contemplated by members of Parliament, who promise to bring the matter before the House of Commons when it meets. The proposed action, according to rumor, meets with the approval of a numerous section of the legal fraternity, who have experienced great inconvenience from the existing state of affairs.

An Investigation Upon Some Sont From Canada to South Africa.

Canada to south Africa.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—A board of experts at the Department of Agriculture yesterday afternoon to enquire into the character of certain shipments of Canadian tinned meat sent to South Africa. The investigation is the result of complaints made by British officers in the field about the quality of the tinned meat shipped from Canada. The Department of Agriculture interested itself in the matter, and asked that samples of the meat reported against be shipped back to this country for enquiry. This was done, and the samples reached Ottawa a couple of days ago. The commission of inquiry consists of Dr. Montizambert, director-general of Public Health, Lieut.-Col. Biggar of the Army Service Corps, Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, chief analyst of the Inland Revenue Department, and Mr. Bate, of the firm of Bate & Co.

—Trick Questions.

London, Jan. 17.—King Edward opened Parliament yesterday afternoon with a ceremonial in all essential respects similar to that of February last.

After robing, King Edward and Queen Alexandra entered the House of Feers, and occupied their thrones beneath a canopy, with the Prince and Frincess of Wales on either side of them. The other members of the royal family were seated on chairs at the foot of the steps leading to the throne.

The speech was not an important utterance. His Majesty referred in gratified terms to the world tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales, expressed regret that the war in South Africa was not concluded, said he trusted the decision of the sugar conference would lead to the abandonment of bounties, and noted the conclusion of the Isthmian Canal treaty.

The only departure from the extremely decorous character of the proceedings occurred when the King referred in the Speech from the Throne to the humanity of the British troops in South Africa. This ied to an unprecedented scene in the House of Lords, Peers and Peeresses and high officers of state broke out into a prolonged cheer, which was repeated again and again to the evident satisfaction of His Majesty, but to the apparent dismay of the officials of the House.

Hon. Mr. Gibson, in moving the second reading of the bill to amend the Municipal Act and by Mr. Auld to amend the Ontario Game Protection Act.

Hon. Mr. Gibson, in moving the second reading of the bill to amend the Marriage Act, explained that it was not proposed to amend the law as it stood, but simply to set forth on the Statute Book the prohibited degrees of consanguinty. Only the Dominion Parliament could alter the Law. The measure was therefore a merely formal one.

A93-50me Details of the Pablic Accounts.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—The public accounts of Ontario for the year 1901, which are about ready for presentation to the House, will show a most gratifying condition of the provincial finances. There was a surplus on the year's transactions of $427,209.43, while the assets of the Province, including cash in the bank, exceed the liabilities by $2.571,202.71. This is in spite of heavy payments in railway subsidies during the year.

The total receipts last year were $4,466,043, as against $4,192,940 in 1000. The expenditures were $4,003,729 in the previous year. This surplus of nearly half a million was built up largely by an increase of nearly $200,000 in the receipts from Crown lands; an increase of about $20,000 from charters for incorporated companies; about $8,000 from taxes on corporations, and $140,000 from succession duties. On a few triding items there were decreases compared with 1900.

The slight increase in total expenditure was due largely to extra charges in settlement and colonization, in connection with Crown lands, the building of the Cobourg asylum, education, hospitals and charities. The expenditures in legislation and administration of justice were reduced about $20,000.

The cash surplus in the banks to the credit of the Government has increased by $343,916.68, On December 31st, 1900, it was $1,468,492.99.

H VICTORIA AGRICUL-TURAL SOCIETY IN SESSION.

Directors' and Treasure's Reports — Election of Officers — New Grand Stand and Half-Mile Track Talked of-Other Business,

The annual meeting of the mem-bers of the South Victoria Agricul-tural Society was held in the Council tural Society was held in the Council chamber Wednesday afternoon and was fairly well attended and much interest was manifested. President Johnston Ellis occupied the chair. After the meeting was called to or-der Secretary Keith read the min-utes of the last meeting of the So-clety, which on motion were ad-opted.

ortes of the last meeting of the captlety, which on motion were adopted.

A communication from Mr. Deyell, asking why his account for, $3.50 for services rendered at last fair had not been paid, was read. After some discussion it was decided that as Mr. Deyell was a director he should give his services free, the same as the other directors. It was then moved by Mr. Channon, seconded by Mr. Robson, that the communication be fyled.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Kelbh for extra services rendered at the last fair. On motion of Mr. Kelbh for extra services rendered at the last fair. On motion of Mr. Kelbh for extra services rendered at the last fair. On motion of Mr. Ellis, seconded by Mr. Channon, Col. J. Deacon was voted to the chair. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and on motion adopted. The directors' report and statement of the receipts and disbursements for the year were read and adopted as follows:

Gentlemen .- We meet one and another Gentlemen,—We meet one and another again at our annual meeting, and we beg leave to report that we had in 1991 one of the most successful Fairs ever held in Lindsay. We were very fortunate in having fine weather during the days of our fair. We had the largest entry in live stock we ever had and paid nearly $300 more in prizes. We also paid our interest and $200 on principal, reducing our mortgage to 1400.

on principal, reducing our mortgage to 1400.

We erected a large poultry house on the grounds costing about $400, leaving a balance in the tressurer's hands of over $100. We would recommend to the new board that our poultry house be made 25 or 30 feet longer than it is, as there was notroom for all the birds that came.

We were also greatly encourage i by the outside exhibitors and by the communication they put into our local papers after our fair in regard to the good treatment they received from the officers and directors during our exhibition, and we feel sure that this will help to keep up our fair in the future.

this will help to keep up our fair in the future.

We cannot close our report without thanking the County Council and all the inhabitants of the town of Lindsay and the surrounding county for their able support financially towards our fair, also the agent of the G.T.R. for his courtesy and essistance to all exhibitors who visited our fair last year, and also all the steamboat agents. By everyone assisting our new board we feel sure that the Lindsay Central will still go on and increase and be the popular fair.

83794 U4 Good Services Rewarded. On motion of Mr. Connolly, second-ed by Mr. Lack, a grant of $20 was made to the President for his valuable services rendered during the year.

Mr. Ellis, in expressing his thanks, said it was not the $20 hg cared for, but it was his ambition to make the Lindsay Cantral Fair one of the best in the province. He was deeply interested in the exhibition, and with the able board of directors we have there is no reason why our show should not outclass all others. He visited smaller fairs in the county in the interest of the Contral and the $20 would just about even up the expense he had been put to.

Election of officers.

The election of officers resalted, is follows: Press, Johaston Ellis; Vice-Press, W. D. Hunter; Directors, Marlposa, E. Mark, W. P. King, Ops, R. Reid, J. Graham; Emily, W. Adams; Manvers, Mr. Hickson; Verulam, T. Robertson; Lindsay, R. Bryans and Col. Deacon; Auditors, Messrs, Jas. Hopkins and J. H. Socherson.

Vote of Thanks.

Bryane and Col. Bershelms and J. H. Socheran.

Vote of Thanks.

On motion of Mr Ellis, seconded by Mr Channon, a vote of thanks was tendered Col. Deacon, in vacating the chair for the new Prosident, said that it was over 20 years since he first became a member of the Society and although they had met with much difficulty during those years, the Society is now to be conproved condition and on having excellent grounds.

Fair Improvements.

Mr. H. J. Lyttle pointed out that the present grand stand was not large enough to accommodate the increasing number of visitors, especially on the middle day of the fair and that some steps should be taken Mr. Hutter—'I think we should near talk matters over and make fair.'

Mr. Hutter—'I think we should near talk matters over and make fair.'

Mr. Ellis—'We discussed the grand.

Mr. Ellis—"We discussed the grand stand question before, but decided to erect a new poultry house instead. Perhaps another year we will build a new grand stand."

Mr. Robson—"I think Mr. Lytle is right about the grand stand—something should be done to enlarge it."

Mr. Keith—"You will have to go to the north end of the grounds in order to build a new grand stand."

Mr. Connoily—"I think we should enlarge the track to a half mile."

Mr. Ellis—"It is only a matter of time when we will have a half mile track and a new grand stand, but I think the rate of interest—5 1-2 per cent on money borrowed—is a little high. We can procure money cheaper now."

high. We can produce money cheaper now."

The Secretary's Salary.

Mr. Keith stated that the amount of clerical and other work in consection with the fair was much greater now than formerly and that the remuneration, $120, was not enough, and that he should get $150 per year. After considerable discussion it was moved by Mr. Channon, seconded by Mr. Reid, that the Secretary-Treasurer's salary be increased to $150.—Carried.

Other Matters.

Secretary Trensurer's salary be increased to $150.—Carried. Other Marters.

The dates for the Lindsay Central Fair were fixed for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 25th, 26th and 27th.

A communication was read from Mr. J. C. Graham, Secretary of the Dominion Agricultural' Seciety, asking that a delegate be sent to Tomoto to attend a meeting of the Society, which is to be held on Feb. 19th and 20th next. The meeting is called for the purpose of discussing whether it would be advisable to introduce new features in concetion with full fairs, such as chicken plucking, etc., making fairs purely agricultural instead of grand stand performances.

Mr. Ellis—"Well, I think there is no use of us sending a delegate, as there is no benefit to be derived. I attended the meeting once and all the value I got for my money was an oyster supper. There is no use of taking, if you do away with the special attractions at the fair the attendance will decrease. A young man will not bring his best girl to a fair for the purpose of viewing eaftire and horses; they want something different for their money, and they are the class of people we make our money out of."

Mr. Keith—'We should have expert Judges."

Mr. Reid—"The Fat Stock Show at Guelph is purely agricultural, and they get a large attendance."
Mr. Graham—'I think it nothing but right that a delegate should be sent to Toronto to attend the meet-

Mr. Ellis—"The most important thing is to satisfy the exhibitors, and then they will come again. Expert judges on horses and cattle are necessary to give the exhibitors fair judges on horses and cattle are necessary to give the exhibitors fair play."

Mr. Chamnon thought it would not be advisable to dispense with, the special attractions, although it was necessary that interest should not be lost in the agricultural part of our fairs. Farmers would get more information in one year at the Guelph Fat Stock Show than they would get if they attended the Toroto Industrial Fair for ten years. It was decided that no delegate be sent to Toronto.

Mr. Lytle stated that it was not advisable for parties donating special prizes to dictate how they should be given. The Rudd Harness Co's special prize, which was awarded to Mr. Curtis, caused a great deal of diseatisfaction, although the judge could do nothing else but award the prize to Mr. Curtis, still in special prizes of that kind it should be stated whether stallions were eligible to compete in that class. All special prizes should be confued to the directors to do as they wish.

Mr. Hopkins—"I think the special prizes should be left with a committee appointed for that purposes."

STOCKS RISE IN SYMPATHY

Strong Influences Said to Be at Work to Some Burghers Indirectly Approaching the British Government-Enthusiastic Send-off For the Guards.

London, Jan. 17.—A strong belief prevailed in financial circles here late yesterday, that negotiations for peace had been re-opened between the leading Boers and the British Government. South African stocks rose in sympathy with the reports.

The exact nature of what was going on was not known, but it was learned that leading Boers had indirectly approached the Government, protesting against the appropriation of farms in the Transval and Orange River Colonies by British settlers, which system is now being rapidly pushed, and that strong influence had been brought to bear on the Boer leaders to save at least a vestige of property for their followers.

Whether what was passing yester-day between the Boers and the Brit-ish Government can be termed peace negotiations, or what will be their negotiations, or what will be their result, can only remain speculation for the present. The stock exchange evidently takes a hopeful view of the outcome. British consols, the best barometer of Imperial affairs, rose nearly half a point on the London Exchange. It is regarded as certain that the King would not have made his optimistic statement of Wednesday had he not had assured information to go upon.

London, Jan, 17.—So far as unrestrained public enthusiasm was concerned the opening of parliament spectacle was nothing to what occurred earlier yesterday, when the Guards' reinforcements left their barracks en route to South Africa, The Guardsmen tramped through the dark streets of the metropolis at 6 o'clock in the morning, accompanied by an uproarious mob of civilian friends, singing songs to the accompanient of bands. The songs and music, however, did not drown the crying of women, who clung to the necks and arms of almost every man of the contingent.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Having obtained from the War Office permission to have general Canadian freight carried on steamers for transportation of hay and other army supplies to Cape Town, the Department of Agriculture has arranged a plan for enabling manufacturers of food products, wood goods and agricultural machinery to forward consignments to South Africa at minimum freights. The 'freight charges from St. John, N.B., to Cape Town, S.A., including loading on the ships and discharging, will be at the rate of $5 per ton of forty cubic feet. The ocean freight must be prepaid to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, on or before the date of sailing. The Department, of course, accepts no responsibility for goods after they have been landed at South Africa, where they must be consigned to agents.

In spite of Boor denials, a strong that there is difficulty in arriving at any acceptable basis of terms, Mr.

Commandant. Kritzinger, who was captured at Hanover Road, Cape Colony, about a month ago, is charged with four murders, in addition to train wrecking and cruelty to prisoners.

Kritzinger was one of the most successful Boer leaders in guerilla warfare in Cape Colony. It is asserted by some that he is really a Cape rebel and therefore a British subject and as such deserves the fate of Commandant Lotter, another Cape rebel, who was hanged last October.

On Christmas Eve The Paris Rappel printed a despatch from Durban, Natal, stating that Gen. Louis Botha, the Boer commander-in-chief, was holding five British officers and had notified Lord Kitchener that if Kritzinger was sentenced to death they would be shot.

Basitos being arready employed as drivers and leaders with the British fighting columns.

It was faund necessary during the clearing operations in the northeast of the Orange River column to burn all the native huts and grain and to commandeer their cattle, the leaders of the British columns giving receipts and sending the natives into the refuge camps. Since the line of blockhouses has been maintained from Bloomfontein to the Basutoland border, large quantities of grain have been going through. Wheat and mealies are here in great quantities awaiting rail transport. The crops now being reaped are the best on record. There is, roughly speaking, £2,000,000 worth of wheat now in this country, all available for the Government.

New Zealand Approves.

London, Jan 20.—A despatch from Wellington, N.Z., to The Times says a patriotic meeting, attended by thousands of persons, has passed resolutions, approving Great Britain's conduct of the war in Adrica, and Mr. Chamberlain's refutations of foreign slanders. The mention of Mr. Chamberlain's name evoked cheers. One speaker declared that if Germany were an enemy of Degland, she was an enemy of New Zealand. The colony would send its last man to end the Boer war by enforcing unconditional surrender.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Thompkins on the evening of Jan. 15th, there was gathered a very pleasant company consisting of the members of the Ladies' Aid and their hasbands. Mr. and Mrs. Ryam had been invited to spend their last evening in Cambray at this hospitable home, but were totally unprepared for the company that greeted them. After some pleasant chat and a little music the following address was read by Mrs. Tompkins, and the shipping bill of a handsome extension dining table that had been shipped from Lindsay to Millbrook was presented by Mrs. Wells: Mrs. W. Byam: Dear Sister,—It was with reelings of leep regret that we learned of your leparture from among us. There is great rejoicing at Phil. Dallon's over the coming of a young girl, who is here to stay.

Mr. W. Alton happened with a bad accident the other day by falling into his cellar. He got shaken up badly and had some ribs broken.

Mr. R. Black, who has leased his farm for a number of years, intends going into the stock business.

On Saturday, while Mr. and Mrs.
H. McDougall were returning from Seagrave, some thoughtless boys set a dog on their horse, causing the azimal to take fright and run away, throwing the occupants of the cutter out. The horse was caught before going very for by Mr. Alex. Mair. No demags was done.

When returning from church on Sunday a horse driven by Miss Jeres McPhail became unmanageable and started for home at a breakneck speed. The young lady heroically did her utmost to keep control of the now thoroughly frightened animal, but when endeavoring to pass Mr. Chas. Rennie's cutter the rigs caught, playing sad havos with both conveyances, and throwing the occupants out. Mr. Rennie's cutter, a new one, was badly wrecked. No one was hurt, however, and the horse was stopped by Mr. John Innes a little further up the road.

OBITUARY

The Late John Connolly.

We are called upor this week to record the death of one of the lodest settlers and poneers of the township of Ops.—John Connolly, who died at his residence, 2nd con- of Ops, on Tuesday, 28th inst, at about one o'clock p.m., after many months of physical suffering, surrounded by his family and friends.

Mr. Connolly was born in the township of Cavan, County of Durham, Ont., nearly 75 years ago in or near, the village of Ballieobor, where his purents settled at an carly day. He was the only son of the late Nicholas Connolly, of Ops, who came to Canada from the town of Fethered, Co. of Tipperary, Ireland, with his wife and one child—a daughter—who later on became the wife of the late Andrew Costello, of the late on. of Ops, This only sister died at the residence of her son, Mr. Francis Costello, somatwo years ago, deeply regretted by hier only brother, Mr. Connolly.

The deceased gentleman during his needla life, by the will of the people of Ops, had filled the position of Reeys and Deputy-Rears. When the County Council assembled in Peterborc he was then a member of that body, and afterwards for many years a member of the County Council assembled in Peterborc he was then a member of that body, and afterwards for many years a member of the County of Victoria, and was very highly esteemed by his fellow members. In 1878 he was closen as the liberal candidate to contest the riding in the Dominion elections, and put up a splendid fight, but was defeated.

When Mr. Connolly's filness became alarming the members of his family were summoned to his bedside, some from afar, and they responded to the eall in haste, to console their aged and loving fafter during the few weeks of life remaining. It gave gave him great consolation to have them at his bedside during his last hours on earth. The children in order of seniority are; Nicholas, at home; Frances, died in Infancy; Anastasia, at home; Franka, Wie of Henry O'Keefe, of Minto, N.D., U.S.; John, of Graftor, N.D., U.S.; Thomas, the home of the homestead; Dolly wile of John O citizen, and his kind and generous disposition, coupled with integrity and character of the highest, would

In religion Mr. Connolly was a practical and zealous member of the anywhere. The funeral, on Thursday morning, was largely attended by sorrowing friends and neighbors. The body was taken to St.

Mounted Rifles and Field Hospital Corps New Mont.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 29.—There is a rumor afloat that Britain has asked for two thousand more Canadians for South Africa. Hon. D. Borden says he knows nothing of it.

Crowds of citizens assembled on the streets yesterday morning to see the C.M.R. and Field Hospital Corps embark on troopship Victorian. The weather was clear and cold. Troops were played to the dock yard by military bands, and after saying farewell, went on board. Col. Evans received a number of messages wishing the troops good luck. At noon the Board of Inspection went through the ship and pronounced everything in perfect order. Two royal artiflery men attempted to stow away on the troopship, but were detected and brought on shore.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—Mr. W. G. Parmalee, who has been appointed royal commissioner to make inquiry into the official weighing of butter and cheese, began his session in the C.P.R. building yesterday, where there were farmers on hand to give evidence. Among those present from a distance to give testimony are John McQuaker, Owen Sound; J. P. Clarey, Savage Mills; Mr. Small, Huntington, and W. H. Walker, M. P.P., Huntington. Mr. Charles Bull lald before the commissioner a report in which he makes specific charges of unfairness in weighing, c.s. done by the official weigher of the Butter and Cheese Association, and also makes statements of irregularities as regards the issuance of certificates. The chief complaint, however, made by him is that by the rules now in force the cheesemaker loses and the buyer gains by the operation of weighing.

and by the time it is unwound from his whist, where he has carried it, there is a length of some twenty feet tweeled.

The stars are hidden by a canopy of clouds, and the darkness of the night invours their design, though sharp sy's can see something even amid the general gloom. All is silent around them—the weird noises of the city have been left behind, and in this region of royalty quietness reigns.

Jack takes the rope, and moving along the wall to a certain spot, casts if from him. Having once upon a time been a cowboy in Paras, he knows how handle a rope—every trick in that the is familiar to him, so that it only fequires a few throws in order to fasten the noose above.

Sack tries it, his weight does not disledge the rope, and he mounts upward hand ever hand, with the agility of a fack Tar. Reaching the top of the wall, he walts for Achmed, who is longer coming, and whom he is compelled to assist by an energetic pull. The dessent is easy enough, and presently they stand in the garden. Jack makes a note of the spot, by means of a cypress tree that leans toward the wall, and thus feels sure of finding it again in case of a hurry, for there is not either a the sum of the speed of those walls.

He has made inquiries of the Turk with regard to the truth of the rumour that a back of fierce hounds from the steppes of fiberia, accustomed to pulling gaunt wolves down, are let loose to the Pasha's gardens at nightfall. Achmed can attest to the presence of the dogs, for that day he saw them in their kennels, but he believes it is intended that the fierce brutes shall only be allowed their liberty on certain oe-gasions, and that the report has been alreadiated by means of the newspaneers.

them aloud in the cases, in order to frighten people who might be tempted to climb the walls and enter the Pasha's grounds. The one experience Abdallah had with inquisitive foreignits, when one of them so nearly ran off with the prize flower of his harem, has been a lesson to him. Passing among one trees, representing many countries, and along wonderful flower beds, that in the daytime present a gorgeous spectacle, Jack and his companion draw near the white walls of the palace, which is built simbething after the manner of a mosfute, having a dome, and several minafets alongside.

A great snarling from one quarter tells where the Siberian hounds are held in leash, and Jack puts one hand to where he has his faithful revolver, fo where he has his faithful revolver, for should these brutes get loose, they would overtake them long before they dould reach the friendly wall at the plont where the rope dangles, and a terrible encounter must task the prowess of the American adventurer to the utmost. Still. not a twinge of fear goes through his heart—the man does hot know its meaning, and has faced many a danger even more dreadful without filinching.

Now they reach the wall of the marble palace, and Achmed turns to get his bearings, so he may lead his benefactor to the spot where he saw the grating over the dungeon in which the "dog of a Christian" is immured. "This way," he whispers, and Jack follows without a word—they get down on hands and knees, and inch by inch crawl along, making not the faintest sound by means of which their presence can be discovered.

They pass out, and once upon the street, Jack manares to diggulee himself a little more, so that at first sight he may be taken for a Turk. Under the guidance of the faithful Achmed they gradually leave the burymart behind, and enter upon anothery mart behind, and enter upon anothery mart behind, and enter upon anothery may from his flat roof the suburbs in the direction of the Sultan's palace, which is situated upon an elevation, so that the Grand Mogul of the Turks may from his flat roof under the shalter of the canopy, lounge and look upon the farrest sort must be such that the Grand Mogul of the Turks may from his flat roof under the shalter of the canopy, lounge and look upon the farrest sort must be spend, whither some day the last of the Yolk, will retreat when Russia has a will.

The galace of Abdallah Pasha is not a freek distance from the grand for the south of the same pretensions—the building itself being of marble, filled with coatly or again, walled in, and filled with a specially the case in this word, where he does not have to be beautiful in Aroulda observation as much apscrally his case in this word, where he does not have to be beautiful in Aroulda observation as much apscrally his case in this word, where he does not have to be beautiful in Aroulda observation as much apscrally his case in this word, where he he as a fish of the proposition of the propo not doubt but that he will be able to tear the whole grating out, and thus insure an opening for Aleck to pass through.

Achmed says nothing, but goes a little farther on—the faithful armourer would mount guard while Jack holds his conversation with the man in the dungeon, so that he may warn them in time should any one approach.

It would be hard to define the feelings of the American, as he crouches low and puts his head near the grating to listen. Surrounded by the many things that remind him of the fact of his being in a Turkish garden, and a garden of a bitter enemy at that, ne yet remembers that he is Jack Evans, and his friend the brother of the girl he loves, lies in a dungeon below.

Listening intentity, he can hear no sound—all is as silent as the grave. Were it a tomb he hange over, it could not be more desolate and still—truth to tell, it is a living tomb for the wretched prisoner of the Pasha.

Jack can stand it no longer—a must speak, and know the worst. So he presses his face close down to the cruel bars, and whispers:

"Aleck i"

The sound seems to steal down into the awful darkness of the dungeon, but no reply comes back to greet him. Jack listens for a minute, and then tries again, this time in a louder key.

He believes he hears a rusiling sound—on the instant he imagines it is the clanking of chains, Achmed has not said anything about Aleck being weighted down this way, and a feeling of actual horror selzes Jack at the very thought.

listens for a minute, and then tries gain, this time in a louder key.

He believes he hears a rutling sound and such as a state of actual horrer sistes and such as a state of actual horrer sistes and any thing about Aleek Deings weighted down this way, and a teeling of actual horrer sistes and actually and a server little whistle used as a signal—it is easily given, and by a state of a stream of the state hope and fear.

"It is I—Doctor Jack."

"No. no, you deceive me—he is dead—they told me so—they swore it to me," cries the prisoner.

"Then they lied to you," coely replies Jack. "Have you any means of climbing up here to this grating so we can talk?" for he has a pretty good idea that Aleck was close to Sady at the time she cooed her farewell to him. "Yes, yes, in a minute. Wait for me—don't go away, Jack, for God's sale, I'm coming, indeed I am," he talks constantly, poor fellow, as he laboriously climbs the wall in a way he has arranged long ago, just as though he fears lest it shall all prove a delusion and a snare. "I have been up here many a night looking at the stars and wondering if Avis were watching then then. Here I am at last—I was sure to get here—where are you, old fellow? You haven't gone—you wouldn't desert your Aleck? Answer me, my brain will burst—answer, for Heaven's sake." Jack does more—he selzes the hand he has been thrust through the grat—with burst—answer, for Heaven's sake."

Jack does more—he selzes the hand that has been thrust through the grating and squeezes it in both of his—ay, bends down and kleses it, and without shame to his manhood, drops a scalding tear upon it, as he realizes how thin is Aleck's once plump member.

"Poor boy! poor Aleck! to think what you have suffered here, while I roamed the streets of Paris with every luxiny that money could buy. I never dreamed that you were alive until lately when I learned certain things that says me a clew, and I made all lately when I learned certain things that gave me a clew, and I made all haste to reach your side."

He caresses the thin hand as a mother might that of her sick child.

"I can hardly believe my senses, Can it be you, indeed, Jack? Then my prayers are answered and—bend down, and let me touch your face—I cannot sea you, but I may fee!"

The hand creep's over Jack's Jace—hew it thrills him—then a feeling of horror strikes to his soul—Aleck has said he could not see. Have they burned out his eyes in torture? It is a favourite method of revenge among the Turks.

"Great Heaven! you are not blind,

"Great Heaven! you are not blind, Aleck—they have not put out your eyes?" he cries.

"No, no, it is the darkness I complained of. I know you are Jack now, and I thank God for the fact of your coming. You can now carry the news of my fate home to Avis."

"Carry fiddlesticks! I came here to take you away with me, and I'm going to do it to-morrow night if I have to blow the whole castle of the Pasha to pieces."

"That would be Joy Indeed, but I am afraid you cannot do it, Jack. You will be caught and put to death—we could never quit the country. Better leave me to my fate."

"Don't bother your head about that. Rest assured that when Jack Evans decides to do a thing mountains won't hait him. Out of this you come in another night dead certain. I've made all preparations, edd fellow, and we'll soon be beyond the Jurisdiction of Mr. Turk."

"You give me new life—already I seem to sniff the sailty air of liberty. Yes, I will go with you, and if we succeed I shall take you to Avis—you remember how often I have talked of her—she shall reward you for your noble devotion to her Aleck."

Jack's heart beats like a trip hammer—the words seem so prophetic that he laughs merrily.

"Aleck, old man, I've got the start of you there. Avis and I are good friends—it is as much for her sake as your own that I am here now."

"Avis—you know her?" surprised and delighted.

"Know her—yes, and love her with all my heart and soul," earnestly.

"Thank God for that—it is what I have longed and deramed for in the past. Where did you meet her-where is she now?"

"We met in a picture gallery at Madrid—she was at the buils-fight, and saw me get away with a black devil of a toro that had flung the regular matador out of the ring. Some strange adventures followed, and we have hereome very good friends, indeed—sworn allies in the design of rescuing one Aleck Morton from the hands of the willy Turk."

"She is here?"

"Yes, in Stamboul, ready to lend any assistance in her power, to show her love for you. But no more need be said—I must go now. You wil

A terrible suspicion flashes into his mind—can the pasha have arrived ahead of time? Almost on the instant he dismisses it—such a thing is impossible—Mercedes was not detained in Paris like the pasha, and there has really been nothing to prevent her following them in some clever disguise.

These things go through his mind with the rapidity of lightning, and a very few seconds serve to convince him that there is no reason to believe all is lost. Of course the mystery of her presence remains as great as ever, but that may speedly be cleared up.

He turns toward the marble wall of the palace, and discovers a small opening—a window of some sort undoubtedly. In this he sees Mercedes—she is not three feet away, and Jack can account for the voice almost breathing in his ear his own name.

"You here, senorita?" he stammers, and is greeted with a low, silvery laugh.

"Senor Jack does not half know my accomplishments, or he would not be so surprised. Vaya! I am here, and every slave in this palace obeys my will. If I uttered a signal a score of janizaries would sweep the garden from end to end and wae to any living thing they found there."

She utters these words slowly, as if to allow them to fell deen into the heart of the man who listens, so that he may comprehend their full significance, and Doctor Jack, for perhaps the first time in his life, has a spasm of fear creep over him.

What will she do? She is here as the representative of the pasha, and chokes her, "I have tried in vain to do so—something comes between me and the thought every time—I believe it is the face of my sainted ...ocher in Reaven. Instead of hating, strangs as it may seem. I love Miss Morton—I would save you for her!"

Jack experiences a revulsion of feeling; his fears have hown, and in their place comes the deepest admiration for this noble creature, amounting almost to veneration. The woman who could rise above the weakness of her sex, above soelal and religious training in a country beset with the sin of retailation for wrong—for the vendette. I practised in spain even as in Corsica or our own Kentucky—such a woman is a rara avis, and deserves the deepest homage.

The American adventurer selzes her hand again and presses if hotly to his lips.

"Thank God, Mercedes, for your noble heart. I knew not what a pear! I passed by when I looked beyond you. Never, I vow, did a man know in the same day two such women as Avis and Mercedes. Understand me, I beg of you. For months I carried her picture with me, discovered in Aleck's baggage. I loved her even before I met her, though, being a cynical old bachelor, I would never admit that fact even to myself. I would not have you think I was won from you."

"Let us speak of something clse, Senor Jack," she says, quietly, realizing that he is becoming slightly hysterical in his endeavor to explain how he came not to fall desperately in love with her, and Jack finds himself brought up with a round turn.

"Pardon me—yes, it was of Aleck we were talking. Tou said you had made a solemn vow not to assist him to escape—that does not cause you to throw any obstacle in the way of my resoung him?"

"No, no. My vow was binding in but one way, and then only until he comes."

What will she do? She is here as the representative of the pasha, and has his hatred for Doctor Jack to look after as well as her own feelings in the matter.

Shaking off the dreadful clutch of that dumb monster, fear, Jack addresses the other—he must know the worst.

"Mercedes, can it be possible you have sold yourself to that wretched Turk?" he asks.

She gives a sort of hysterical laugh.
"I am his wife—we were married in Paris. I hold an istrument whereby he has sworn to immediately dispose of every slave now in his harem, and never to displace me. It was arranged through Don Carlos, who made sure that the knot was tied in such a manner that no process could defeat it."
"How came you here?" he con-How came you here?" he con-defeat it."

"How came you here?" he continues.

"On the same train as yourself, but you did not know it. There are a good many things Doctor Jack does not know—for instance, that I was aware of the visit he made Monsieur le Prefect of Police in Paris, and guessed what his intention might be."

"And you did not warn the pasha?"

"You see I did not. At the time I was already his wife, and little did I care whether he remained in Paris forever. My business was to watch you—I have done it, and, caramba! a pretty chase you gave me."

She is a mystery to him yet—a man he could fathom, but the motives that influence a woman are beyond the ken of any mortal being, not even excepting herself. He fears Mercedes now, for her power seems to threaten the one he loves—Avis Morton.

"You know why I have come here, Mercedes—to save my friend Aleck?" he says.

"Xes—her brother—I remember," with a sneer.

"You have it in your power to assist me."

"Indeed—how?"

"Did you not tell me you were here, that your word was law by the power he gave you, until he himself comes ?"
She holds out her hand, and he takes

That ring-notice it, Senor Jack.

"That ring—notice it, Senor Jack. It is the sign of my captivity, and yet it holds a wondrous power—at sight of it his slaves prostrate themselves before me."

"Then, Mercedes, you have power to open the dungeon doors of Aleck Morton—to set him free before the pasha reaches Stamboul. You will do this—I beg of you, I entreat you, by the memory of the past—"Stop! That is the last talisman Senor Jack should call to his ald. The memory of the past would cause me to cry aloud and fill this garden with his slaves seeking the blood of the Christian. You should have said by my hopes for the future. But it is all the same—uscless," find no one on board the Thistledown but the captain and crew when they search."

"You will not help me?" reproachfully.

"Ah! I forgot—you are a Yankee, and can hoodwink a Turk every day. Well, Senor Jack, you must have much to do. If fortune should decide that we may not meet again, here's my hand, and success go with you. Buenas noches."

The vision at the little window disappears—Mercedes has gone to battle sgain in secret with the great sorrow of her life, and Jack gazes only at the blank white walls where the now closed trellis shutter marks the fissure. He has received a lesson on this night he will not forget. Henceforth Jack Evans can never smile derisively when a woman's name is spoken in connection with weakness, for he has seen one woman rise above the level of her sex and grasp qualities that draw her closer to Deity. He holds his breath with awe when he whispers her name, for she has sacrificed herself in order to assist the man abe loves and her successful rival. Noble Mercedes! such a woman honours Spain.

All this while Achmed, the faithful,

Mercedes! such a woman honours Spain.

All this while Achmed, the faithful, has remained near by in an attitude that betokens him the watchful servant. He does not comprehend all he hears, but quite enough to have a broad view of the subject.

Jack now joins him, and together they make for the high wall of the

"Of you still regard me as your triend, Mercedes, how about Miss Morton?"

Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, norphine, chloreform or ether. Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS, WECHSLER.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen: I write the stestimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodio asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully.

Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am new in the best of health and am doing buriness every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

DEPUTATIONS WEDNESDAY. Three of Them Had Interviews With the

Cities and Towns.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Yesterday three important deputations waited on the Ontario Government in connection with various matters.

Mr. S. J. Breithaupt, M.P.P., introduced a deputation composed of representatives of various cities and towns in Ontario. The delegation asked that a station be established where experiments in the different methods of sewage disposal might be carried on. Among those in the deputation were: Mayor Edon, Ald. Kranz, Ald. Housberger and Mr. George Lang, Berlin; Mayor Wood and Ald. Leith, Brantford, Mayor Stamp and Ald. Savage, Stratford, Mayor Wood wand Ald. Leith, Brantford, Mayor Stamp and Ald. Savage, Stratford, Mayor Wennes and Dr. Rice, Woodstock; Mayor Kennedy and Ald. Burrows, Lindsay, Mayor Hawke and Ald. Jaffray, Gait.

The deputation explained that the question was a most important one, and disease was being prevented from breaking out in different places only with great defficulty. Numerous instances were given by the different speakers of rivers and streams being polluted and rendered almost poisonous by reason of dumping sewage into them. Large industries, it was pointed out, also had a great deal of trouble in disposing their refuse.

Ald. Jakray of Galt made the suggestion that the Government appoint a consulting engineer to give information on the subject.

Premier Ross told the deputation that he had been favorably impressed with what he had heard, and he would bring the matter before his colleagues in a few weeks' time.

Prevent Against Referendum.

Protest Against Referendum. Another temperance deputation to protest against a referendum. The deputation was composed of Rev. William Kettlewell, F. S. Spence, Rev. Dr. Carman, Rev. A. C. Single Taxer's Request

W. A. Douglas, A. J. Hodge, A. C. Thompson, F. S. Watson and W. S. Thompson, representing the Single Tax Association, asked the Pregle Tax Association, asked the Premier:

1.That each municipality be allowed the option of removing taxation from the products of industry.

2.That the settlers in the new districts be accorded the same right as the settlers in Manitoba, viz., no tax on improvements.

3.That the discrimination in favor of the holders of two acres, five acres or ten acres be abolished.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 31st, '02

MR. CARNEGIE'S GIFT.

It is cause for general congratulation on the part of our citizens that Lindsay has commenced to share in the larger benevolences of the age. The magnificent gift of a County Hospital, now approaching completion, will perpetuate the name of the donor, Mr. James Ross, of Montreal, a former citizen, who will be able to derive a kenn satisfaction from his generous act owing to his knowledge of our great, need for an institution of the kind and the untold benefit it will confer upon the people of South and North Victoria. In addition to the more material advantages the building will embellish the town from an architectural point of view, and will constitute the town's principal attraction in whe eyes of our visitors.

Now we have the welcome annoncement that Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the retired steel magnate, who is bestowing his wealth in grants to educational institutions and Public Libraries, has looked favorably upon the request forwarded some months ago on behalf of Lindsay, and has signified his willingness to grant $10,000 for a model Free Pub-It is cause for general congratula-

The amount is sufficient to erect and equip a very fine Library building, the plans for which, we understand, are furnished by the donor. It is important that the site be selected with a view to the town's growth and future needs, and the choice should not be made hastily. It is just possible that some generous citi-zen may make the task easy by do-

ARE OUR BUSINESS MEN MISSING CHANCES?

On several occasions The Post has called attention to the desirableness of Lindsay's position as a location for a furniture factory and for an or a furniture factory and for an industry turning out woodenware "notions." The securing of Messrs. Rider & Kitchener's veneer and excelsior factory was a step in the right direction, and the starting of a box, stave and heading factory by the Kennedy & Davis Co. was another. But there seems to be a brisk demand in 'the market for wooden butter dishes, broom and mop handles, and small articles classed as "novelties," and the Canada Wood Specialty Co., of Orillia, seems to find the trade a very profitable one. In less than twelve months the company turned out and disposed of nine million butter dishes, 50 carloads of broom handles, 40,000 to the car, and are now filling an order loads of broom handles, 40,000 to the car, and are now filling an order for an English firm for 82,000 chairs to be shipped to South Africa. In addition a great quantity of small wares was turned out, and the output for the coming year is bright. The company is composed of local men. Here in Lindsaywe should neglect no opportunity to promote enterprises which will take the place of our lumber and shingle mills when the suitable timber becomes enhausted or it becomes no longer profitable to transport it as far as this town.

Again it is the opinion of a number of shrewd citizens that a canoz and yacht factory in Lindsay would be a profitable industry. Eight or ten years ago the small boats turned but by Pat Doris were considered to be superior to the Peterboro cances, and even to-day the owner of a Doris Rob-Roy in good condition pannot be tempted to part with the craft. The models can secured for a reasonable sum. With Lindsay as the gateway to the Kawartha Lakes, and a great tourist traffic in prospect, there is likely to be a brisk demand for canoes, skilfs and sailing and power yachts in the near future. If our business men fall to provide for the trade the orders will be placed in Peterboro or elsewhere. Messrs. Perrin and Irwin, we understand have established a small factory. If one of our moneyed men would invest a little capital in the enterprise, and so place it on a proper footing, we feel confident that large trade would speedly develop. Bicyeling for pleasure is a thing of the past, and boating is fast libecoming more popular than ever, before.

THE WATCHMAN MUDDLED

Our cotem has gone election and Fire Hall mad. It now tries to pretend that everybody knew the effect of Aid Sinclair's disclaimer would be to elect Mr. Robsou. If Aid. Sinclair and his advisars knew it why did Mr. Sincialr accompany his disclaimer with a letter stating that he took that course in order that he might take action under the sections of the act requiring a new election. We simply reported what they not only said, but put in black and white, but when the matter was submitted to the Town Solicitor he at once said a new election was not submitted to the Town Solicitor he at once said a new election was not necessary, which is now admitted. But if Mr. Sinclair knew this why did he accompany his disclaimer with a letter attempting to mislend the Council into ordering a new election? If they knew it, they estempted to mislend; if they did not, they simply bungled in asking for a new election. Our cotem can take whichever horn of the dilemma, it likes.

A GRAIN ROUTE.

The New York Central has The New York Central has good bled up the Canada Atlantic Railway, yet this Dominion has not gone into mourning. The Vanderbilts do not acquire properties to keep them tide, and in making their Canadian road remunerative they will bring a lot of traffic to Canadian ports. The Canada Atlantic has a good har-bor at its terminus on Georgian Bay, near Parry Sound. It turns south from Ottawa to Coteau on the St. Lawrence, crosses that river and enters the Province of Quebec, with enters the Province of Quebec, with connections to New York and to Montreal. It will be extended to Levis, where it will have an occup port in summer, and connection with $1 John and Hall(ax by the Intercolonial all the year round. The grain from Chicago, Duluth and Port Arthur will be carried over the Canada Atlantic in largs quantities, and Canadians will be employed in the work of transportation. Under the Booth management, with poorer facilities than those which the Vanderbilts will be able to supply, the Canada Atlantic has done a profitable business, It will soon take its place as one of Canada's trunk lines of railway.

Mother's Warning

SPEAKS OF A TROUBLE THAT AF FLICTS MANY YOUNG GIRLS.

Headache Dizziness Heart Palpita-tion, Fickle Appetite and Pallor the Early Symptoms of Decay From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Hard study at school, coupled with the lack of attention which every young girl merging into womanhood should have, is responsible not only for the many pale faces and attenuated forms met with and attenuated forms met with such lamentable frequency, but is responsible also for the loss of many valuable young lives. First there is an occasional headache, and a sallowness of complexion, from which stages, if these early symptoms are neglected, the condition gradually grows worse and worse until decline or consumption sets in and deathly claims another victim of parental neglect. Upon mothers especially devolves a great responsibility as their daughters approach womanhood. The following truthful story told a reporter of the Sun by Mrs. O. Herman, of Third Avenue, Ornangeville, carries a lesson to other mothers. Mrs. Herman sadd; "About fifteer months ago my daughter, Kate, while attending the public school studied hard. We noticed that she began to complain of headaches. This was followed by a list-lessness and an utter indifference to the things that usually interest young girls. We consulted a doctor, and she took bottle after bottle of medicine, but with no benefit. Often she would arise in the morning after an almost sleepless night, her limbs all a quiver and fire head recling. She would be attacked with spells of dizziness, and on the least exertion her heart would palpitate-violently, and we were really afraid she would not recover, At this stage my husband suggested that we should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he brought home several boxes. Kate had only taken the pills a few weeks when there was a great change for the better. She graw stronger, began to eat better and to have better color, and from this stage it was not long until she was again enjoying the best of health and able to resume her studies at school. I might also tell you that these pills cured my ranghter so that you see we have much reason to praise them, and I carnestly recommend them to all mothers whose daughters may be suffering as mine dd."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all diseases that have their origin either in a poor or watery condition of the blood and strengthen the nerves with every dose that they cure such trou

The decorations were particularly neat and tasty. A sumptuous wedding dinner was enjoyed, at the close of which short congratulatory addresses were given, which were duly acknowledged by Mr. Fox on behalf of himself and bride of twenty-flux years ago. Rose Free was the maiden name of his wife, and one of those present remarked that although Mr. Fox had picked a rose from the garden of femiline humanity he afterwards found that he had really plucked a daisy.
Miss Fox and Miss Mabel Free, presided at the planof during the evening, the latter giving a number of delightful songs. Mrs. Fox was the recipient of many beautiful tokens of esteem, the special gift of her; husband being a silver tea service and a cheque for $1,000.00.

County Detective Needed.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me space in your valuable journal to offer a tew suggestions to our County of ricials as to the necessity of a reorganization of the County constables. In Victoria there are a good ly number of constables in different parts of the county, but, who knows them, or where to look for them, when they are wanted. Where can the list be seen? I venture to assert that our high constable, S. Nevison, cannot tell who they are, or where to find them, hence the necessity for a re-organization of the force at as early a day as possible. Again, there is another reform which I consider is absolutely necessary if we wish better arrangements for the capture of criminals, viz. the substitution of circulars for post cards. This former are enclosed in envelopes and the contents are not only made known to the constables, to whom they are sent, but to the postmasters, through whose office these cards pass.

Again, the days in which we live call for a more up-to-date method of capturing criminals. No, once will dapy that the criminals of the present day are talented, educated men or women, who make this business a matter of study. They have methods known only to themselves, and as a rule the common constable—a, farmer or mechanic,—or any office should be successful inferreting out a robbery case, therefore it is an absolute necessity that the county should have a county detective, whose office should be in ferreting out a robbery case, therefore it is an absolute necessity that the county should have a county detective, whose office should be in consulty. If this was done I venture to say there would be a saving of mency to our county—stricted in our mone, who theroughly understands this business.

The writer is aware that such a person can be obtained in our county. If the officer and moreover everyone would be a decrease of crime in our midst. Many suffer wrongly in our county, but force as a County Detective under a competent man to account of the officer and moreover everyone

SUGAR BEET ACREAGE.

The Canvassers Will Report to County Council Friday.

County Council Friday.

Messrs. Wm. Channon and Johnston Ellis, the canvassers for sugar beet acreage, completed their initial series of meetings last Monday evening, whice they addressed an andience at Fingerboard.

In the comparatively small section of Mariposa and Ops canvassed by them they secured contracts for 750 acres, and report that the farmers are commencing to evince a keen interest in the sugar beet proposition. A report covering the work done will be presented to the County Council at the Friday session, and should prove interesting.

A GROWING INDUSTRY, The beet sugar factories of Michigan have an aggregate capacity for handling 6,600 tons of beets per day, and during the year just ended 66,400 acres of beets were Harvested, for which the growers received $3,107,520. The average output of sugar per ton of beets at the Michigan factories is 210 lbs.

output of sugar per ton of beets at the Michigan factories is 210 lbs., which for the present season amounts to 125,496,000 pounds, or 82,748 tons, or 4,183 carloads of 15 tons each. This amount would make a solid train load of sugar 31.6 miles long. This amount is 75 per cent. of Michigan's yearly consumption of sugar. Its value at 4.1-2 cents per pound is $5,647,320. Next year there will be 17 factories in the States, and it is expected that 980,960 tons of beets will be produced and converted into sugar.

To produce 3,000,000 tons of beet sugar annually would require 000 plants each having a daily capacity of 500 tons of beets. These plants would represent the following investment and annual business: investment in plants, $500,000,000; cores of beets, 3,000,000; valuation of land growing the crop. $150,000,000; cores of beets, 3,000,000; value of beets, $185,000,000; cons of ceal used annually, 1,800,000; freight paid railways annually, 218,000; freight paid railways annually, 1,800,000; freight paid railways annually, 218,000; freight paid railways annually, 1,800,000; freight paid railways annually, 1,800,000; freight paid railways annually, 1,800,000; dand 1,200,000 men employed railsing beets during the season.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Canadian Northern Railway announces a reduction of 2 cents a bushel on the freight rate for grain between Manitoba and Port Arthur. That means a million dollars extra profit to the farmers. Apparently, there is some meaning in the phraserallway competition after all.

Canada's pork, butter and cheese product of last year was worth $40,000,000, or within $17,000,000 of the value of the South Mricau gold yield. And Canada's agricultural interest is a growing one that in a few will increase those products to make the Transvaal gold output lock insignificant.

We are in receipt of a hand-book issued by the Mayor of Renfraw containing a compilation of facts regarding Renfraw's municipal growth since assuming the status of a town. The Mayor says he does not wish to include in "undue glorifection," but he endeavors to show the progress made in six years and the attractions, business and otherwise, of the place. Renfray's example in thus advertising itself ought to put Lindsay to the blush.

Weekly Sun, Toronto; We are informed by the Post Office Department that no reduction in the salaries of pastmasters has been made under the present administration, and that the contracts for carrying the mails are always let to the lowest tenderers in the manner prescribed by statute. The law under which mail contracts are let has not been changed since Mr. Mulock took charge of the Post Office Department. The Sun desires to do full justice to Mr. Mulock, and gladly gives publicity to the above statement.

The Watchman-Warder man is still sore because the electors ignored his choice corterle of municipal candidates and placed The Post nomines in office. Because of that ling-ring irritation he attempts to poke fun at us on the strength of the heading. "New Election Sure," placed over our report of the inaugural meeting of the Town Council. That the obstuseness displayed by our cortom during the contest is not yet dispelled is made painfully evident by this attempt te prove inconsistency on our part. Any person gifted with ordinary horse sense could see that the headline in question had reference to Mr. Sinciair's conversation with our resporter, in which he stated that his object in "disclaiming" instead of resigning his seat was to compel a new election.

In reply to a Single Tax deput.

In reply to a Single Tax deputation, Premier Ross said that "he was much impressed with the Manitoba system, which did not tax settlers improvements, and with the idea of allowing municipalities to abolish taxation on improvements. These were within the scope of rational legislation However the Assessment Commission's report, which would soon be presented, would deal with these questions." So far, good, if we cannot have an ideal assessment system for the whole province, let us have local option. When one town or city decides that it will not tax incomes, nor personal property, and that improvements to buildings shall not cause an increase of taxation the only way to prevent capitalists manufacturers and other desirable citizens from going to that town the only way to prevent capitalists, manufacturers and other desirable citizens from flocking to that town will be for other towns to follow the good example and offer similar inducements. The question will soon settle itself if local option is permitted.

Mail and Empire: By the official count the actual loss on the Pan-American Exposition is now ascertained to be $3,326,144. One of the principal causes of the failure assigned by the American press is that the management relied for advertising upon cheap tricks to get free notices in the newspapers. The outcome is another proof of the futlity of attempting to get something for rothing.

Referring to the proposed compulsory retirement of Judges who have become by age or other cause untit for duty, but who refuse voluntarily to leave the bench, the Believille Intelligencer expresses the opinion that "howaver objectionable It may be to interfere with what has been regarded as the independence of the bench," the law may be necessary in the interests of litigants and justice. "We have," it says, "heard of Judges who in our opinion have abused the privilege which they enjoy of absolute independence of the government, by refusing to retire unless a superannation allowance of their full salary was paid them. This proposition should not be entertained by parliament."

One of the most practical measures the rational temperance reformer could promote would be a social campaign to weaken the tyranny of the treating system. Let it become had form to treat, and treating will die out, as the gross afterdinner drinking of a previous generation has died out.—Montreal Star. An effective campaign against the treating habit would do more for real temperance and the protection of the young than any prohibition law, however stringent. Why should one man buy liquor, for another, or others? Why should a man accept liquor treats as a matter of courtesy when he would resent an offer to buy him a meal or pay for his bed?

Considering the area of the country in which military operations are being conducted in South Africa, the enormous length of communications to be maintained, and the number of troops in the field, a comparison of the cost of the Bogr war with that of the war for the suppression of the Filipinos will be interesting. In round numbers the Boer war costs Great Britain about twenty million dollars per month. The Filipino war costs the United States twelve millin dollars per month The Filipino war costs the United States twelve millin dollars per month. The British have two hundred thousand men employed in their war, wille the Americans have only forty thousand. Fritish military operations extend over a country as large as Europe, exclusive of Russia, while the campaign in the Philippines confined to an area less than that of the Orange River Colony. From these main facts in connection with the two wars it would appear that the Boer war is conducted more conomically than the Filipino war. Considering the area of the coun-

THE LEGISLATURE

Members-Answers by Ministers.
Toronto, Jan. 27.—In the Legislative Assembly to-day Hon. G. W. Ross, in reply to Mr. Wardell, stated that the total amount on deposit in the banks to the credit of the Government on Jan. 15th was $2,180,-815. The receipts from all sources between Dec. 31, 1991, and Jan. 15, 1992, were $819,966, of which $669,643 was for Dominion subsidies.

If, after the lapse of reasonable time Lynch fails to surrender, it will be in the power of the Government to move that he be expelled from the House of Commons, at the same time probably punishing Galway by disfranchisement.

There was a clear understanding with the Irish party when Lynch was nominated that if he should be elected he would take his seat, but apparently he will not fulfil his part of the contract.

Hom. E. J. Davis, in answer to a question by Mr. Wardell, stated the official returns showed the number of settlers going into the territory lying northwesterly from Lake Temiskaming and between Lake Nipsissing and Abitibi in 1901 to be 957. The returns, however, furnished no account of the number of persons in each family. The agent estimated that the total permanent increase to the population was 1,500.

Mr. Beatty moved for a return of a copy of any report or other document, made to any department of the Government by the Engineer, or other officer or person, who surveyed the route of the proposed Temising Railway. CAMPAIGN IN LISGAR.

Public Meetings to Be Addressed by Mr. Sifton Have Been Arranged.

Rat Portage, Jan. 28.—Hilliard House, the largest hotel here, was burned down yesterday. The hotel is in the heart of the business section. The fire has been got under control. The estimated loss amounts to about $90,000 or $100,000, only about half covered by insurance. Amongst the buildings which were destroyed are the Hilliard House, Queen's Hotel, Wilson's store, Gardner's meat store, and some outhouses. Considerable damage was done by smoke, heat, and water.

Fire in School.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—A pretty fair start has been made by the Vanderbilt interests in gobbling up Canadian railways by the acquisition of the Canada Atlantic system. Dr. Seward Webb, the leading spirit of the New York Central, arrived here yesterday, the guest of the Governor-General. After luncheon at Rideau Hall, he was driven to the residence of Mr. J. R. Booth, who built and owns practically all the stock in the Canada Atlantic. For an hour and a half the two railway men were in conference. As. Dr. Webb came out he was asked what progress had been made in the negotiations. progress had been made in the negotiations.

He replied briefly and to the point:

"All arrangements for the purchase of the Canada Atlantic are completed, all but a few minor details, which I hope to have settled before I leave for New York to-morrow." Dr. Webb then entered the vice regal carriage and was driven back to Rideau Hall, where last night he was a guest of honor at a swell party.

Senator Snowball's Appeintment.

Hon. Mr. Snowball has resigned his seat in the Senate in order to become Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick. He will succeed Hon. A. R. McClelan, whose tenure of office has expired. The names of two gentlemen are mentioned as likely to succeed Hon. Mr. Snowball. One is Mr. Robert Thomson of the Thomson Shipping Company, St. John, and the other is Mr. F. P. Thompson, foundryman, of Fredericton. Hon. Mr. Snowball is the son of Rev. John Snowball, a Wesleyan minister, who came to this country from Yorkshire, and was born in Lunenburg, N.S., on Sept. 24, 1837. He was educated at Mount Allison Wesleyan College, Sackville, N.B., and afterwards settled in Chatham, N.B., where he engaged in the lumbering and shipping business. Mr. Snowball was very successful in business, and his operations are now conducted on an extended scale. He is, next to Mr. Gibson, the largest lumber operator in New Brunswick, and exports heavily to the European and other markets. He is the owner of several saw-mills and a fleet of tugb boats, which latter were built at his own works. Mr. Snowball has traveled extensively in Europe, and is well informed upon public questions and commercial affairs. He is a gentleman of line appearance and urbane manners. In 1874 Mr. Snowball contested Northumberland County as the Liberal candidate against Hon. Peter Mitchell, but was unsuccessful. At the next general election he carried the county, and sat in the Commons until the election of 1882, when he retired. In 1891 he was called to the Senate, Government May Assis Sig. Narceni. Board of Works Matters.

Ald. O'Rielly, chairman, handled the business. Aften a number of accounts had been dealt with Mr. John Mallett's $60 claim for damage caused by overflow water was considered and refused. A report presented by Commissioner Chaimers was read and dealt with clauses by dause. With reference to the disputed account for stone crushing, the Commissioner said he had measured 18 cords, and five had been left uncrushed. The foreman of the crusher maintained that he had actually crushed something over 19 cords, but the bill presented by the County was for only 18 cords. The latter quantity will be paid for.

It was decided to call for tenders for a quantity of limestone and granite for the granclithic walks to be constructed next summer.

on Monday afternoon and evening the Y.M.C.A. was invaded by a large number of women and children, enthosiastic over the classes being formed by Mrs. Scott-Raff. In the afternoon Mrs. Raff formed three classes—one for boys and girls under fourteen, one for girls above fourteen, and one for adults. Again in the evening another class was formed, before the public meeting. In all slaty persons enrolled. This speaks well for the good sense of the Lindsay women.

One of the features of the evening was the question drawer answered by Mrs. Raff. Some wanted to know whether a costume would be necessary, others whether such training would be helpful in vocal music, how long it would take, and what it was warranted to do. To all these Mrs. Raff replied in her usual hueld and pleasing way.

Following the question drawer was a short addross by Mrs. Raff. She touched on the necessity of reform in dress, and emphasized the need of a return to mature in thought. The great are those who come in close contact with nature. The idea of physical culture is to give expression to the highest and best in one, to teach one can fulfil her life's work without physical drawbrack. Miss Silver sang and after Mrs. Raff's talk light refreshments were served and most of those present had the treat of a few intures' chart with the director of the new symnashum.

The onthusiasm of the ladies of Lindsay in the effort made to procure classes of physical culture was markedly shown by the large attendance in the evening and by the appreciation of the members of the exercises.

The regular classes will begin on Taestay, Jan. 28. They will be di-who had the privilege of taking the exercises.

The regular classes will begin on Tucsday, Jan. 28. They will be divided into four-for married women, for young women, for schools girls, for children. The day and hour for each class will be definitely amounced next week. For next Tucsday, the children will meet in the Y. M. C. A. at 4.30, the girls at 5. The adults will meet at 8 in the evening. This gymnasium in the Y. M.C.A. building is now ready, and the classes will henceforth be held there-entrance from Lindsay-st.—at seven p.m. on Tucsday, Those wishing to join any of the classes can get information from the president, Mrs Herriman-Stevens, or the secretary, Miss Keith.

Peterboro Cheese Board Rules

(Peterboro Review, Monday.)

Members of the Peterboro Cheese Board held another of their meetings on Saturday afternoon at which they again gave consideration to the rule looking to a more satisfactory conduct of the Board's business between buyer and seller. Mr. Drummond, the president, occupied the chair. There was a good attendance of members.
Certain of the rules were taken up and considered, and the adoption of a clausa from the rules of the London Board with respect to the duties of the inspector was moved by Mr.
Riddell and seconded by Mr. W. Anderson. The clause read as follows:

The Fencion Falls Hockey Club

Dear Sir.—In reply to a few lines of "hot air" in Friday's Fencion Falls Star, in which, among other things, was stated, that Fencion Falls had in the last two years, played Lindsay eight games of hockey and had wen six, we wish to state that at no time in its existence, with the exception of the Simpson Cup games, did Fencion Falls play, let alone defeat, the Senior hockey team of this town. Their games last year were with the Trent Valley League team, and this fact necessarily barred the seven best players we had. In the Simpson' Cup games Fencion were defeated twice and tied the other game, and as for Gill. he was employed by the GTR. Co and satisfied all the requirements of the OHA. We are at present in trouble with the O.H.A., and only wish'to say, that at some time in, its existence nearly every club in Ontario has been suspended pending investigation of certain charges.

The Lindsay Hockey Club will have much pleasure in playing the team from the Catarart Burgh's as soon as our standing with the O.H.A. is made known. We are not particular about terms and will play in Fencion Falls first, if necessary! Before talking of having a try for O.H.A. honors, Fencion will need to get a rink large enough to play on and put enough light in it to enable visible players to see the pock at least five minutes out of ten.

The game which was to have been played here on New Year's day, was expected on account of our inability to secure the ice on the holiday, and not through any fault of our minuagement.—Yours, etc.,

The members of St. Mary's congregation will learn with deep regret of the death, in New York, on Monday last, of Rev. Peter Cassidy, S. J. Father Cassidy will be remembered as one of the three eloquent Jesuit priests who conducted a mission as St. Mary's last fall, and whose sermons were particularly impressive and effective. Pneumonia was the cause of death. He was born in Ireland in 1845, and taught at St. Francis Xaviers, St. John's, Eoston College, Georgetown University, and was president of St. Peter's College in Jersey City for three years. He spent the last four years of his life in missionary work in Canada and the States.

Growing! Yes, into weakness, but not strength. Studies—plenty of them. Tired, of course, she is, and weak too. Does not eat enough; and digests far less than enough. This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozone, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirits buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough making blood, and thereby attengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozone gives a woman's strength to weak girls. Your daughter or wife needs Ferrozone. Get it to-day.

Wolves are reported very numerous in the wilds of Hallburton and Muskoka this year. A few days ago a party of Americans, halling from Pennsylvania, were in the vicinity of Dorset inspecting timber. One of the party strayed away from the others, and after going a couple of miles he heard the howling of wides. Looking around, he observed a pack of the vicious brutes coming towards him from over a high cliff. In order to save himself from being devoured he took off his snow-shoes and seturied up a tree, which was speedily surrounded by the manesters. After remaining a prisoner for a couple of hours he was released by his comrades, who came along heavily armed and soon made short work of the wolves. As there is a bounty of $10 on wolves some of our Lindsay sports, who now waste their good ammunition on rabbits should take a trip north.

WELCOMED BY PUPILS OF ST JOSEPH'S CONVENT.

Presented With an Address and Boquet

— A Delightiul Musical Program Rendered—The Archdeacon's Reply
Among the many hearty greetings received by Venerable Archdeacon's Casey since his advent into the Parish of Lindsay, none was more cordial than that extended to him on Wednesday evening by the pupils of St. Joseph's Convent. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, all—even the little tots—braved the danger of being lost in the snow-banks, and their bright, glad faces, and their sweet voices as they sang their welcome chorus, must have gladdened the heart of their new spiritual father.

Clotilde McGinniss.

To Venerable Archdeacon Casey; Reverend and Dear Father,—We,
the children of the Convent School, are to-day assembled to extend to you with words of love and greeting, —Welcome, a hearty welcome, to Little more than two months ago our hearts, and those of our parents and friends, were well uich crushed with grief over the great loss we had sustained. The inevitable hour came quite unexpectedly for our beloved father, Right Reverend Monsignor Laurent, and he, whose priestly life had been devoted to the noble work of uplifting frail humanity, resignedly obeyed the summons. That most consoling dogma of our holy religion, the Communion of Saints, at such times brings to us consolation and peace, in the divine assurance that the good die not and that death is but the going on before. We, his Zonvent children, whom he so particularly favored, have his encouraging words, his teaching, his unselfish interest in our welfare, and above all, his example, as incartives to become better children of that church which testifies the highest ideal of the soul. Pardon us, dar Pather, if, on an occasion like this, we make much reference to our dear departed Loving remembrance of your predecessor must be a guarantee of our devotedness to you. Tidings preceded your coming of the universal regret experienced in Peterboro by the severance of the sacred ties which for eight years united pastor to people, father to children. In our own, as in the episcopal city, you will find warm, true, loyal Catholles, whose faith is dearer to them than all things else, whose clergy are loved and love father word dignity as the Lord's Annointed must ever command, and whose hearts you have already won through your unvarying kindness to and love for the little ones, and the earnest and successful efforts you have ever made for the promotion of that cause so dear to the heart of the Divine Master—the grand and holy cause of education.

Again was ay to you—"a most hearty welcome" May your recent reprete ere long be merged in affection for Lindsay. May you be spared for many yours to the sacred service of the Most High! May you have ever mode for your great and generous heart for your loving Convent children.

Archeleacon Casey's Reply.

The Revered Father, after congratulating the young ladies on their creditable performance, said that, as in leaving Peterboro one of his greatest regrets was the severance of thes with the children of the schools, so on coming to Lindsay one of this greatest pleasures he experienced was the kindly welcome from the little ones. He congratulated the Sisters of St. Joseph's upon the excellent work which they had accomplished in Lindsay. Other schools of the kind taught nothing beyong Entrance work, but here the young lades enjoyed the advantage of being able to obtain certificates and fit themselves for any position in life, the while they were surrounded by all the safeguards and helps of religion that would enable them to realize in their lives the Catholic ideal of woman. In conclusion he asked them to pray that ha might be long spared to continue the good work of h's predecessor in Lindsay.

Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan, being called upon, expressed his pleasure at being present to Join with the children in welcoming Ven. Archedencon Casey to his new field of labor, and voiced the hope that the manifestations of affection which marked the commencement of their new relationship would be but the forerunner of a long and lasting friendship.

The Singing of the National Anthem brought the pleasant evening to a close. Archileacon Casey's Reply.

DEADLY CIGARETTE AGAIN

What Medical Exam ners Di covered i the Chiego High Schools.

Cigarette smoking is held responsible by the medical examiners of the Chicago Schools for a startling increase in heart disease and nervous ailments among pupils in the High schools. The condition was reveated by examinations recently held for admission to achietic sports.

Boys and girls were subjected to the same examination not one girl was found unable to pass, while a large number of the boys, in almost every case smokers, were found to be in such a weake physical condition which made violent exercise of any kind extremely dangerous.

found to be in such a weak physical condition which made violent exercise of any kind extremely dangerous.

Twenty-me out of one hundred were found unfit and all but three suffered from some form of heart trouble.

Juvanile smoking seems rather approved of them otherwise in Australia. Incredible though it may appear, they have already discussed the advisability of attaching smoking rooms to the schools.

The Belleville-Outario contributes the following to cigarette literature; The annual tea meeting at Cannifton church was well attended. Those present took a great deal of interest in the meeting, especially in a word duel between two clergymen, which was not on the programme. Rev. C. H. Fusse used a cigarette to start the explosion. He was making an address on the evils of the tobacco with a fire at one endl and a fool at the other." Rev. Mr. Duprau was present and he immediately took exception to the remarks of the reverend gentleman from Melrose. He said he would smoke a fool of himself in doing so. (A heated discussion followed between the two preachers, until Mr. N. Vermilyea, who was chairman, arose to call them to order, and to pour oil on the troubled waters. "The politician will have to quiet the preachers," he remarked pleasantly. Rev. Mr. Fusee tendered an applogy to Mr. Druprau, but the latter would not accept it. After the meeting was over the two preachers were busy discussing the tobacco question outside the church. Honors were about even.

"EVERYBODY KNOWS US."

"EVERYBODY KNOWS US."

A member of the staff of this journal in calling upon its readers fraquestly asks as to the results of adtaining. Very often he is met with the reply that "Oh, we don't need to advertise, everybody knows us." A greater mistake was never made. Because a house is old established is a very poor reason for not advertising, and because a good conaction was worked up with the help of advertising is the warrant for keeping it up, but certainly not for dropping it. We have conversed with intelligent business men well up in their particular line who, in discussing the matter of advertising, were ever ready to admit that the other fellow needs to advertise. "He came here a stranger a few years ago and he had to advertise, but I've lived here all my life, everybody knows me and everybody in the came here a strainger a few years ago and he had to advertise, but I've lived here all my life, everybody knows me and everybody in 'the county knew' my father.' It is just such reasoning that puts one out of patience. There he sits like a bump on a log taking whatever trade comes from the 'old reliables' that used to deal with his father when he was the only merchant in those parts. As time moves on these 'old reliables' gradually drop off, this places are taken by their soms and daughters, or by strangers. The latter are unacquainted with the merchant under discussion. They take the local paper, see the bright and breezy advertisements of the mean that had his acquaintances to make and conclude that had is the man that had his acquaintances to make and conclude that had is the man to buy from. This merchant while he is getting all the new residents of the locality also httracts many of the older ones by his progressive advertising and goods to back up what he says. In the meantime our "well-known" merchant is finding fault with the times, the location, the people and everything and everyone but himself because business is falling off. The man who is trading on a name made by previous advertising is just as foolish. To make advertising pay the merchant must keep everlastingly at it.

Many Years.
The annual joint convention of the C.E. Society and S.S. Association, which was held at the Methodist church, Fencion Falls, on Thursday and Friday, January 23rd and 24th, was a gratifying success. With the exception of the address to have been given by Hon. John Dryden, M.P.P.,—regrets being expressed freely on all sides at his inability to attend,—every purt of the program was carried out faultlesslys. Every address delivered and every paper read shewed careful preparation. The preparation given to exceed, however, the completeness of the arrangements made for the comfort of the deligates—the hospitality of the citizens of Fencion Falls is wholehearted, and Rev. Mr. Gerrbutt and his staff of sarnest workers are to be congratulated on the success which crowned their efforts. The annual joint convention of the

The Opening Session

The Opening Session commenced at two o'clock Thursday afternoon with devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. W. Suggett, Valentia, The secretary, Miss E. A. Pogue, Reaboro, read, the roll call, which was followed by the reports of officers. The secretary reported 29 societies in the County with a total membership of over 1500. Three bright papers on Junior Endeavor were read: "Alms," by Miss Matthews, Lindsay; "Hindrances to Junior Work," propared by Mrs. J. J. Morgan, Omemee, and read by Miss A. Lacey, Kirkfield.

"Fruits of Christian Endeavor" was taken up under three-heads, and excellent papers were read. "Interdenominational Fellowship," by Mrs. W. A. Leigh, Lindsay; "Tenth Legion." by Miss Ella Johnston, Frencon Falls; "Quiet Hour," by Mr. R. H. Reid, Reaboro.

Rev. W. Kannawin, Omemee, gave a spirited address on "Y.P.S.C.E. and Young Men." The session was brought to a close after two informing papers had been read; "Need of a befinite Purpose," by Mr. A. Gilchrist, Woodville, and "Need of Enthwissm," prepared by Miss Dunoon, Lindsay; and read by Mrs. (Rev.) Sinclair, Fenelon Falls.

Thursday Evening Session

Thursday Evening Session

This session opened with a short song service, followed by devotional exercises, conducted by Mr. R. H. Reid, Reaboro. Rev. J. Garbutt, of Fencion Falls, in well selected words, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Mr. W. A. Leigh. Lindsay, Mr. E. Sackville, of Lindsay, favored the audience with a pleasing solo.

"Home," was the title of a most interesting address by Rev. G. Brown, of Omenee. The address abounded with good common sense, a vein of humor running through it. Miss Graham rendered a solo with much acceptance.

The address by Rev. J. A. R. Dickson, B.D., Ph. D., of Galt, a most enthusiastic Endeavorer, was one to be long remembered. The rev. gentlemen showed clearly the work being done by the C.E. and the necessity of greater effort and carnestness. The officers for the ensuing term were as follows; President, Mr. E. Peel, Lindsay; ince-pres, Mr. E. W. Sackville, Lindsay; junior supt., Miss M. King, Oakwood; treas., Mr. A. Gilchrist, Woodville; editor, Miss Matthews, Lindsay; junior supt., Mrs M. Friday's Proceedings.

Friday's Proceedings.

Friday was Sunday School day and it was packed full of interest from the beginning to the end. At the morning session the Executive committee announced that it was their policy to organize Township Associations and then retain only a County Executive committee. The suggestion was received with much enthusiasm and stops were at once taken to organize groups as follows: (1) Mariposa and Ops west of the Scugog; (2) Emily, Ops. cast of the Scugog and Lindsay; (3) Eldon and Fenelon; (4) Verulam and Somerville; (5) Bexley, Laxton, Carden, Digby, Dalton and Longford. A roundtable conference, touching all questions concerning the young, conducted by Mr. T. Yellowlees and Rev. W. Kannawin, proved to be one of the most interesting and profitable sessions of the Convention. Discussion was general and earnest and must prove helpful, to S.S. and C.E. work. The afternoon session was also interesting. Papers on live topics were presented by Mr. W. W. Jardine, B.A., Omeme, Rev. W. J. C. Robeson, of Little Britain, and they were fully discussed. At 3 o'clock the children of the village turned out in force and listened with interest to an eloquent illustrated lecture on "Ship Signals" presented by Mr. Thos. Yellowlees, of Toronto. The signals "Yes," "No," "Answer," "The Captain is on Board," "I am Slinking," "I Want a Pilot," etc., formed themes for a score of practical and useful suggestions to the boys and girls.

Two addresses in the evening concluded the convention, one by Mr. T. Yellowlees, brimming full of enthusiasm for Sunday School work, and one by Rev. L. S. Hughson, of Lindons by Rev. L. S. A special to The Record-Herald from Toledo, Ohio, says: The Church Hugging Society, organized last week at the Belle Centre, Ohio, is raising no end of disturbance there and at other points in the State. It was at first proposed rather as a joke by some fun-loving girls connected with the little village church, but created so much excitement that the society was formally organized, with B. C. Bates, as president and Miss bemilson as acting secretary. The schedule approved is as follows; Girls under 15 years of age, 15c. for a long hug of two minutes, or 10c. for a short squeeze; under 20 years, 50c.; from 20 to 25, 75c.; schoolmarms, 40c.; other men's wive $1; old maids, 3 cents each had no time limit. The society has forty-three members, and on Thursday evening an up-to-date performance was given along the schiedule lines. Another is set for Feb. 1st. The old people of the church are up in arms.

Lindsay is Interested.

At the inaugural meeting of Peterboro Council the other day Ald. Morrison stated that one matter which needed investigation was the constant presence of so many fakirs from outside polits canvassing the town for business. During the week he had been solicited to buy pictures, picture frames, books, tea, etc., by mer who paid not a cent of taxes, and who hurt the business of the local menchants. He would like to see a good stiff license imposed on pedlers, with a rebate to local men. This matter should be taken up in Lindsay, and it is certain that a great deal of injustice is being perpetrated on our business men. It is a fact that representatives of Toronto and other wholesale firms working on commission canvass the town and sell tea, sugar, rice, coffee, etc., in small quantities, and other pedlars offer onvolopes purs, paper, link, herdware, underwear, and hundreds of other articles. hardware, underwoof other articles.

Society Mothers and the Dance
Evangelist McHardy, now in Galt, has a poor opinion of dancing and dancers, and is saying some very pertinent things about both. He advises mothers as follows: Some mothers with daughters on their hands said they would not get them into the best society unless they were good dancers, because the best society dances "If those mothers sknew what they were about," said the speaker, "they would a thousand times rather see the girls old malds, yea, double-barrield ones at that, than acquaint them with a social custom which has been the raination of many a girl. Down in Toronto tho yours men rent a dress suit for the evening for a dollar and a ball, put on a lifty cent white shirt, adont their shirt fronts and fingers with pasts diamonds, grease the hair with castor oil, and the girls at the ball say, 'What a "dood,'" and fairly die to dance with them." The Beet Sogar Industry. THE CONDITIONS ESSENTIAL

TO SUCCESS

As Pointed out by the Organizer of the Wiarton Co.

We take the following from last week's issue of the Monetary Times, in the hope that it will interest our.

enders: Sir.—My attention has been directed to an editorial in your esteemed paper of issue of January 3rd last, under the caption: "Beet Sugar Making." While there is no direct statement in that article which could be deemed injurious to the comcould be deemed injurious to the com-pany I represent, viz., the Wharton Beet Sugar Mfg Co., Limited, yet an inference may be drawn from it which is unfair to us, at least. The Berlin proposition is not the only one containing the elements of suc-cess; in fact, I am convinced that when the facts are known, Berlin does not monopolice.

when the facts are known, Berlin does not monopolize all the conditions which tend toward success in beet sugar making.

Your article is quite correct when it says that those who are projecting beet sugar enterprises in the province should be careful to inform themselves as to whether they have the nucleus of success in their propositions. This is just what has been done at Wiarton.

Putting it broadly, the following done at Wiarton. Putting it broadly, the following conditions are absolutely essential to success in the beet sugar business: First, an ample supply of beets assured, second, a high percentage of sugar content, and high purity of the beets; third, good transportation facilities by railway and water; fourth, good water supply, easy of access; fifth, a good factory site; sixth a good supply of suitable limetone.

tion facilities by railway and water; fourth, good water supply, easy of access; fifth, a good factory site; sixth a good supply of suitable limetone.

Of this first, Berlin no doubt is assured, and so is Wiarton. Wiarton make a successful campaign for next tall. Of the second, it be be of interest to state that in the fall of 1899. Professor Shuttleworth analyzed the Wiarton beets and his report showed Wiarton beets and his report showed Wiarton beets to have the highest sugar content in the province for that season, with a very very high purity. The reason for Wiarton's exceptionally good showing is explained by the presence of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, these immense bodies of water equalizing the temperature and prolonging our season of sunshine and high temperature into late fall, thus extending our ripening season weeks longer than; in the midland counties. Today Toronto Bay is frozen solid has been for weeks; colopy's bay has not been frozen over this winter. At Guelph and Palmerston there is barely enough for sleighing as yet. The temperature of Wiarton is almost as high as Hamilton. The presence of immense limestone deposits in this region gives a soil which produces beets of singular purity. When it is remembered that an increase of one per cent. in impurity prevents the crystallization of one per cent. of the sugar content, this fact becomes one of the high-set importance.

While we have a late, warm, sunshins fall, we have also a late, cold spring, which is, in the sugar business, a larch is an about of the beets. Thus the working season of our factory can be prolonged for two weeks to a month longer than at points where spring opens up carry. For this reason, a factory of $50 tons' capacity can bandle approximately as man a ton, and coke of $1.50 per ton, over the cost of at most inland points.

Our limestone can be put into the factories projected in Ontario the cost of quarring, about 25 cents a ton; while for most of the factories projected in Ontario the cost will be chanced to $1.50 per ton by freight charges. The case with which water can be placed in the factory in great quantity is a valuable economic feature at Wiarton, It has been estimated that Wiarton, It has been estimated that Wiarton, and the seen estimated that Wiarton and Junisian cost of coal coke and ilmestone will amount to about $100 and day during operations.

Add to that the high percentage of saccharine matter in our beets, and consider the fact that a difference of one per cent. In sugar content means, at 15 per cent. See saccharine, 105 tons more sugar from 70,000 tons of beets, and that 700 tons of sugar costs approximately nothing but the handling—the cost of working 14 per cent. beets—and it will be seen that the projectors of the Wiarton enterprise have well and duly wighed their situation and found it not wanting.

CARRIAGE OF CORPSES.

Central Passenger Association Will Enforce the Rules.

Central Passenger Association roads have issued a circular notifying their connections that they will hereafter enforce their rule relating to the transportation of corpses. The rule provides that no corpse may be checked unless accompanied by some person paying rull fare and without the presentation of one full fare ticket for the corpse. It appears that it has been frequently ignored and that corpses have been checked without being accompanied by anyone or without the payment of full fare. Some have been checked on half-fare tickets.

THE COLLEGIANS WELCOMED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE.

The Programme Wan a Popular One and Recalls Were, Numerous and Recalls Were Numerous

The fifth series of lectures under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute was opened by a concert last Thursday avening. This served admirably to brighten up the course another opportunity to hear the boys from old 'Varsity A largo audience greeted the Collegians, and a more enthusiastic crowl could not be desired. Every number was encored and some double encores were added.

cesared. Every number was enadded.

The instrumental numbers rendered were very much appreciated, especially these by the Banjo and Mandolin Clubs and by the Sanjo and Mandolin Clubs and by the Sanjo and Mandolin Clubs and by the Sextette.
The flautist was unfortunately "put out of business" almost completely by the failure of the piano to see eye to eye with his flute in the matter of pitch, and so the headence was deprived of one of the best numbers on the program. However, Mr.
Abbott, flautist, Mr. Lucas, 1st violit, Mr. Rolph, 2nd violin, Agricola, Mr. Rolph, 2nd violin, Mr.
Parling, viola, Mr. Wagner, cello, the incomparable Smedley, were in high favor with the audience. The Gies Club's selections were largely of the racy and rollicking sort and consequently captivated the major portion of the audience, especially the boys. The more critical ears would have been better pleased with a larger selection of part sorgs and higher class music. The "Three Chafers" were the best pieces and were exceedingly well given. Mr. Criugan has the boys well in hand and their distinctness of enunciation was very pleasing.

Mr. C. E. Clarke was the vocal soloceedingly well given. Mr. Crugan has the boys well in hand and their distinctness of enunciation was very pleasing.

Mr. C. E. Clarke was the vocad solosist. His numbers were "King of the Britons," (Godfrey's new song), "Big Ben," "The Baniolero," and a coon song with humming accompaniment for the repeat of the last chorus. He sang them all well, but his best number was "Big Ben." This be sang with fine feeling and a smoothness and richness of voice that made the beautiful old song very effective. The coon song was verypleasing, its pathos being finely brought out.

The other numbers on the program were by Mr. Brophy and Mr. Shaw. Mr. Brophy is new ito a Lindsay audience, but he will command a warm welcome on his return. His specialty is the rendition of humorous recitations, and this he does in a most finished way. The Colonel's recitation of Marc Antony's funeral oration, with spring-arm accompaniment, will live in the memory of the andence for a long time. Mr. Shaw is well known in Lindsay, but added very much to his laurely fundamenter reader in Canada. "Glancus and the Lions," a seen from Lytton's Last Days of Pompel, was most powerfully rendered, and the scene from "Midsummers Night Dream," representing Nick Bottum, Peter Quince and his companions preparing for an amateur play, was delightful. No better dramatic reader than Mr. Shaw ever appeared in Of Mr. Smedley's part in the program it is hardly necessary to speak.

Lindsay.

Of Mr. Smedley's part in the program it is hardly necessary to speak.

He is simply irresistible and completely captured the nutlence. He is always a favorite in Lindsay.

The first lecture in the series will be given probably on the 3rd or 4th Friday in February, by Mr. Rodolphe Lemleux, M.P., for Gaspe.

Nothing is more common to child-hood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution, or more likely to paye the way to dangerous disease. Among the symp-toms by which indigestion in infants or more likely to pave the waly to dangerous disease. Among the symptoms by which indigestion in infants and young children may be recognized are loss of appetite nauseu, eructations, coated tongue, bad breadth, vomiting, hiccough and disturbed sleep. Indigestion may be easily cured, and Mrs. F. K. Begbie, Lindsay, Ont., points out how this may be done. She says; "When my baby was three months out she had irdigestion very badly. She would vomit hier food just as soon as she took it, no matter, what I gave her. After feeding she seemed to suffer terribly and would scream with pain. She seemed always inugry, but har food, did her no good and she kept thin and delicate. She was very sleepless and suffered also from constipation. We tried several medicines recommended for these troubles, but they did her no good. Finally I saw Buby's Own Tablets advertised and got a box at Mr. P. Morgan's drug store. After giving them to her she began to improve in about two days, and in a week's time I considered her well. A Candid Expression of Opinion.

A correspondent writing to the Hamilton Times censured that journal for printing Bishop Potter's de-nunclation of prohibition, and imput-ed motives of a personal nature, which drew forth this mild rebuke and candid expression of the editor's

We very willingly admit the right of our Irieud to differ from the Times our this or any other subject, but we object to his diagnosis of our motives. If all men were lks the editor of the Times, the saloons would quickly close for lack of patronage, for their aggregate profits would not amount to five cents a year. That settles the "appetite" suggestion, and there is no more in the insinuation about 'hope of gain" than in the other. The liquor sellers are not liberal patrons of the newspapers, either in the way of advertising or job printing, and the money spent for liquir would do the printers a great deal more good if it were spent for groceries and dry goods instead.

So let our Weir correspondent understand that our opposition to prohibition is the opposition of a total abstuner, and the opposition of nowho does not believe that the use of intoxicating liquor is either necessary for the individual or beneficial to the community. We oppose prohibition because we are convinced by stady and by observation that it cannot be made effective in the cure of indulgence in intoxicants, and because, in our opinion, a prohibitory law does more harm than good. We have seen the Dunkin Act, the Scott Act and the Maine law in operation, and without going into the particulars we can say that we saw enough to prejudice us against prohibition in general Hon. Mr. Ross is not the conscience-keeper of his political supporters, any more than The Times occupies that position does not believe that one population the great improvement in the habits of the Canadian people with regard to the use of liquor during the last quarter of a century, and we confidently anticipates this greater improvements. But we regard the advocacy of prohibition as a hindrance, and not a ket, without ones of respect on either side.

the Canada Atlantic R.A. had been purchased by American capitalists. The line from Depot Harbor to Vermont is a moncy-maker.

—The capital stock of the C.P.R. is to be increased by twenfy millions of dollars, all of which will be expended in betterments. The Lake Superior section will be double-tracked, and a huge sum will be catten up in new rolling stock and elevator and other terminal facilities.

—Even railwaymen strike luck sometimes—when they quit the business. John A. Bunting, a New York brakesman, left the Southern Pacific three years ago and invested his savings in Texas oil lands at $2.50 per acre. To-day his is worth ten millions and is revisiting oid scenes, travelling in a private car.

—On Monday evening last a very pleasing entertainment was hield in St. Paul's Schoolroom under the auspless of the Willing Workers of that church. On account of the very cold weather the attendance was small, but those who did attend enjoyed a good treat. This principal feature of the program was "The Story of Kardoo," an Indian Mission girl, which was read by Miss Alice Beal in a pleasing manner. Miss Leary, Miss G. Brown and Miss Cora Walters contributed solos, and Misses Edith Soanes and V. Dyer rendered a duett which was much appreciated.

The ball given in Twomey's hall at Fenelon Falls Tuesday, under the auspices of the Cataract Club of that village, was a great success. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion and the music was supplied by a local orchestra. A number of young people from Lindsay were present and spent a very enjoyable evening. Are Running

A Barnar lo Boy Injured.

We have been informed by a Lindsay citizen that an accident took place on the G.T.R. at Utterson, Muskoka, on Sunday last, as a result Muskoka, on Sunday last, as a result of which a twelve year old Barnardo boy named McMarren lost a leg. A heavy south-bound freight train backed into the siding at that station to let a through passenger train pass. Young McMarren, desiring to onlyoy a ride while the train was moving down the long siding, attempted to board one of the box cars, but lost his hold and fell, the wheels passing over his left leg below the knee. He was pleked up in an unconscious condition by the train crew and taken on the locomotive to Howland's hospital, Huntsville, where Dr. Howland amputated the leg.

Curling Notes

-By defeating Oshawa on Tuesday the Lindsay Ciub has the right to take part in the Ontario Tankard finals in Toronto as representatives of Group Five. We understand that all the games in the different groups, must be played by Feb. 4th, and we hardly think it would be too all the games in the different groups, must be played by Feb. 4th, and we hardly think it would be too much to expect from the Executive of the Ontario Curling Association that they would bring on the finals in the Tankard games the latter part of next week, or postpone them until the latter part of February. Lindsay is the only club in the Tankard finals that purposes sending a disk to Winnipeg, and whilst in the first place this rink is going primarily for their love of the game and the pleasure they will themselves get from the outing, still they are the only representatives of the Ontario Curling Association that will take part in these matches, and the whole duty of upholding the honor of the Province will rest upon this one Liadsay rink, and we feel sure that the Executive of the Ontario Curling Association will so arrange matters (that whist Mr. Flavelle and his men are in another Province doing their best to Taring fresh oursels to the Ontario curlers in their competition with the curlers of the North-West and Northwestern States) that the Lindsay Club may not be weakened in the Ontario finals through the absence of one of their rinks. We feel that not only every point should be strained, but that it will be strained in order the finals to be played on the 5th ard 6th of next month, or if that cannot be done, to postpone all matches until the last week in February. The contest only lasts one and a half days, and there is never any trouble in getting good curling weather for that length of time at the end of February. we never had any such nursing bottles, baby foods, palatable medical preparations or soothers as you can find on our shelves at any time now. We have soothing powders, soft sponges, talcum and puffs and anything for the baby's tollet and bath, as well as toilet water of improved quality and make for mamina as well as the baby.

The Peterboro Band Concert.
Owing to an unfortunate combination of events the attendance at the concert given Tuesday evening in the Academy of Music by the 57th Regiment Band of Peterboro was somewhat silm. It was assuredly not due in the smallest degree to lack of appreciation, as our citizens still remember with keen pleasure the fine concert given by the band last year, and those who were present last evening enjoyed a program that would reflect credit upon any concert band in the province. Bandmaster Gliddon has every reason to feel proud of his musicians.

—The general meeting of the Litcrary was held last Friday, when the newly organized orchestra favored the students with several selections. Their musical director, C.
D. McAlpine, deserves credit for the way in which the orchestra rendersid the different selections, which were of the most difficult and high classical style. Besides this, Miss

Moase-Rodman.

A very pretty weiding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moase, ir. "Villa Dell," Fingerboard, on Jan. 22nd, when their eldest daughter, Miss H. A., was united in marriage to William G. Rodman, of Fingerboard. The ceremony, which took place at 4 o'clock, was purformed by Rev. J. E. Robeson, assisted by his colleague, Rev. A. R. Maundars, in the presence of over the bride and groom. The bride look of cheming in a handsome gown of cream cachinere trimmed with applique silk and chiffon. Miss Vida Moase, sister of the bride, and Miss Gertrude Moase, cousin acted as bridesmalds and wore handsome gowns of white dimity trimmed with lace insertion and silk ribbon. Mr. C. Rodman, brother of the groom, and Mr. A. Stacy, cousin, officiated as groomsmen. Mrs. G. W. Jones, of Newtonville, played the wedding march very gracefully.

After the ceremony and usual congratulations the company repaired to the dining room, where an elaborate wedding dinner had been prepared. When ample justice had been done to the ample repast, a toast was proposed to the bride and groom by Dr. Hall, of Little Britain, which was very ably responded to by the groom. Another toast was proposed to the parents for their kindness to the friends assembled; it was ably responded to by the groomsmen. Mr. C. Rodman, brother of the groom, and Mr. A. Stacy, M.D., of Toronto. A third toast was proposed to the parents for their kindness to the friends assembled; it was ably responded to by Rev. I. E. Robeson and A. R. Maunder, of Little Britain, who spoke of the position the bride and groom had taken in connection with the cundary School department, in which the bride had proved herself to be a diligent scolals when we are very inclement, and the grootly number remained and sport a sociable time together. The presents were numerous and exceptionally handsome. The happy couple left Thursday morning via the G.T.R., amilist showers of rice and Markhale. MARIPOSA SABBATH SCHOOLS convention in the Methodist church, Little Britain, on Monday, Jan. 27th, 1902.

The Annual Convention Held Last Monday-Interesting Discussions.

The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. E. Robeson, after which the minutes of the previous convention were read and adopted. At three o'clock Rev. L. S. Hughson, Lindsay, gave a very interesting and practical address dealing with the subject, "The value of a human soul, and the time when a child should be brought to Jesus Christ." Those who listened to that address was followed by a "Round Table Talk," conducted by Mr. T. Yellowlees, in which the whole assembly took a hearty interest and subjects were discussed very freely. The children from the day school had in the meantime gathered in the centre of the church, when Mr. Yellowlees gave a very interesting address on "The voyage of Life," representing to the friends the different signals that are used by the seamen.

The collection was then taken and the afternoon session was brought to a close by singing. The friends from a distance were billeted at different homes for their tea. All report baving been used well.

The evening session opened with the usual devotional exercises led by A. R. Maunders, after which Mr. S. N. Ruttan, of Little Britain, gave an address upon the subject, "International Lesson Surroundings," which was very instructive. This was followed by the reading of the report of the business committee by Mr. Wm. Suggett, of Valentia, when the following officers were again appointed; President, Mr. R. Corbett, Valentia; 1st Vlee-Pres., Mr. Isaac McKee, Little Britain; 2nd Vlee-Pres., Mr. Cark, Manilla. A vote of thanks was then tendered to all the friends. Next followed an address by Mr. T. Yellowless, of Toronto, upon the subject, "The Responsibilities of Parents and Teachers." This address was one of the finest parts of the convention, for the speaker spoke from years of experience and a heart burning with love for God and a desire to save souls.

Mr. Wm. Yeo cang a solo very nicely, entitled "Crown Him Lord of All." Miss Edua Greeway, also rendered a solo, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The convention was then brought to a close.

Washington, Janl 22— Assistant stationed in British North America.

Some time last summer a Canadian customs flag was forcibly removed by Americans from a building occupied by the Canadian officials at Skaguay, Alaska, and that incident intitiated a correspondence which resulted in an agreement between the United States and Canada, that neither should display its flag in the Appointment of Canadiar agents at foreign centres, where Canada does business, who should be required to furnish to shippers an exporters of Canadian goods information calculated to facilitate and develop trade. Reciprocal trade on at equitable basis with Australia. Substantial assistance towards direct steamship communication with Australia and South Africa. At present the exports of heavy Canadian goods to Australia go by way of New York, resulting in heavy transhipment charges and vexatious delays which render it difficult to compete with United States exporters. With respect to South Africa it was recognized that the privilege of shipping Canadian merchandise to that country had given an incentive to Canadian exports, but trade would be put on a more permanent Canadian exports, but trade would be put on a more permanent and satisfactory basis by the Government subsidizing a line. The imposition of a net duty of 30 per cent, upon woollens instead of a duty of 35 per cent, with the tariff preference of one-third off. Equalization of the duty on oatmeal, as compared with that upon oats, by substituting a specific duty, of 60 cents per 100 lbs. in place of the present ad valorem duty of 20 per cent. upon the former. Extension of same encouragement now given to Iron and steel industries to new branches of those industries as they come to be established in the country. The readjustment of the tariff in so far as it affects agricultural implements and cottons was also urged. During the discussion the Ministers asked numerous questions, and seemed desirous of informing themselves as fully as possible upon the points raised. The deputation had, however, to rest content with a promise that the representations made would be considered. Several of the Montreal members of the deputation returned home yesterday afternoon. Prologation of the War Credited to His Determination.

Amsterdam, Jan. 23.—Since the Short have practically decided to waive their demand for the independence of the South African republics, great gloom has pervaded their head-quarters here and at Hilversum. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's recent speech, in which he promised that there would be a general anmesty, with political rights speedily given, seems to reduce matters to a point where agreement is possible.

It is admitted that but for Gen. Dewet and other Boers in the field, who are still fighting for independence, peace would be a matter of weeks only.

Mr. Turner of Hamilton added his protest against a prohibitory law, and Mr. P. Freyseng, representing the cork manufacturers, said that that industry would be ruined if prohibition were passed. Over a half a million of dollars was invested in it in Ontario, and that would be wiped out, hundreds would be turned out of employment, and thousands of dollars in wages lost to Ontario if any such legislation as that proposed was ever passed. Should such a thing ever happen compensation should be made for their loss.

The loss is about $80,000. The guests on the first floor saved their belongings, but those on the fifth floor had to run for their lives in their might clothes. Some of them had to be taken out of the windows with ladders. One man held on for ten minutes by the window sill in his nightshirt until a ladder reached him. other visitors from the north have been here in numbers, and come regularly every winter. Perhaps they come south owing to scarcity of their food supply, or to the severe

Gen. Vilonel.

London, Jan. 27.—A report from Lord Kitchener from Johannesburg gives the important capture of Gen. B. Viljoen in the neighborhood of Lydenburg, Transvaal Colony, as well as the capture of small parties of Boers claewhere.

The capture of Gen. Viljoen, who was Gen. Botha's most able lleutenant, and who has given the British a great deal of trouble in the past, has created lively satisfaction in London.

Gen. Viljoen is the Boer general who was captured prior to Mafeking, and was exchanged for Lady Sarah Wilson.

reen Got Away.

Pretoria, Jan. 26,—Col. Wilson last Saturday captured 20 Boers near Frankfort, in Orange River Colony. He was preparing at dawn the next day to move away with his captives, when a superior force of Boers made a desperate effort to recapture the prisoners. A hot fight ensued, in which all but three of the prisoners escaped, and in which a few men, were killed or wounded on both sides.

Commandant Beyers Is Desperate.

Johannesburg, Jan. 26.—The British force under Lieut. Giddy, which has been operating in the Nylstroom district, has killed one Boer and captured twelve others, including Field Cornet Snyman, who had a quantity of dynamite and fuse in his possession with the intention of blowing up the railway line south of Warm Baths. The prisoners who were taken say that the Boer commandant, Beyers, is making for the wood bush mountains. He has two cases of dynamite which he unearthed recently on a farm near Riet Vlei and declares that he will wreck trains on the line whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Pretoria, Jan. 26.—Lord Kit-chener has authorized General Vilon-el, a surrendered burgher, to raise an additional Boer corps of 1,500 men.

General Vilonel has written a letter to ex-President Steyn, warning the latter of his intention to form such a corps, and adding that the Boors in the concentration camps are tired of the useless struggle, and are determined to help the British end it.

The Hague, Jan. 27.—The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Herr Melvij Van Lyndon, replying Saturday to an interpellation on the subject in the First Chamber of the States General, said he had done his utmost to secure the release of the Dutch members of the Red Cross Society, who are held as prisoners in Ceylon, but was forced to admit regretully that those persons had placed themselves in an almost indefensible position by carrying Boer letters.

The fact that these documents were of no importance did not alter the violation of strict neutrality. The case, the Minister said, was bound to have an important bearing upon the question as to what service a neutral ambulance corps might render in future wars.

Got From Colonies.

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 27.—The placing of contracts in Argentina by the British War Office, to supply meats and other produce for the troops in South Africa, has engendered irritation throughout Australia. This action of the Imperial authorities is regarded as evidence of the reprehensible indifference to the claims of the colonies, as ill-according with the expressions of Imperial solidarity, as poor repayment for the sacrifices for the colonists, and generally as grave injustice. Most of the premiers of Australia and the Premier of New Zealand have cabled to the Imperial Government strong protosts in practically identical terms, saying that the two colonies are able to supply What a change you'll find coming over you! 10 Inches Thick—trains Were Late.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Toronto was buried beneath a mantle of snow vesterday to a depth of fourteen or riteen inches on the several, and several feet in spots. It was the worst enowstorm in a quarter of a century, with one exception. The exception was Dec. 5 and 6, 1898, when there was a fall of sixteen inches of "the seautiful," The trolley cars made fair-y good progress and not much deapy occurred except in spots. The team railway trains, though, were all from one to seven hours late, the greatest block being on the C.P.R.

Worst of the senson. Worst of the Senson

Ottawa, Jan. 23.—The snowcorn yesterday has been the worst of the season. It taxed the recourses of the Street Railway Comany to keep up anything like a regolar service, but they managed it except during about an hour in the fiternoon. The great North-Western elegraph wires are down between the and Toronto, and the Toronto rain due here at 5 p.m. was five cours late.

Stage Routes Blocked

Belleville, Jan. 23—A-rainstorm, great damage to trees in this disaccompanied by a heavy gale, did great damage to frees in this district yesterday. Snow preceded and followed the rain, and several of the stage routes were blocked.

Sant Up For Days.

St. Catharines, Jan. 23.—A great storm has been raging throughout the Niagara district for the past twenty-four hears, and business has been completely demoralized. There is over two feet—of wet snow on the ground, and traffic on the streets is almost at a standstill. The trolley lines are tied up tight. The Grand Trunk have managed to get their trains through on fairly good time. It will be some days before traffic in the city and surrounding country can be resumed.

Resolutions Adopted.

Sir M. B. Daly moved the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the Catholics of Halifax, Nova Scotia, in meeting assembled, protest emphatically against the insult offered to their dearest religious convictions in the declaration to the oath of accession, and, as loyal Canadian subjects of the empire, keenly resent both the offensive assertions and insinuations contained therein."

Senator Power moved the second resolution, as follows:
"Resolved, that as the religious belief of Catholics does not diminish their loyalty nor restrain them from shedding their blood in the cause of the empire, they protest against, and resent the singling out of any article of their faith for special rejection or condemnation by the Sovereign, and respectfully ask that this unnecessary and offensive reference be entirely blotted out from the adoresaid declaration.

"And, further, that the resolution and proceedings of this meeting be transmitted by the chairman to the Riight Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies."

Both resolutions were passed unanimously.

PRINCE'S VISIT

Luncheon and Dinner in His Honor at Berlin, Germany.

WARMLY WELCOMED BY KAISER

The Imperial Family Seconds the Em peror's Efforts-The Emperor's Reference to the Imperial Tour of the British Colonies-H.R.H. Called Upon Count Von Buelow, Imperial Chancellor, Berlin, Jan. 27.—The Prince of Wales arrived here at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. Emperor William and a brilliant staff were present at the Lehrter Station to receive the Prince. Many of the personages who are now in Berlin for the Emperor's birthday were present. Sir Francis Lascelles, the British Ambassador, was also there. The Kaiser and the Prince exchanged cordial greetings, and drove off together to the Palace. The streets along the route were decorated with evergreens.

When the Prince of Wales arrived at the railway station he wore the uniform of an officer of the First German Dragooss. Emperor had on the uniform of an colonel of the First British Royal Dragoons. The Kaiser embraced the Prince, and shook his hand heartily. Meanwhile, the band played "God Save the King." The Kaiser and Prince entered two state carriages, and drove into the city, under an escort of cavalry. There were great crowds along Unted den Linden, as the party drove toward the royal Palace.

Yesterday passed without any disrespect being shown to the Prince of under an escort of cavalry. There were great crowds along Unted den Linden, as the party drove toward the royal Palace.

Vesterday passed without any disrespect being shown to the Prince of Wales. German crowds have a too-deeply abiding respect for royal personages, and are too thoroughly policed to openly show an unfriendly feeling toward them; but, in a city where the lifting of one's hat is as universal as ordinary civility, it was singular to see the passing crowds with never a hat raised, and to hear no nurmurs of applause.

He visited the Prussian Prince, Count Von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor, the various ambassadors and other distinguished personages this morning. Soon after 1 o'clock, Emperor William and the Prince drove in a closed carriage to the barracks of the First Royal Dragoons, Queen Victoria's Own. The triumphal archway of evergreens had been erected in front of the porch of the barracks, and the regiment drawn up in parade order. The band played the British Anthem, and after the regiment had marched past the Emperor and the Prince of Wales, the latter proceeded to the regimental messroom, where luncheon was served. The party included the British Ambassador to Germany, Sir F. C. Lascelles, and his staff, Princes Albrecht and Wilhelm Ertel-Friedrich and Prince Henry of Prussia. The luncheon terminated at 3 o'clock, when the Emperor William returned to the Castle, and the Prince of Wales took a train for Potsdam, there to visit the Duchess of Albany, and to lay a wreath upon the tomb of the late Empress Frederick.

In the evening Emperor William and the Empress gave a dinner; intabeth Hall of the Castle, at whin the British minister, Count Von Buelow and Count Von Waldersee, were present.

low and Count Von Waldersee, were present.

Emperor William, in his speech toasting King Edward, at the military luncheon in the barracks of the First Royal Dragoons, touchingly referred to the death of Queen Victoria, and adverted to the wonderful colonial tour of the Prince of Wales, as exemplifying the greatness and extent of the British Empire. He invited the company to drink to the health of the Prince of Wales, as the representative of the British army, to which toast the Prince of Wales suitably responded.

Dominion Will Erect a Pavillon With 6,000 Feet of Floor Space.

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—Mr. Charles Devlin, Emigration Agent for Canada in Ireland, who has been here conferring with Hon. Sydney Fisher touching the Cork Exhibition, states that everything has practically been decided with reference to the display Canada is to make there. It is expected that the King will open the Exposition about May 1, and it will remain open until November 1. The Canadian Government will erect a fine pavilion at Cork, with a floor space of 6,000 feet. It will pay the charges on its own exhibits, but not the charges on exhibits by private parties. Mr. W. D. Scott is to be commissioner for the Cork Exposition, as well as that at Wolverhampton. There is a likelihood that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will pay a visit to Cork on his way back, to Canada from the coronation festivities. A big propaganda will be put up by the Irishmen in the United States and Canada, in order to induce a large attendance of outsiders. In this they will be assisted by several of the large steamship companies, which will run direct to Cork.

NORLAND.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Mrs. G. W. Allely is very ill at present, suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Arnold Wakelin and Cuthbert Sprung are both able to be around again, after a severe illness caused by pneumonia.

Mr. William Adair is able to be out again, after hiving been taid up for a week or two with la grippe. We are very much pleased to see Mrs. A. Martin around again after a lengthy illness.

One would infer from the above that there has been considerable sickness at Norland and in the surrounding country of late.

Mrs. Brintnell, of Berley, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. Fox. returned home on Saturday last.

Mr. S. B. Trick spent Monday last in Lindsay on business.

Miss N. Bowhey spent last week visiting friends at Gelert.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Perkins were in Lindsay last Wednesday and Thurstay attending the funeral of a little niece. Miss Clara Parkin, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Parkin.

S. Champion, tailor, is moving his household effects from Lindsay this week to Oakwood, where he purposes residing in the future. Since coming here he has been very busy, and with work enough on hand to keep him going for three weeks things are looking alright. As the follow said, "it's fits that tells."

Oakwood and vicinity will be deserted Friday night—all are going to the basket social at D. A. Andersou's. Most of the folk know when to go—when a good time ahead of them is a sure thing.

Nearly one hundred and fifty bead of cartile is not bad buying for one day's work. We understand Mr. T. Bowes, our hustling drover, accomplished this feat in the south end of the township.

Once more our town hall of Oakwood was the scene, of a liquor inquest. On Tuesday Mr. Keslick, of Cresswell, appeared before the "Beak" to answer to a charge of selling liquor. After half a day's hord work trying the case his Worship found the accused not guilty, and Mr. K. wort home a free man,—if not a wiser one.

The basket social held in Mr. D.

Noble's house under the auspices of the Ladles' Aid of the Christian church on Jan. 17th, was a grand success. The house was crowded with people from all parts and Little Britain especially was well represented. A good program was given acd then the baskets were sold and went remarkably well. Forty-seven baskets were offered for sale and they sold for $45. One choice basket was a record-breaker, being sold for a five dollar bill. As usual it was from Britain. The proceeds amounted to about sixty dollars.

On Monday, Jan. 27th, the annual Sunday School convention was held in the Methodist church here. The afternoon meeting opened at 2.30. A large crowd was present, each circuit being well represented. Mr. Hughson, of Lindsay, gave a fine address, and Mr. Yellowlees, gave a fine talk to the children on Signals. The evening session commenced at 7.30. Mr. S. W. Ruttan, of Britain, gave a fine talk off "Parents whishelp and parents who hinder the Sunday School. Mr. W. J. Yeo and Miss Greenaway sang soles. Mr. Yellowlees gave some sound advice to purents and teachers. Mr. R. Corbett was appointed president and Mr. J. McKee 1st vice-president. The convention will be held at Valentin next. Mr. W.
